U. S., Britain Act To Avert Middle East Arms Race

Egypt Accepts Russian Offer

NEW YORK, Sept. 27 (AP)—Egypt's announcement that she has arranged to obtain weapons from the Moscow orbit raised American and British fears tonight of an arms race in the tense Middle East.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and British Foreign Secretary Harold Macmillan issued a joint statement calling on Russia and other nations not to contribute to such a race.

Egypt said she would obtain the arms from Czechoslovakia, a Moscow Communist satellite, in exchange for cotton.

Concern was felt in official American and British circles that the arms Egypt would get include "heavy" weapons of a type the Western Powers refused to send to Egypt.

Bombers, Tanks Sought

Egypt is understood to have offered to buy from the United States such material as jet bombers, heavy tanks, artillery and naval vessels.

The Americans and British were represented as feeling such equipment would upset the balance of power in the Middle East.

They were willing to supply arms to Egypt but only to the extent needed for internal policing and defense from external attack.

Egypt then notified Britain she had accepted a Russian offer to supply her with arms.

Later, Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser told a crowded meeting in Cairo the arms would come from Czechoslovakia, a Russian satellite and home of the Skoda munitions works.

Conditions Rejected

He said the Western Powers declined to supply arms unless Egypt agreed to conditions that he said Egypt could not accept.

"We never will attack or threaten anyone else, but the Western Powers have refused to give us arms for defense," Nasser said.

Nasser did not elaborate on the conditions.

In Washington, State Department officials said conditions offered Egypt were exactly the same as those accepted by other friendly governments.

British, Soviet Will Exchange Warship Visits

MOSCOW, Sept. 27 (AP)—The Soviet government and the British Embassy announced today warships of the two countries will exchange visits Oct. 12 through Oct. 17.

A British squadron of six ships headed by the aircraft carrier Triumph will call at Leningrad, and six Russian warships led by the heavy cruiser Alexander Suvorov will visit the British naval base at Portsmouth.

The Triumph, by coincidence, is one of only two British warships which have called at Soviet ports since World War II. It visited Leningrad under the command of Adm. Lord Fraser. Adm. Sir Algen Algernon Willis, commanding the Mediterranean Fleet, visited Sevastopol in 1947.

The British squadron will move into Leningrad with full-dress panoply.

Roaming the streets and squares of the grey, fogbound old imperial capital will be 200 officers, 150 midshipmen, 1,800 sailors and the gaily uniformed Royal Marine Band.

Watching over them — in case there is any trouble as the tars get acquainted with Russian vodka, Russian girls and Russian hospitality — British navy shore patrols in special British jeeps will patrol the city's streets in cooperation with the Leningrad militia.

This is believed to be the first time foreign police have been invited to help keep order in Leningrad.

Nixon, Military Leaders Confer

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27 (AP)—Vice President Nixon capped off a busy day today with a conference at the Pentagon, and still had work left over.

Nixon was in the conference with the military leaders for an hour and 22 minutes.

He told reporters, as he left the Pentagon, that he came to "discuss items that normally appear on National Security Council agenda."

The vice president said that whenever he expects to preside over one of the weekly NSC meetings he usually meets with officials to discuss the agenda.

He said the items on the agenda —this week's meeting will be Thursday—are "just routine matters."

Nixon went down in the private elevator from Defense Secretary Wilson's second floor office and entered his car to go home for dinner. He said he might go back to his office at the Capitol tonight, or, if not, have a secretary bring some work to his home.

The vice president said he plans to have breakfast at 8:30 a.m. EST tomorrow with Sen. Knowland (R-Calif) in Nixon's office at the Capitol.

At 10:00 a.m., Nixon's schedule calls for a meeting with Dillon Anderson, a White House adviser, and James S. Lay, executive secretary of the Security Council.

Secretary of the Navy Thomas is scheduled to meet Nixon at 11:50 a.m.

Death Ends Child's Fight Against Cancer

ASHLAND, Ky., Sept. 27 (AP)—Death ended little Diana Oney's two-year fight against cancer today.

The petite, blonde 6-year-old, was stricken with cancer two years ago. An arm was amputated to stop the disease. Early this summer the cancer began spreading to her lungs.

Reducing Wife Given More Time In Diet Divorce Case

CHICAGO, Sept. 27 (AP)—Mrs. Lillian Korzen, 44, who has been trying to lose 63 pounds in five months to win back her husband, got an extra three weeks at deadline time today and a word of encouragement from a judge.

On motion of her attorney, who said her job prevented her appearance in court, Circuit Judge Charles S. Dougherty continued the diet divorce case to Oct. 20.

Two days ago, her attorney, Edwin C. Powell, disclosed she had shed 45 pounds since early May but still had 18 to go. She was trying to reduce from 190 to 127, her wedding day weight.

Judge Dougherty, hearing the case for the first time, told attorneys that regardless of what Mrs. Korzen weighs Oct. 20 the case will be decided on the scales of justice.

"That's all right with us," remarked Sol R. Friedman, her husband's lawyer. "The scales were her idea in the first place."

Her husband, Michael, sued for divorce in May charging cruelty. He charged she had let her weight run away from her.

Mrs. Korzen, who sued for separate maintenance in a cross complaint, then offered to trim her weight to its wedding day figure. Korzen said he'd take her back if she could do it.

Judge Cornelius J. Harrington approved the arrangement at that time and set the deadline for Sept. 27.

No Delegation Of Power May Be Necessary

Brownell Discounts Situation's Urgency Following Briefing

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27 (AP) — Atty. Gen. Brownell suggested today President Eisenhower may be able to perform all his essential duties again before it becomes necessary to delegate them to someone else.

The first problem laid before the attorney general as he hurried back from a vacation in Spain was the one of delegation of powers—that is, who should perform needed executive functions if Eisenhower is unable to do so?

News "Emergency"

"The Denver news today is encouraging," he said, referring to reports that Eisenhower, stricken by a heart attack last Saturday, had "a very good night" last night. A later bulletin said the President was "comfortable and cheerful" and had spent much of the morning outside his oxygen tent.

Brownell said there was general agreement that there was no need for any action today on the question of delegating executive powers.

Brownell had indicated to newsmen in New York earlier that he would prepare an opinion as quickly as possible on the question of delegating the President's powers. Such opinions are his responsibility as the executive branch's top legal official.

Constitution Not Clear

Most students agree that the Constitution is not clear on what is to be done in the event a president is unable to perform executive functions for an appreciable period of time.

Chairman Celler (D-NY) of the House Judiciary Committee said in New York the question is one for Congress to answer. He said neither Vice President Nixon nor the White House "palace guard" has authority to act.

In the absence of any formal opinion from Brownell, Nixon continued to shoulder some of the burdens, conferring with top administration officials about what he termed "government affairs."

Egypt, Israel To Withdraw

JERUSALEM, Israeli Sector, Sept. 27 (AP)—Egypt and Israel agreed conditionally today to a U. N. request that they withdraw their troops from the demilitarized zone along the Sinai borderline.

The request was made yesterday by Canadian Maj. Gen. E.L. M. Burns, chief of the U. N. observer corps in Palestine. He first asked that both sides pull back their forces by 6 p.m. local time tomorrow. Tonight he extended the deadline until the same hour on Thursday.

Egypt agreed, "with reservations." An Egyptian spokesman at Gaza declined to disclose their nature.

Israel also entered reservations. A Foreign Office spokesman here said Israel reserves the right to retain frontier positions in the area as long as Egypt maintains forces opposite Nizana-el Auja in the demilitarized zone.

Hatoyama Says No

TOKYO, Wednesday, Sept. 28 (AP)—Prime Minister Ichiro Hatoyama told the Cabinet yesterday he had received a "very indirect" invitation to visit Moscow but rejected it on grounds of health, the newspaper Asahi said today.

Powerful Janet Sweeps Island, Nears Honduras

MIAMI, Fla., Sept. 27 (AP)—Hurricane Janet, a tremendous storm with the killer instinct, ripped across Swan Island with 125-to-135 m.p.h. winds today, then headed toward British Honduras and Yucatan.

At 5 p.m. EST, the year's 10th storm and one of the most powerful, was centered near latitude 17.5 north, longitude 85.1 west or 75 miles west of Swan Island and 225 miles east of Belize, British Honduras.

Janet's furious winds were believed to have smashed a Navy hurricane hunter plane with 11 men aboard somewhere between Guantanamo Bay and Panama. The plane was last heard from early yesterday and hopes that the men would be found dimmed hourly although an intensive search continued.

Janet Leaves 200 Dead

The missing plane, attached to the Navy Weather Squadron at Jacksonville and flying out of Guantanamo Bay, carried nine crewmen and two Canadian newsmen. Scores of Navy planes and ships combed an area midway in the Caribbean, where the ill-fated aircraft was last reported.

Janet, with an estimated 200 dead in her winding wake through the Caribbean Sea, was moving west-northwest at 21 miles an hour. She had hurricane force winds extending outward 80 miles from the center with gales 250 miles in the northern and 100 miles in the southern semicircle.

The storm center was expected to crash onto the mainland in the Chetuman Bay area just north of Belize late tonight. Immediate precautions were advised in British Honduras, particularly in the north portion and in Quintana Roo Province of Mexico, against dangerous hurricane winds, abnormally high tides and heavy rains.

Shipping Warned

Small craft from Cape Gracias, at the eastern tip of Honduras, westward and northward to the Yucatan Channel area was told to stay in port. Shipping was advised to avoid this "severe hurricane."

Weather forecasters said Janet's winds probably reached 140 to 150 miles an hour in gusts after she built up in the open Caribbean Sea during the past 24 hours. Navy aircraft estimated the lowest pressure in Janet's eye at 27.70 inches.

Romania To Release Political Prisoners

VIENNA, Austria, Sept. 27 (AP)—Romania's Communist Parliament has decreed that all "foreign political prisoners and Romanian war criminals sentenced to terms below 10 years" will be freed, Radio Bucharest said today.

Prisoners sentenced to terms above 10 years also will be released "if they participated in the war against Hitler or committed crimes under orders from third persons," the broadcast added.

The decree follows the line of moves taken recently by Soviet Russia.

Cypriot Shot To Death

Benson Admits Error In Saying Ladejinsky Risk

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27 (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Benson conceded today he was wrong in tagging Wolf Ladejinsky a security risk.

Benson testified before a Senate subcommittee which also heard the head of the Veterans Administration say most of the employes weeded from his agency as risks would have been "fired anyway" for other reasons.

The agriculture secretary said the now - celebrated Ladejinsky case gave him some new ideas on security matters which he passed along to President Eisenhower. But he said that to testify as to those ideas would violate a confidence.

From VA Administrator H. V. Higley came the testimony that a "great majority" of 449 VA employes dismissed on security grounds would have been tossed out anyway.

Subject to close questioning by subcommittee aides, Benson acknowledged it would have been better all around if the security question had never been raised in connection with Ladejinsky.

He agreed with a statement by Henry Edens, a subcommittee counsel, that the risk tag hung on Ladejinsky had been "gratuitous."

This was so, Benson said, because he had decided Ladejinsky was not qualified for a job as agricultural attache in Tokyo since Ladejinsky was Russian-born and lacked a sufficient American background for the job.

Ladejinsky had worked for four years as a State Department expert on farm matters in Tokyo, several times winning security clearance for his sensitive job.

But shortly after the job was transferred to the Agriculture Department last year he was labeled a security risk and denied clearance.

Benson conceded this decision was taken without a hearing and without notice to Ladejinsky of the charges against him.

These included allegations that he had been a member of two subversive organizations. Benson said it now appears the evidence on this score is conflicting.

Navy Unveils Big New Jet Seaplane

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27 (AP)—The Navy released the first flight picture of its big new jet seaplane, the XP6M1 Martin Seamaster, today. It disclosed for the first time that the plane can carry "a variety of weapons."

The Navy also made public the measurements of the Seamaster, its first multijet seaplane. It is 134 feet long, 31 feet high and 10 feet wide, has a wing span of 100 feet, a total wing area of 1,900 square feet, and a vertical tail area of 213 square feet.

"Goof Balls" Increase Suicides, Probe Told

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27 (AP) — Senate narcotics investigators were told today that "goof balls" and "thrill pills" are causing an increasing wave of suicides, accidents and crimes in this country.

George P. Larrick, head of the Pure Food and Drug Administration, explained the jargon of the addicts.

He said "goof balls" are the barbiturates best known as sleeping pills and that "thrill pills" are the amphetamine drugs used to keep a person awake, including benzedrine and dexedrine.

Entire Country Praying For Ike, Truman Asserts

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 27 (AP)—Former President Harry S. Truman said today President Eisenhower is everybody's president and the entire country is praying for his speedy recovery.

"Everybody is worried to death about him," said Truman, here to attend an annual meeting of the Masonic Grand Lodge of Missouri. Truman made his remarks to a reporter.

"He is everybody's president, and everyone I know is praying that he will have an early and complete recovery, and that he will have a happy tour of duty for the rest of his term."

Bargain Hunters Send Market Up

NEW YORK, Sept. 27 (AP) — Investors in search of bargains poured hundreds of millions of dollars into the stock market today, sending prices up $1 to $5 a share in the wake of yesterday's sensational decline.

Yesterday's fall, occasioned by news that President Eisenhower had suffered a heart attack, wiped nearly 13 billion dollars from the market valuation of shares listed on the New York Stock Exchange. Today's recovery retrieved almost 3¼ billions of the loss.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks, down $11.40 yesterday in the widest break since Oct. 28, 1929, advanced $2.90 today, closing at $173.00. Thus, roughly 25 per cent of the decline was made up.

The upturn was credited by Wall Streeters to good news on the President's condition and to a feeling that yesterday's drop was overdone — that is, that share prices went down too sharply under the influence of emotional selling.

American Flabbergasts Soviet Tourist Officials

MOSCOW, Sept. 27 (AP) — Dr. Berthold Schulz, a Chicago dentist, blithely parked his British jeep outside the Kremlin walls today, strolled into the National Hotel and flabbergasted Soviet tourist officials. He told them he wanted to drive the jeep through the Soviet Union and come out by way of Iran or Czechoslovakia.

Schulz had driven to Moscow from Helsinki, Finland—first foreign tourist since the 1917 Revolution to do so—apparently unaware of the stir he was causing.

Schulz's hobby has been long, difficult drives like one between London and Capetown, South Africa. He calls himself "frustrated bachelor."

"They seemed puzzled," Schulz reported.

This failed to surprise foreigners who live in Moscow. They are not accustomed just to jump into an auto and drive around the Soviet Union at will. The majority are unable even to obtain Soviet driving licenses.

The Chicagoan speaks not one word of Russian but said he did not need road maps—he just followed the signs, first to Leningrad, then to Moscow.

He spent a couple of days in Leningrad. He bought gasoline coupons and set out late one night for Moscow.

The road was hard-surfaced and good, he said, except for 100 miles under repair.

Meeting Of Top Demos In Texas Today Possible

AUSTIN, Tex., Sept. 27 (AP)—Three top Democratic party leaders—Adlai Stevenson, Senate Majority Leader Lyndon Johnson and House Speaker Sam Rayburn—will be in this area tomorrow and a major conference on the party's presidential hopes could develop.

Stevenson, 1952 presidential candidate, will get together with Rayburn at a dinner preceding Stevenson's "nonpolitical" lecture at the University of Texas. The dinner is labeled "social."

Then Stevenson plans to spend the night at Johnson's ranch. Rayburn said he "doesn't know yet" whether he also will spend the night there but didn't rule out the possibility.

Aides of Johnson, who is trying to take things easy while recuperating from a July heart attack, emphasized that the get-together on the Pedernales ranch has no political significance.

But since the Stevenson-Johnson ranch sociabilities were arranged, President Eisenhower suffered a heart attack that may eliminate him as the Republican presidential nominee next year.

That factor has led to a new freshet of hope among Democrats who privately at least had felt that they would have a hard time winning in 1956 if Eisenhower were the GOP nominee.

It would hardly be likely under this new set of circumstances that three such highly placed Democrats as Johnson, Rayburn and Stevenson could avoid exchanging evaluations of their party's revived chances of success. Whether they will reveal what they talked about remains to be seen.

Stevenson speaks tomorrow night at Gregory Gymnasium in the season's first "Great Issues" lecture sponsored by a University of Texas student committee.

Stevenson is regarded as one of the three or four top Democratic possibilities next year. His visit here is expected to be a rallying point for the Texas Democratic party faction that stuck with him over Gov. Allan Shivers' opposition in 1952.

No Series For Ike

DENVER, Sept. 27 (AP) — President Eisenhower will not view the World's Series by television from his sickroom at the Army's Fitzsimons Hospital here, press secretary James C. Hagerty said today.

Eisenhower Still On Road To Recovery

Friends Rule Out Possibility He May Not Complete Term

DENVER, Sept. 27 (AP) — President Eisenhower had "another satisfactory day" free of any complications resulting from his heart attack, his physicians reported tonight.

DENVER, Sept. 27 (AP) — President Eisenhower made continuing, encouraging progress along the road to recovery today amid a growing belief he will retire to the role of "elder statesman" at the end of his present term.

His condition was so improved that he spent several hours out of the oxygen tent this morning after a long, restful night's sleep and doctors and family found him "comfortable and cheerful."

Personal friends said privately it would be "unthinkable" to subject him to the burdens of a 1956 political campaign and another four years in the White House.

At the same time they ruled out the possibility that he would even consider resigning before the expiration of his present term in the absence of any complication that would block the "complete recovery" for which his physicians are hoping.

Temperature Normal

A 7 a.m. MST, bulletin said: "The President had a very good night. He slept almost continuously from 8 o'clock until 6:15 this morning." An even more encouraging bulletin came at 12:15 p.m.:

"The President continues to progress satisfactorily without complications.

"After spending a restful night he had a breakfast of prunes, oatmeal, soft-boiled egg, toast with marmalade and milk.

"He remained out of the oxygen tent for a large part of the morning. His temperature is normal. His blood pressure and pulse remain stable and satisfactory.

"His morning cardiogram continues to show the expected evolution.

"The President is comfortable and cheerful."

No Pressing Matters

White House press secretary James C. Hagerty told a news conference at which he released the noon bulletin that the question of whether the President can delegate authority may not have to be answered.

At the present time, he said, there has been nothing reaching the Colorado vacation headquarters which has required his signature and that the usual volume of White House correspondence is being handled by members of his staff, here and at Washington.

Such matters as the budget for the next fiscal year, the foreign program, the economic and state-of-the-union messages are in process of preparation in Washington, Hagerty said, and normally would not require presidential review before December.

Boy, 15, Gets Life In Girl's Slaying

PORTLAND, Maine Sept. 27 (AP)—With his head hanging, Gerald P. Troiano, 15, stolidly heard himself sentenced to prison for life today for murdering an 8-year-old girl.

Superior Court Justice Francis W. Sullivan accepted Troiano's plea of guilty in the death of Margaret Gormley last June 3.

The judge asked Gerald if he knew the consequences of the plea; if he offered it through fear or promises; if his alleged confession was given freely, then asked:

"Do you still wish to plead guilty or do you wish to plead not guilty?"

In an almost inaudible voice, the boy replied: "Guilty."

Gerald's father, Anthony, told Judge Sullivan he had done everything possible to obtain help for his son but said doctors had been unable to do anything for him.

"Do you think any good could come from a trial?" Sullivan asked.

"No, I don't," the father said.

Police said the boy admitted bashing in Margaret's skull with a washing machine agitator in a cellar after she screamed when he made advances.

Powerful Janet Sweeps Island, Nears Honduras

MIAMI, Fla., Sept. 27 (AP)—Hurricane Janet, a tremendous storm with the killer instinct, ripped across Swan Island with 125-to-135 m.p.h. winds today, then headed toward British Honduras and Yucatan.

At 5 p.m. EST, the year's 10th storm and one of the most powerful, was centered near latitude 17.5 north, longitude 85.1 west or 75 miles west of Swan Island and 225 miles east of Belize, British Honduras.

Janet's furious winds were believed to have smashed a Navy hurricane hunter plane with 11 men aboard somewhere between Guantanamo Bay and Panama. The plane was last heard from early yesterday and hopes that the men would be found dimmed hourly although an intensive search continued.

Janet Leaves 200 Dead

The missing plane, attached to the Navy Weather Squadron at Jacksonville and flying out of Guantanamo Bay, carried nine crewmen and two Canadian newsmen. Scores of Navy planes and ships combed an area midway in the Caribbean, where the ill-fated aircraft was last reported.

Janet, with an estimated 200 dead in her winding wake through the Caribbean Sea, was moving west-northwest at 21 miles an hour. She had hurricane force winds extending outward 80 miles from the center with gales 250 miles in the northern and 100 miles in the southern semicircle.

The storm center was expected to crash onto the mainland in the Chetuman Bay area just north of Belize late tonight. Immediate precautions were advised in British Honduras, particularly in the north portion and in Quintana Roo Province of Mexico, against dangerous hurricane winds, abnormally high tides and heavy rains.

Shipping Warned

Small craft from Cape Gracias, at the eastern tip of Honduras, westward and northward to the Yucatan Channel area was told to stay in port. Shipping was advised to avoid this "severe hurricane."

Weather forecasters said Janet's winds probably reached 140 to 150 miles an hour in gusts after she built up in the open Caribbean Sea during the past 24 hours. Navy aircraft estimated the lowest pressure in Janet's eye at 27.70 inches.

Romania To Release Political Prisoners

VIENNA, Austria, Sept. 27 (AP)—Romania's Communist Parliament has decreed that all "foreign political prisoners and Romanian war criminals sentenced to terms below 10 years" will be freed, Radio Bucharest said today.

Prisoners sentenced to terms above 10 years also will be released "if they participated in the war against Hitler or committed crimes under orders from third persons," the broadcast added.

The decree follows the line of moves taken recently by Soviet Russia.

Cypriot Shot To Death

Benson Admits Error In Saying Ladejinsky Risk

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27 (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Benson conceded today he was wrong in tagging Wolf Ladejinsky a security risk.

Benson testified before a Senate subcommittee which also heard the head of the Veterans Administration say most of the employes weeded from his agency as risks would have been "fired anyway" for other reasons.

The agriculture secretary said the now - celebrated Ladejinsky case gave him some new ideas on security matters which he passed along to President Eisenhower. But he said that to testify as to those ideas would violate a confidence.

From VA Administrator H. V. Higley came the testimony that a "great majority" of 449 VA employes dismissed on security grounds would have been tossed out anyway.

Subject to close questioning by subcommittee aides, Benson acknowledged it would have been better all around if the security question had never been raised in connection with Ladejinsky.

He agreed with a statement by Henry Edens, a subcommittee counsel, that the risk tag hung on Ladejinsky had been "gratuitous."

This was so, Benson said, because he had decided Ladejinsky was not qualified for a job as agricultural attache in Tokyo since Ladejinsky was Russian-born and lacked a sufficient American background for the job.

Ladejinsky had worked for four years as a State Department expert on farm matters in Tokyo, several times winning security clearance for his sensitive job.

But shortly after the job was transferred to the Agriculture Department last year he was labeled a security risk and denied clearance.

Benson conceded this decision was taken without a hearing and without notice to Ladejinsky of the charges against him.

These included allegations that he had been a member of two subversive organizations. Benson said it now appears the evidence on this score is conflicting.

Navy Unveils Big New Jet Seaplane

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27 (AP)—The Navy released the first flight picture of its big new jet seaplane, the XP6M1 Martin Seamaster, today. It disclosed for the first time that the plane can carry "a variety of weapons."

The Navy also made public the measurements of the Seamaster, its first multijet seaplane. It is 134 feet long, 31 feet high and 10 feet wide, has a wing span of 100 feet, a total wing area of 1,900 square feet, and a vertical tail area of 213 square feet.

"Goof Balls" Increase Suicides, Probe Told

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27 (AP) — Senate narcotics investigators were told today that "goof balls" and "thrill pills" are causing an increasing wave of suicides, accidents and crimes in this country.

George P. Larrick, head of the Pure Food and Drug Administration, explained the jargon of the addicts.

He said "goof balls" are the barbiturates best known as sleeping pills and that "thrill pills" are the amphetamine drugs used to keep a person awake, including benzedrine and dexedrine.

Entire Country Praying For Ike, Truman Asserts

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 27 (AP)—Former President Harry S. Truman said today President Eisenhower is everybody's president and the entire country is praying for his speedy recovery.

"Everybody is worried to death about him," said Truman, here to attend an annual meeting of the Masonic Grand Lodge of Missouri. Truman made his remarks to a reporter.

"He is everybody's president, and everyone I know is praying that he will have an early and complete recovery, and that he will have a happy tour of duty for the rest of his term."

Bargain Hunters Send Market Up

NEW YORK, Sept. 27 (AP) — Investors in search of bargains poured hundreds of millions of dollars into the stock market today, sending prices up $1 to $5 a share in the wake of yesterday's sensational decline.

Yesterday's fall, occasioned by news that President Eisenhower had suffered a heart attack, wiped nearly 13 billion dollars from the market valuation of shares listed on the New York Stock Exchange. Today's recovery retrieved almost 3¼ billions of the loss.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks, down $11.40 yesterday in the widest break since Oct. 28, 1929, advanced $2.90 today, closing at $173.00. Thus, roughly 25 per cent of the decline was made up.

The upturn was credited by Wall Streeters to good news on the President's condition and to a feeling that yesterday's drop was overdone — that is, that share prices went down too sharply under the influence of emotional selling.

American Flabbergasts Soviet Tourist Officials

MOSCOW, Sept. 27 (AP) — Dr. Berthold Schulz, a Chicago dentist, blithely parked his British jeep outside the Kremlin walls today, strolled into the National Hotel and flabbergasted Soviet tourist officials. He told them he wanted to drive the jeep through the Soviet Union and come out by way of Iran or Czechoslovakia.

Schulz had driven to Moscow from Helsinki, Finland—first foreign tourist since the 1917 Revolution to do so—apparently unaware of the stir he was causing.

Schulz's hobby has been long, difficult drives like one between London and Capetown, South Africa. He calls himself "frustrated bachelor."

"They seemed puzzled," Schulz reported.

This failed to surprise foreigners who live in Moscow. They are not accustomed just to jump into an auto and drive around the Soviet Union at will. The majority are unable even to obtain Soviet driving licenses.

The Chicagoan speaks not one word of Russian but said he did not need road maps—he just followed the signs, first to Leningrad, then to Moscow.

He spent a couple of days in Leningrad. He bought gasoline coupons and set out late one night for Moscow.

The road was hard-surfaced and good, he said, except for 100 miles under repair.

Meeting Of Top Demos In Texas Today Possible

AUSTIN, Tex., Sept. 27 (AP)—Three top Democratic party leaders—Adlai Stevenson, Senate Majority Leader Lyndon Johnson and House Speaker Sam Rayburn—will be in this area tomorrow and a major conference on the party's presidential hopes could develop.

Stevenson, 1952 presidential candidate, will get together with Rayburn at a dinner preceding Stevenson's "nonpolitical" lecture at the University of Texas. The dinner is labeled "social."

Then Stevenson plans to spend the night at Johnson's ranch. Rayburn said he "doesn't know yet" whether he also will spend the night there but didn't rule out the possibility.

Aides of Johnson, who is trying to take things easy while recuperating from a July heart attack, emphasized that the get-together on the Pedernales ranch has no political significance.

But since the Stevenson-Johnson ranch sociabilities were arranged, President Eisenhower suffered a heart attack that may eliminate him as the Republican presidential nominee next year.

That factor has led to a new freshet of hope among Democrats who privately at least had felt that they would have a hard time winning in 1956 if Eisenhower were the GOP nominee.

It would hardly be likely under this new set of circumstances that three such highly placed Democrats as Johnson, Rayburn and Stevenson could avoid exchanging evaluations of their party's revived chances of success. Whether they will reveal what they talked about remains to be seen.

Stevenson speaks tomorrow night at Gregory Gymnasium in the season's first "Great Issues" lecture sponsored by a University of Texas student committee.

Stevenson is regarded as one of the three or four top Democratic possibilities next year. His visit here is expected to be a rallying point for the Texas Democratic party faction that stuck with him over Gov. Allan Shivers' opposition in 1952.

No Series For Ike

DENVER, Sept. 27 (AP) — President Eisenhower will not view the World's Series by television from his sickroom at the Army's Fitzsimons Hospital here, press secretary James C. Hagerty said today.

Eisenhower Still On Road To Recovery

Friends Rule Out Possibility He May Not Complete Term

DENVER, Sept. 27 (AP) — President Eisenhower had "another satisfactory day" free of any complications resulting from his heart attack, his physicians reported tonight.

DENVER, Sept. 27 (AP) — President Eisenhower made continuing, encouraging progress along the road to recovery today amid a growing belief he will retire to the role of "elder statesman" at the end of his present term.

His condition was so improved that he spent several hours out of the oxygen tent this morning after a long, restful night's sleep and doctors and family found him "comfortable and cheerful."

Personal friends said privately it would be "unthinkable" to subject him to the burdens of a 1956 political campaign and another four years in the White House.

At the same time they ruled out the possibility that he would even consider resigning before the expiration of his present term in the absence of any complication that would block the "complete recovery" for which his physicians are hoping.

Temperature Normal

A 7 a.m. MST, bulletin said: "The President had a very good night. He slept almost continuously from 8 o'clock until 6:15 this morning." An even more encouraging bulletin came at 12:15 p.m.:

"The President continues to progress satisfactorily without complications.

"After spending a restful night he had a breakfast of prunes, oatmeal, soft-boiled egg, toast with marmalade and milk.

"He remained out of the oxygen tent for a large part of the morning. His temperature is normal. His blood pressure and pulse remain stable and satisfactory.

"His morning cardiogram continues to show the expected evolution.

No Pressing Matters

White House press secretary James C. Hagerty told a news conference at which he released the noon bulletin that the question of whether the President can delegate authority may not have to be answered.

At the present time, he said, there has been nothing reaching the Colorado vacation headquarters which has required his signature and that the usual volume of White House correspondence is being handled by members of his staff, here and at Washington.

Such matters as the budget for the next fiscal year, the foreign program, the economic and state-of-the-union messages are in process of preparation in Washington, Hagerty said, and normally would not require presidential review before December.

Boy, 15, Gets Life In Girl's Slaying

PORTLAND, Maine Sept. 27 (AP)—With his head hanging, Gerald P. Troiano, 15, stolidly heard himself sentenced to prison for life today for murdering an 8-year-old girl.

Superior Court Justice Francis W. Sullivan accepted Troiano's plea of guilty in the death of Margaret Gormley last June 3.

The judge asked Gerald if he knew the consequences of the plea; if he offered it through fear or promises; if his alleged confession was given freely, then asked:

"Do you still wish to plead guilty or do you wish to plead not guilty?"

In an almost inaudible voice, the boy replied: "Guilty."

Gerald's father, Anthony, told Judge Sullivan he had done everything possible to obtain help for his son but said doctors had been unable to do anything for him.

"Do you think any good could come from a trial?" Sullivan asked.

"No, I don't," the father said.

Police said the boy admitted bashing in Margaret's skull with a washing machine agitator in a cellar after she screamed when he made advances.

Poland Hits Dulles' Stand Against Soviet Satellites

Plea For More 'Geneva Spirit' Is Made In U. N.

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Sept. 27 (AP)—Poland's chief U. N. delegate today rapped Secretary of State Dulles for alleging that Eastern European countries are satellites of the Soviet Union.

The delegate, Marian Naszkowski, deputy minister for foreign affairs, appealed in the U. N. assembly for more of the "Geneva spirit." He said the idea of coexistence between countries with different systems is gaining ground.

Dulles told the Assembly last Thursday that Soviet intentions would be judged partly on Soviet actions toward the Eastern European countries. Dulles and President Eisenhower long have advocated freedom for the former Baltic republics and freedom of choice of government for peoples of the Eastern European countries.

Naszowski called for concrete steps to eliminate controversial issues. In this connection, he said, "repeated references" such as those of Dulles in the U. N. "to the alleged 'problem' of the East European countries" did not contribute to an atmosphere of relaxation and confidence.

He said the days are gone forever when the countries of Eastern Europe could be used as pawns by "certain forces in international politics." Poland and the other countries of the people's democracies now have full political and economic sovereignty, he said.

Taking the line laid down by Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov in the Assembly, Naszowski called for a treaty of collective security in Europe as the way toward a settlement of the problem of Germany.

He said Poland is interested in establishing good neighborly relations with the "German nation as a whole" and Poland stands for peaceful normalization of its relations with the German Federal Republic. Moscow has set up diplomatic relations with Bonn and Poland appears ready to do the same.

Naszowski also called for deeds on disarmament. Moltov said Russia is taking 640,000 men off its armed forces and other countries ought to do the same. Naszowski said Poland is cutting 47,000 from its armed roster.

Painting Bought For $450 May Be Worth $1,000,000

CHICAGO, Sept. 27 (AP)—An art director said today four top European experts agree with him that a "Madonna and Child" painting bought by a Chicagoan for $450 is a Da Vinci original worth more than one million dollars.

Hanns R. Teichert, an interior decorator, purchased the painting in a New York City antique shop two years ago.

Dr. Maurice H. Goldblatt, director of the art galleries at the University of Notre Dame, said a year ago that the painting was a priceless masterpiece of Leonardo da Vinci.

Big Year For Auto Industry Forecast

DETROIT, Sept. 27 (AP) — James J. Nance, president of Studebaker-Packard Corp., foresees another big year for the auto industry in 1956.

"There is nothing indicated in the present picture," he told a news conference, "to show that 1956 will be anything less than 1955."

The statement came in answer to a question as to whether he thought the stock market break of yesterday portended any drop in automotive industry production and sales next year.

(Production and sales of the car industry for this year will approximate eight million passenger cars, according to all indications.)

Nance's statement was made at preview showing of the 1956 Packard and Studebaker cars, to be introduced later.

Unhappy Wife Admits Plotting Mate's Murder

WEST NEW YORK, N. J., Sept. 27 (AP)—A brunette who told police she was unhappy because her husband spent too much time at business and neglected married life was held without bail today on a charge that she plotted to have him killed.

Awaiting arraignment tomorrow on charges of atrocious assault and battery and assault with intent to kill and rob were Mrs. Michael Mortel, 38; her brother, Albert Devarti, 35, and Alexander Rafalko, 37.

Mortel, 43, was beaten with a heavy lead bar in his apartment Sunday while his wife and daughter were at church. He is in St. Mary's Hospital, Hoboken, after receiving 39 stitches to close head cuts.

Rafalko, of Union City, is alleged to have inflicted the beating. Devarti is listed as having driven Rafalko to the Mortel apartment.

Mortel said he drove off his attackers by throwing vases at them.

Police Capt. Chris Gleitsmann said the attack had been planned for a week ago, but was postponed when Devarti and Rafalko found the wife home instead of at church.

Mrs. Mortel was quoted by police as saying she promised $1,000 each to her brother and Rafalko after the job was done.

Police said the plot was hatched after Mrs. Mortel complained to her brother about her marriage and she asked him to arrange the attack.

She had recently been named chief beneficiary under a new will made by her husband. His business and property was valued at $100,000, police said. The couple have been married nine years.

Court Told Alley Gave Reds Info

FT. MEADE, Md., Sept. 27 (AP)—Several witnesses today testified they heard Maj. Ronald E. Alley give the enemy United States Army artillery information and one said Alley told him he was writing an artillery manual for the Chinese.

Air Force Capt. William N. Preston, stationed in England, said Alley told him he was working on a manual with a Chinese agent named "Chang" and a much-mentioned woman called the "Dragon Lady."

Lt. Col. George R. Hansen of Madison, Wis., now with the military advisory assistance group on Formosa, said Alley told him he was writing the manual and that "he didn't care since he was getting out of the damned Army anyway."

Lt. Col. Carl L. Aubrey of Hamilton Air Force Base, Calif., said he heard Alley discussing artillery with enemy interrogators in a neighboring room in a house where they both lived outside the prison compound.

He also said Alley discussed propaganda with the Chinese and he said he once heard the 34-year-old Bar Harbor, Maine, officer say to the enemy that his (Alley's) father was a carpenter and that he was often kept from getting a job by the money interests in the community.

HST Blames Subversion Controversy On 'Hysteria'

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27 (AP)—Former President Truman attributes the controversy over alleged subversion in government during his administration to a wave of "anti - Communist hysteria" comparable to the "witch craze" of colonial days.

He contends he dealt "calmly" with the situation, which he says brought "indiscriminate branding of innocent persons as subversives" because he knew something of its background from reading the history of previous "waves of hysteria."

These earlier waves, the former President said in the second installment of his "Memoirs," published in the current issue of Life magazine, brought the Alien and Sedition Acts, the "Know-Nothing" movement, the Ku Klux Klan, the Red scare of 1919 and periods of both anti - Catholicism and anti-Masonic feeling.

Truman also tells of how he turned the late Tom Pendergast down flat when the old-time "boss" of Kansas City Democratic politics once approached him with a group of friendly contractors when he was about to let contracts for 10 million dollars in roads. Truman was presiding judge of Jackson County at the time.

The ex-President said he knew "very well what was in the wind" and ended up by telling them the contracts would be "let to the lowest bidders" and would be supervised by a bipartisan board of engineers as he had promised in his campaign.

He quoted Pendergast, the "boss" who went to prison later in connection with an income tax fraud investigation, as telling the contractors:

"I told you he's the contrariest man in the State of Missouri."

Truman blames the Republicans for the failure in 1922 of the Kansas City haberdashery store he opened after World War I with Eddie Jacobson and $70,000 worth of merchandise.

When Harding became president Truman wrote, Secretary of the Treasury Mellon "started a 'wringing out' process which put farm prices down to an all-time low, raised interest and 'put labor in its place.'"

The store's inventory value shrank from $35,000 to less than $10,000 within a year, the ex-President says, and when he and Jackson closed out "we were hopelessly in debt." They turned over their stock to their creditors.

The population of South America is more than 121 million.

Argentina Not Delaying Peron, Lonardi Says

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Sept. 27 (AP) — Although the Paraguayan gunboat carrying Juan D. Peron still bobbed outside Buenos Aires port, Provisional President Eduardo Lonardi said tonight the deposed dictator is free to leave at any itme.

He implied the Paraguayan government was holding up the one-time strongman's departure into exile.

Lonardi also declared he did not think Peron represents any threat to the revolutionary government.

The ousted President fled to the gunboat for asylum a week ago in the face of a successful army-navy revolt. The new government promised him a safe conduct for the trip to Asuncion, Paraguay's capital, but so far has not issued the formal document.

Lonardi made his statements in replying to questions sent in to him by newsmen.

SANTIAGO, Chile, Sept. 27 (AP)—A week-old strike that crippled vital copper production in the giant Chuquicamata mine was settled temporarily today.

Adenauer Under Home Pressure To Modify Pact

BONN, Germany, Sept. 27 (AP)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer is coming under strong homefront pressure to modify West Germany's alliance with the Western Powers in a move to get Russia to agree to German unification.

The leader of his own coalition ally, the strong Free Democratic party, has just joined the growing chorus of criticism directed at the Paris rearmament treaties.

FDP Chairman Thomas Dehler jolted Adenauer and his supporters this week with a declaration that "reunification on the basis of the Paris treaties is impossible."

Dehler said these treaties "must not bind Germany indefinitely so that the question of German reunification will be shelved for a long time to come." He urged direct negotiations between Moscow and Bonn to end the division of Germany, saying:

"The first prerequisite for German unification is a common understanding with the Russians. To this end the future diplomatic relations between West Germany and the Soviet Union must be utilized. Direct discussions between the two nations will be more important than the Geneva conference."

Dehler's declaration before an FDP rally in Lower Saxony created a political sensation in Bonn and touched off speculation of an open break in Adenauer's coalition on foreign policy issues.

It came only three days after Adenauer had solemnly pledged before Parliament that his government "will not admit the slightest doubt as to our loyalty to the treaties." He said they "offer the prospect of peace for the world and national unity in freedom to Germany."

Convictions Appealed

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27 (AP)—A police captain, a detective and five alleged gamblers convicted in a numbers protection case today asked the U. S. Court of Appeals to upset that verdict.

Lawyers filed the appeals for Capt. John B. Monroe and Detective George C. Prather, both suspended, and Roger (Whitetop) Simkins, Curtis M. (Bobo) Taylor, Albert H. (Real Estate) Smith, Charles Anderson and Bernie King.

Israel Opposes Arms For Egypt

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27 (AP)—Israeli Ambassador Abba Eban said today his government opposes foreign reinforcement of Arab armies, whether by gift or sale of substantial amounts of weapons.

Eban expressed that position after conferring at the State Department for nearly an hour with a top U. S. official at the State Department.

The ambassador had gone to see Asst. Secretary of State George Allen for "clarification" of reports the United States has offered to sell arms to Egypt. His visit coincided with the London disclosure that Egypt has accepted a previously reported Soviet offer of arms and military equipment, evidently in exchange for cotton.

Egypt's action came as a disappointment to U. S. officials. Although there was no immediate comment from the State Department, American diplomats were known to have been hoping Egypt would turn down the Russian offer. They had viewed it as a Soviet move to expand its influence in the Middle East.

Elevator Shaft Hanging

BALTIMORE, Sept. 27 (AP)—The body of 42-year-old Charles Radauskas was found hanging today in an elevator shaft of an industrial machinery supplier's building.

Police said the body was hanging from a piece of rope tied to a freight elevator.

Radauskas, pronounced dead at Union Memorial Hospital, occasionally hauled deliveries for the firm. His body was found when the office was opened this morning.

The United States has about three million horses.

Truman To Attend West Coast Dinners

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27 (AP) — Former President Harry Truman has accepted invitations to attend three dinners on the West Coast in November for the benefit of the Truman Library — his health permitting.

His acceptance was announced today by the Library, and attracted particular attention because of reports of friction between Truman and some West Coast Democrats when Truman recently cancelled engagements to speak this month at $100-a-plate Democratic fund-raising dinners in Los Angeles and San Francisco.

Truman said at the time that there was no truth in the reports of friction, and that he was withdrawing from the engagements on the advice of his physician.

The Library said Truman will attend benefit dinners for it in Seattle on Nov. 26, in Los Angeles on Nov. 28, and in San Francisco on Nov. 29.

"There is nothing indicated in the present picture," he told a news conference, "to show that 1956 will be anything less than 1955."

The statement came in answer to a question as to whether he thought the stock market break of yesterday portended any drop in automotive industry production and sales next year.

(Production and sales of the car industry for this year will approximate eight million passenger cars, according to all indications.)

Nance's statement was made at preview showing of the 1956 Packard and Studebaker cars, to be introduced later.

Israel Opposes Arms For Egypt

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27 (AP)—Israeli Ambassador Abba Eban said today his government opposes foreign reinforcement of Arab armies, whether by gift or sale of substantial amounts of weapons.

Eban expressed that position after conferring at the State Department for nearly an hour with a top U. S. official at the State Department.

The ambassador had gone to see Asst. Secretary of State George Allen for "clarification" of reports the United States has offered to sell arms to Egypt. His visit coincided with the London disclosure that Egypt has accepted a previously reported Soviet offer of arms and military equipment, evidently in exchange for cotton.

Egypt's action came as a disappointment to U. S. officials. Although there was no immediate comment from the State Department, American diplomats were known to have been hoping Egypt would turn down the Russian offer. They had viewed it as a Soviet move to expand its influence in the Middle East.

Elevator Shaft Hanging

BALTIMORE, Sept. 27 (AP)—The body of 42-year-old Charles Radauskas was found hanging today in an elevator shaft of an industrial machinery supplier's building.

Police said the body was hanging from a piece of rope tied to a freight elevator.

Radauskas, pronounced dead at Union Memorial Hospital, occasionally hauled deliveries for the firm. His body was found when the office was opened this morning.

The United States has about three million horses.

Unhappy Wife Admits Plotting Mate's Murder

WEST NEW YORK, N. J., Sept. 27 (AP)—A brunette who told police she was unhappy because her husband spent too much time at business and neglected married life was held without bail today on a charge that she plotted to have him killed.

Awaiting arraignment tomorrow on charges of atrocious assault and battery and assault with intent to kill and rob were Mrs. Michael Mortel, 38; her brother, Albert Devarti, 35, and Alexander Rafalko, 37.

Mortel, 43, was beaten with a heavy lead bar in his apartment Sunday while his wife and daughter were at church. He is in St. Mary's Hospital, Hoboken, after receiving 39 stitches to close head cuts.

Rafalko, of Union City, is alleged to have inflicted the beating. Devarti is listed as having driven Rafalko to the Mortel apartment.

Mortel said he drove off his attackers by throwing vases at them.

Police Capt. Chris Gleitsmann said the attack had been planned for a week ago, but was postponed when Devarti and Rafalko found the wife home instead of at church.

Mrs. Mortel was quoted by police as saying she promised $1,000 each to her brother and Rafalko after the job was done.

Police said the plot was hatched after Mrs. Mortel complained to her brother about her marriage and she asked him to arrange the attack.

She had recently been named chief beneficiary under a new will made by her husband. His business and property was valued at $100,000, police said. The couple have been married nine years.

Court Told Alley Gave Reds Info

FT. MEADE, Md., Sept. 27 (AP)—Several witnesses today testified they heard Maj. Ronald E. Alley give the enemy United States Army artillery information and one said Alley told him he was writing an artillery manual for the Chinese.

Air Force Capt. William N. Preston, stationed in England, said Alley told him he was working on a manual with a Chinese agent named "Chang" and a much-mentioned woman called the "Dragon Lady."

Lt. Col. George R. Hansen of Madison, Wis., now with the military advisory assistance group on Formosa, said Alley told him he was writing the manual and that "he didn't care since he was getting out of the damned Army anyway."

Lt. Col. Carl L. Aubrey of Hamilton Air Force Base, Calif., said he heard Alley discussing artillery with enemy interrogators in a neighboring room in a house where they both lived outside the prison compound.

He also said Alley discussed propaganda with the Chinese and he said he once heard the 34-year-old Bar Harbor, Maine, officer say to the enemy that his (Alley's) father was a carpenter and that he was often kept from getting a job by the money interests in the community.

Truman To Attend West Coast Dinners

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27 (AP) — Former President Harry Truman has accepted invitations to attend three dinners on the West Coast in November for the benefit of the Truman Library — his health permitting.

His acceptance was announced today by the Library, and attracted particular attention because of reports of friction between Truman and some West Coast Democrats when Truman recently cancelled engagements to speak this month at $100-a-plate Democratic fund-raising dinners in Los Angeles and San Francisco.

Truman said at the time that there was no truth in the reports of friction, and that he was withdrawing from the engagements on the advice of his physician.

The Library said Truman will attend benefit dinners for it in Seattle on Nov. 26, in Los Angeles on Nov. 28, and in San Francisco on Nov. 29.

Fair Opens Today

ANNAPOLIS, Sept. 27 (AP)—The third annual Anne Arundel County Fair opens tomorrow at Sandy Point Park, with officials expecting 25,000 visitors before closing time Saturday night.

HST Blames Subversion Controversy On 'Hysteria'

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27 (AP)—Former President Truman attributes the controversy over alleged subversion in government during his administration to a wave of "anti - Communist hysteria" comparable to the "witch craze" of colonial days.

He contends he dealt "calmly" with the situation, which he says brought "indiscriminate branding of innocent persons as subversives" because he knew something of its background from reading the history of previous "waves of hysteria."

These earlier waves, the former President said in the second installment of his "Memoirs," published in the current issue of Life magazine, brought the Alien and Sedition Acts, the "Know-Nothing" movement, the Ku Klux Klan, the Red scare of 1919 and periods of both anti - Catholicism and anti-Masonic feeling.

Truman also tells of how he turned the late Tom Pendergast down flat when the old-time "boss" of Kansas City Democratic politics once approached him with a group of friendly contractors when he was about to let contracts for 10 million dollars in roads. Truman was presiding judge of Jackson County at the time.

The ex-President said he knew "very well what was in the wind" and ended up by telling them the contracts would be "let to the lowest bidders" and would be supervised by a bipartisan board of engineers as he had promised in his campaign.

He quoted Pendergast, the "boss" who went to prison later in connection with an income tax fraud investigation, as telling the contractors:

"I told you he's the contrariest man in the State of Missouri."

Truman blames the Republicans for the failure in 1922 of the Kansas City haberdashery store he opened after World War I with Eddie Jacobson and $70,000 worth of merchandise.

When Harding became president Truman wrote, Secretary of the Treasury Mellon "started a 'wringing out' process which put farm prices down to an all-time low, raised interest and 'put labor in its place.'"

The store's inventory value shrank from $35,000 to less than $10,000 within a year, the ex-President says, and when he and Jackson closed out "we were hopelessly in debt." They turned over their stock to their creditors.

The population of South America is more than 121 million.

Argentina Not Delaying Peron, Lonardi Says

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Sept. 27 (AP) — Although the Paraguayan gunboat carrying Juan D. Peron still bobbed outside Buenos Aires port, Provisional President Eduardo Lonardi said tonight the deposed dictator is free to leave at any itme.

He implied the Paraguayan government was holding up the one-time strongman's departure into exile.

Lonardi also declared he did not think Peron represents any threat to the revolutionary government.

The ousted President fled to the gunboat for asylum a week ago in the face of a successful army-navy revolt. The new government promised him a safe conduct for the trip to Asuncion, Paraguay's capital, but so far has not issued the formal document.

Lonardi made his statements in replying to questions sent in to him by newsmen.

Copper Strike Settled

SANTIAGO, Chile, Sept. 27 (AP)—A week-old strike that crippled vital copper production in the giant Chuquicamata mine was settled temporarily today.

Adenauer Under Home Pressure To Modify Pact

BONN, Germany, Sept. 27 (AP)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer is coming under strong homefront pressure to modify West Germany's alliance with the Western Powers in a move to get Russia to agree to German unification.

The leader of his own coalition ally, the strong Free Democratic party, has just joined the growing chorus of criticism directed at the Paris rearmament treaties.

FDP Chairman Thomas Dehler jolted Adenauer and his supporters this week with a declaration that "reunification on the basis of the Paris treaties is impossible."

Dehler said these treaties "must not bind Germany indefinitely so that the question of German reunification will be shelved for a long time to come." He urged direct negotiations between Moscow and Bonn to end the division of Germany, saying:

"The first prerequisite for German unification is a common understanding with the Russians. To this end the future diplomatic relations between West Germany and the Soviet Union must be utilized. Direct discussions between the two nations will be more important than the Geneva conference."

Dehler's declaration before an FDP rally in Lower Saxony created a political sensation in Bonn and touched off speculation of an open break in Adenauer's coalition on foreign policy issues.

It came only three days after Adenauer had solemnly pledged before Parliament that his government "will not admit the slightest doubt as to our loyalty to the treaties." He said they "offer the prospect of peace for the world and national unity in freedom to Germany."

Convictions Appealed

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27 (AP)—A police captain, a detective and five alleged gamblers convicted in a numbers protection case today asked the U. S. Court of Appeals to upset that verdict.

Lawyers filed the appeals for Capt. John B. Monroe and Detective George C. Prather, both suspended, and Roger (Whitetop) Simkins, Curtis M. (Bobo) Taylor, Albert H. (Real Estate) Smith, Charles Anderson and Bernie King.

Nation Always Concerned About Health Of Presidents

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27 (AP) — Ever since this nation was born it has worried about the health of its president.

The worry over President Eisenhower's heart attack in Denver Saturday has a parallel in another general who became president.

George Washington had been in office barely a year when he caught a bad cold, which rapidly became worse.

The medical experts at the time —Dr. Samuel Bard, Dr. John Charlton and Dr. Charles McKnight—were called in. Their diagnosis, a frightening one until the discovery of sulpha drugs. The President had pneumonia.

Then, as now, outside medical help was summoned. Dr. John Jones hurried to the President's side from Philadelphia, trying to keep his journey secret lest it unduly alarm everyone.

Yet the bad news got out. And so great was the consternation that Martha Washington was later to report that her husband "seemed less concerned himself as to the result than perhaps any person in the United States."

Among the worriers: Abigail Adams, wife of Vice President John Adams. Abigail thought only Washington could launch the new nation successfully, and after his illness she wrote her sister:

"I feared a thousand things which I pray I never may be called to experience. Most assuredly I do not wish for the highest post. I never before realized what I might be called to, and the apprehension of it only for a few days greatly distressed me."

But although Dr. McKnight was sure on May 15, 1790, that there was no hope for his patient, Washington pulled through to serve out two terms.

Outside of actual death in office, possibly the worst affliction that has befallen any president was the stroke that hit Woodrow Wilson.

Wilson was on tour, fighting desperately and doggedly for the League of Nations. At 4 a.m., 36 years ago today, on a train bound for Wichita, Kan., a doctor awakened Joseph Tumulty, the President's private secretary. Quickly Tumulty went to the President. He found Wilson had trouble in talking, and tears streamed down his face.

"My dear boy," Wilson said, "this has never happened to me before. I do not know what to do."

Neither did Tumulty nor anyone else. For as Tumulty put it, "His left arm and leg refused to function."

Wilson lived for more than four years, but the state of his health can best be understood from an incident during his last minutes in office.

He was riding to the Capitol with Warren Harding for the latter's swearing-in ceremony. Harding tried to pass the time with an inconsequential story about a baby elephant. Harding was embarrassed and startled by the result. Wilson broke into tears.

One problem to face in any presidential illness is: How to break the news to the public?

Grover Cleveland decided not to tell anything about his ailment, possibly because cancer was a hushed up word in 1893. He quietly went aboard a yacht in Long Island Sound for two operations on his mouth. A dentist made an artificial replacement for a part of Cleveland's upper jaw, and so secretive was the whole affair that it was years before the operation was generally known.

One president was injured in the White House, and that, too, wasn't disclosed until much later. While boxing with an artillery captain, Teddy Roosevelt was hit smack in the eye, so severly his sight was permanently damaged.

Roosevelt, the big game hunter, took it philosophically.

"If it had been the right eye," he said, "I should have been entirely unable to shoot."

No President Died Of Heart Attack While In Office

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27 (AP)— No U. S. president ever has died of a heart attack while in office.

Of the seven who died in office, three were victims of an assassin's bullet, two died of pneumonia, one of typhus and one of a massive cerebral hemorrhage.

They were:

Zachary Taylor, died of typhus, July 9, 1850.

Abraham Lincoln, died April 15, 1865, a day after he was shot by John Wilkes Booth.

James A. Garfield, died Sept. 19, 1881, more than two months after he was shot by Charles J. Guiteau.

William McKinley, died Sept. 14, 1901, eight days after he was shot by Leon Czolgosz.

Warren Harding, died of pneumonia, Aug. 2, 1923.

Franklin D. Roosevelt, died of cerebral hemorrhage, April 12, 1945.

Sultan, Backed By French Bloc, Resists Ouster

RABAT, French Morocco, Sept. 27 (AP) — Sultan Mohammed Ben Moulay Arafa is now actively resisting efforts to drive him from his throne, French officials said today.

"He has been getting injections of concrete in his backbone from France," one of them declared bitterly.

The French government has decided he is an obstacle to home rule, but opposition within Premier Edgar Faure's own coalition has stalled action. Last week the Sultan saw Pierre Montel, chairman of the National Defense Committee in Parliament. In a statement afterward Montel said he had assured the Sultan most Frenchmen wished him "a long reign."

Delegations of caids (tribal chieftains), known to be under strong French influence, have been assuring the Sultan of their loyalty.

Just what the Sultan wants is far from clear. Gen. Pierre Boyer de Latour du Moulin, French resident general in Morocco, had been reported convinced before his most recent talk with him that Moulay Arafa would leave voluntarily for the good of his country.

Behind all the pulling and hauling lies a basic fight on what to do about Morocco. On one side stands Premier Faure, a majority of his Cabinet, the Moroccan nationalists and a very few Frenchmen in Morocco. They want to unseat Moulay Arafa and start a home rule program. On the other, stand a minority of the Cabinet, many French officials and military men, a big majority of the French colonists and their friends among the Moroccans who have been helping them run the country. They consider Morocco upride for self - rule and see a dangerous threat to their own interest.

Atom Trade Fair Opened

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27 (AP)—A lamp was lighted here this week by "atomic electricity" generated at West Milton, N.Y., and stored in a battery.

The ceremony, marking the first use of atomic power in the nation's capitol, opened the country's first Atomic Trade Fair, at which industrial and research organizations are exhibiting equipment designed for use in atomic power production and other peacetime applications of atomic energy.

The trade fair is being sponsored by the Atomic Industrial Forum, a nonprofit organization made up of representatives of industry, education and organized labor.

The electricity used for the lamp lighting ceremony was generated by the General Electric Co. at its West Milton atomic research and development plant. The "juice" was generated from by-product heat obtained from an atomic reactor originally designed for atomic submarine propulsion research.

Many People Have Survived Serious Heart Attacks; Rest Is Basis Of Cure

Editors's Note: The President's illness has focused attention on heart attacks. What causes them. Can they be prevented? Most important, will I have one? The writer, a noted war correspondent and Pulitzer prize winner, who has such a striking resemblence to President Eisenhower he has been mistaken for him, has just returned to work after suffering a coronary last spring. From his personal experience, he tells how one feels. From his research, he describes the latest medical knowledge and progress in the field of heart disease.

By RELMAN MORIN

NEW YORK, Sept. 27 (AP)—In my case, it started with a small pain in the chest.

The discomfort was so slight at first that I mistook it for indigestion. I drank a glass of fizzwater, lit a cigarette, and went to the bedroom window. It was a grey morning. The clock in the tower down the street showed 6:23.

The pain began to develop a kind of rhythm.

It would rise, then ebb. Then it would well up again, harder than before, in waves. They began coming faster. Each time, the pain was a little hotter, a little sharper.

I began to pace around. Passing a mirror, I caught sight of my face. It was like a blob of biscuit dough, grey as lard, and somehow formless. My hands were clammy and they were trembling. I looked much older than my age. I'm 48.

Suddenly, I noticed that my left arm was aching. The pain seemed to have spilled over and run down to the elbow. Thenit was in the right arm. Then came the shattering thought—

"This is a heart attack!"

Perhaps a thousand more Americans, every day, go through the experience of a "heart attack." No two are exactly alike.

President Eisenhower has had what is described as a moderate attack.

In my case, the doctor's first action was to giveme a massive sedative. That alone would have kept me from walking. I went to the ambulance on a stretcher.

The President has been placed in an oxygen tent. This is to ease the heart's work by giving him more oxygen with each breath. I was not placed in a tent.

But these are details.

The important point is that people have survived attacks of incredible seriousness.

A well - known diplomat and writer crumpled to the floor in the first onset of his attack. He was unable to get up and he perspired so heavily the doctors had to cut off his clothes with a scissors before getting him to bed. This took place 17 years ago. He is still active.

The heart attack seems to be more prevalent in the United States than anywhere else in the world. There are no reliable statistics because people often "sit out" an attack. They attribute it to indigestion or some other cause. The best estimates however usually place the number above 500,000 cases a year.

The basis of the cure is complete rest. In extreme cases, a patient is not allowed to move, even to feed himself during the first stages.

What is a "heart attack?"

Before answering the question, a few facts about the whole outlook are important to know:

1. Most people survive the attack. After some weeks in the hospital followed by several months of loafing, the majority go back to a more or less normal routine. The best estimates of recoveries put the figure between 80 and 90 percent.

2. Your heart has the miraculous power to repair itself. In the case of a thrombosis, the type of mishap that has overtaken the President, a mysterious process of "bypassing" the blocked artery seems to begin almost immediately.

3. The heart is incredibly tough. It has been called the strongest organ in the body. In a book about it, Dr. Peter J. Steincrohn wrote that "It is the champion of champions; it can come off the floor time after time when it appears to be completely knocked out."

One of the Psalms contains a passage that applies with particular relevance to the heart—"For we are fearfully and wonderfully made."

Now, what happens in a "heart attack?"

Stated simply—a block develops in one of the arteries that brings blood to the heart muscle, one of those that "feeds" it. A blood-clot forms and chokes off the channel.

Compare an artery to the gas line in your car. If some foreign substance plugs that line, the flow of gasoline is reduced or completely cut off. The motor may quit.

Fortunately, the heart has more than one gas line.

Science knows that the blood-clot forms at a point where the inner wall of the artery has become bumpy or roughened. Or the wall may be pinched inward by substances that accumulate in the intermediate walls of the artery. The channel narrows.

The clot may take a long, long time to form. The "attack" is the end of the process in which the artery is closed off.

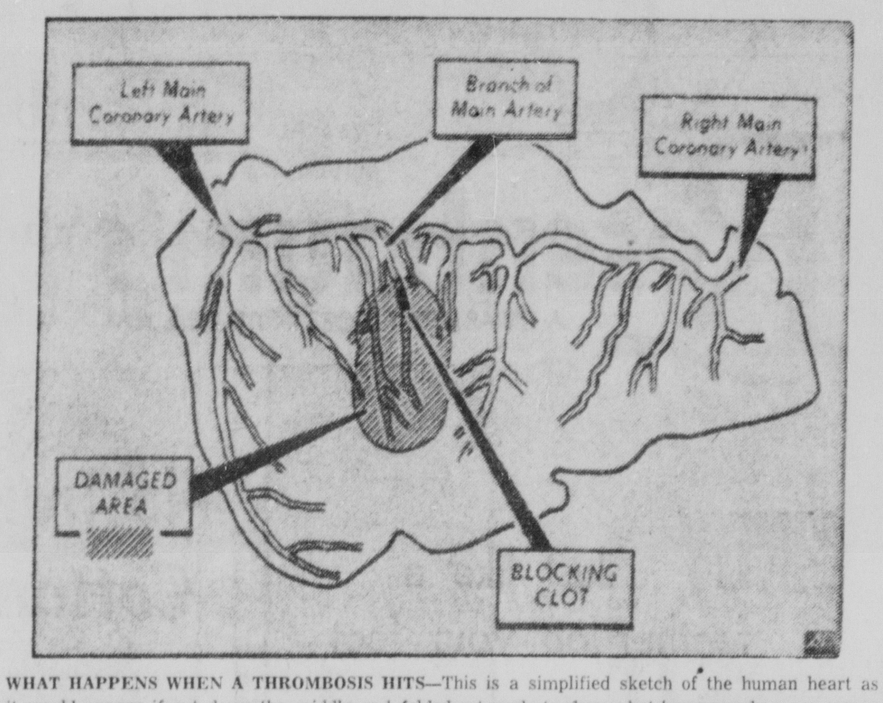
As the supply of blood diminishes, the portion of the heart muscle served by that particular artery is "starved." It cries out in agony. Thus, the pain.

Pain is personal. Mine may not have been the same as the pains others have felt. But to me, this heart pain is absolutely unique. It is like no other. Once felt, you can never mistake it for anything else.

If the blocked artery is small, the damage to the heart wall may have been slight. If it was a main channel, death may result instantly, without warning. Such cases are in the minority.

What causes this blockage? Nobody knows—yet.

Tomorrow: Cause, effect, and mystery in the human heart.



WHAT HAPPENS WHEN A THROMBOSIS HITS—This is a simplified sketch of the human heart as it would appear if cut down the middle and folded outward—to show what happens when a coronary thrombosis occurs. In this case the blood clot, known as the thrombus, has formed in a branch of one of the main arteries. Like a plug, it has stopped the flow of blood to the heart. Shaded area represents the possible size of an area in the main heart wall which could be damaged because it has been deprived of its blood supply. (AP Photofax)

U. S. Marks Debt 'Paid' But Loses

CHICAGO, Sept. 27 (AP)—Though still the financial loser, the government today marked "paid" on a debt that a northern Illinois farmer denied for 20 years.

Asst. U. S. Atty. Edgar B. Elder said he had received from William Yearton of Virgil, Ill., a check for $354.09. This represented principal and interest on a $100 seed and feed loan, plus $124.60 court costs incurred in the government's long efforts to collect.

But the government still lost money on the deal. Elder said marshals' fees, mileage and other costs over 20 years amounted to about $1,000.

The government said Yearton borrowed $100 from the Farm Credit Administration in 1935. Down through the years he denied it and rebuffed federal authorities who visited his farm to try to collect.

Finally the government took Yearton to court. The case was continued when the farmer promised to pay if the government could convince him he borrowed the money.

Yearton promised to mail the check after looking over records in Elder's office Sept. 20.

Clock Has Worked For Four Railroads

OTTAWA, Sept. 27 (AP)—A 65-year-old clock ticking away in the Canadian National Railways' Walkley yard office has, technically, worked for four railroads. It started in 1890 with the Ottawa, Arnprior and Parry Sound line, stayed on under the Canadian Atlantic, The Grand Trunk and CNR. Still keeps good time, too, says Chief Clerk W. T. Fitzpatrick.

Adm. Byrd Calls For Permanent Antarctic Bases

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27 (AP) — Adm. Richard E. Byrd said this week permanent human settlements can and must be set up in the frozen antarctic.

The veteran explorer, soon to set off on a new expedition to the South Polar region, said the Antarctic Continent "is becoming more and more important where world strategy is concerned" and thee Russians are "tremendously interested" in the area.

In an interview recorded for the Mutual Broadcasting System's "Reporters' Roundup," Byrd said the Soviet Union already claims "a good deal" of antarctic territory. He noted, however, the United States does not recognize the claims of any of the dozen or so nations now active in the region.

As for the United States' strategic interest in the area, Byrd said:

"If anything happened to the Panama Canal, we'd have to go around Cape Horn. And there is a part of Antarctica that extends up near Cape Horn. So we'd have to have control of that area."

The United States at present claims no antarctic territory just as it recognizes the claim of no other nation. Byrd said he supposed the United Nations eventually would try to resolve conflicting claims.

Military considerations aside, Byrd said, the mineral and other resources of the six-million-square-mile region "will be of great benefit to the future, as we continue to recklessly expend our own resources, so that people will have to live there."

And he said year-around living is possible even though temperatures sometimes drop to more than 100 degrees below zero.

Byrd also said he expects to lay before the National Security Council a plan he has advocated for some time—using the all but limitless icecap of the antarctic as a sort of permanent refrigerator for surplus and other food products.

The United States has an approximate mean altitude of 2,500 feet above sea level. Colorado is the highest state while Delaware is the lowest.

Science Helps Quadruple 'Lord's Acre' Corn Crop

ATHENS, Tex., Sept. 27 (AP) — When his church asked him last winter to set aside a "Lord's acre," farmer I. B. Irons explained his acreage was limited but he would plant it to corn. His usual corn yield was 10 to 15 bushels per acre, which would be enough to help the County Line Baptist Church keep going.

Instead of 10 to 15 bushels, the little church is going to get about 60 bushels of corn, because of what Irons likes to think of as a partnership between the Lord and science.

The first step was Irons' own. He applied about 200 pounds of fertilizer.

A few days later William H. Longstaff and B. J. Simpson, soil scientists from the Texas Research Foundation, showed up. They wanted to make some fertilizer tests in Irons' sandy soil, saw the little field across the road, and suggested they use it.

Irons said go ahead. He didn't tell them it was a Lord's Acre.

The scientists made a uniform application of nitrogen. They applied varying rates of phosphorus and potash, later added some more nitrogen.

Irons has harvested the Lord's crop and it ran about 60 bushels, with parts of the field yielding better than others, depending on the ratio of phosphorus and potash.

Irons will set aside the same plot next year as the Lord's acre but won't limit fertilizer to that plot.

"If those scientists can produce all that corn on the Lord's land," he said, "they can do it on mine, too."

New Color TV Tube Produced

ELMIRA, N.Y., Sept. 27 (AP) — The first 22-inch, all-glass, rectangular color television tube built like a black and white picture tube was produced here today at the Westinghouse Electronic tube division. It features a viewing area of 265 square inches.

The new tube was described by R. T. Orth, Westinghouse vice president of the electronic tube division, as an "engineering milestone."

"A color tube using metal in the envelope must be heavily insulated since it operates on 25,000 volts," he said, "but the new Westinghouse tube requires only the standard insulation of a black and white TV set."

Skin Specialist Shows How To Rinse Away Blackheads

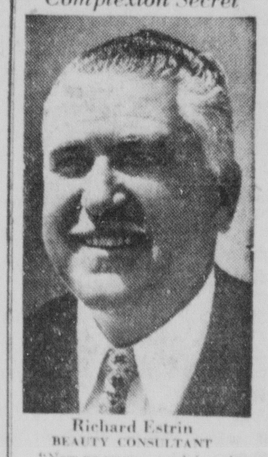
Reveals Valuable Complexion Secret



Richard Estrin
BEAUTY CONSULTANT

"Now no woman need despair of getting rid of ugly blackheads that mar an otherwise clear and lovely complexion. For here is a wonderfully simple treatment that gives dramatic proof of what it will do the very first time you use it.

"In thousands of beauty salons across the country, thousands of women have paid from $3 to $10 for single Queen Helene Treatments. However, I have arranged for STORE NAME to bring you the very same treatments at a cost of less than 10c each . . . when you give them to yourself at home."

STORE NAME guarantees you will be delighted with results. If you are not, your money will be cheerfully refunded.

Fast, Easy Treatment now available for home use

by CLAIRE HOFFMAN

NEW YORK, N. Y.—I was one of an audience of truly surprised men, women and teen-agers yesterday, when a leading New York skin specialist demonstrated a new rapid way of removing blackheads. Each demonstration took only 15 minutes — and the results were frankly amazing! Ugly blackheads actually rinsed away and many could be seen on the white cleansing tissues that finished each treatment.

But this wasn't all! The treatment also helped reduce enlarged pores and made rough, muddy complexions look cleaner, clearer and smoother.

Here's what I saw . . .

Five women and two men were each given three products and told how to use them. The specialist himself did nothing but direct them—it was so easy!

First, he had them cleanse their faces thoroughly. Not with any cream that takes off only surface dirt, but with a scientific laboratory-developed pore cleanser that softens and loosens even the grime that has been caked and cemented into the pores for weeks. It is called Queen Helene's Whipped Cleansing Cream. As it is applied, it liquefies and floats out much of the pore "filler" with its rapid emollient action.

I was amused at the look of amazement on one woman's face as she tissued off the cream. The tissue was literally gray with dirt—and she confided to me that she had washed her face before taking part in the demonstration!

I'm convinced that any woman who sees, with her own eyes, the dirt this cream floats out of her skin—will begin to understand why it is so important to use a cleanser that really works.

"Suction Action"

The second step in this skin specialist's treatment was an application of Queen Helene's Masque, a delightfully mint-medicated cream. He had them smooth it on with their finger tips, applying it very generously on "trouble spots" such as around the nose and mouth.

Any woman will really enjoy this part of the treatment! For within two or three minutes your skin begins to feel a marvelous stimulation, as though being "massaged" by the action of the medicated ingredients in the masque. Next your face feels alternately "hot" and "cold" — followed in a few minutes by a delightful sensation of utter relaxation. Then your skin feels tighter . . . and tighter . . . and tighter!

It was explained this way

A special absorbing agent called Argilla dries and turns the cream into a plastic-like masque. As this firms and hardens, its suction action draws on the waste matter in the pores . . . This, he informed us, was the most important part of the treatment.

TRY TISSUE TEST! First wash face thoroughly, then apply treatment; tissue off . . . Now you can see . . . tiny specks of black on your tissue that were once ugly blackheads and imbedded pore dirt.

READ WHAT BEAUTY EDITORS SAY:

—Ruth Mugglebee, Women's Editor, BOSTON DAILY RECORD

"When a skin specialist is responsible for a cosmetic line from his private formulas you have something."—Antoinette Donnelly, NEW YORK DAILY NEWS

"Effective way to banish blackheads...If stubborn blackheads bother you, you'll be thrilled in using a brand-new treatment which does wonders toward clearing a disturbed complexion." BOSTON DAILY GLOBE

"Thanks to a doctor's remarkable discovery comes a scientific three-way skin and beauty treatment that takes only 10 minutes but produces startling results." BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN

Rinses away with water

After about 10 minutes, the masques were rinsed away with water. Hot or cold makes no difference — the hardened cream dissolves in seconds. You simply wipe your face and—to your amazement—you see blackheads and other pore "filler" actually come off on your washcloth or tissue! Your skin feels clean—really clean — and refreshed and smooth, like velvet!

Pore sponging and closing

The third and final step in the treatment was a quick dousing with Queen Helene's Penetrating Astringent. I found out that this was a very special astringent that sinks deep into your pores and performs the final necessary dissolving, soaking-up action — after which it helps tighten the pore openings and leaves an invisible film that helps protect your skin for hours against dirt and reinfection.

What will happen when you use this 3-step treatment?

You'll find the answer when you look in your mirror. Even after a single treatment, you are bound to see a marked improvement in your complexion. The chances are you'll find it hard to believe your eyes.

For example, some of the blackheads and whiteheads should be gone — either completely or partially — while others will be softened and made ready to be drawn out in another treatment or two. You will also see that many of your most prominent pores appear to be smaller—that your skin looks smoother—and feels fresher and more alive!

In short, after a single treatment taking less than fifteen minutes, you can expect to see results that normally you would not dare hope for even after many weeks of treatment . . . but don't expect everything at once, just the same! Adm. Byrd Calls For Permanent Antarctic Bases

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27 (AP) — Adm. Richard E. Byrd said this week permanent human settlements can and must be set up in the frozen antarctic.

The veteran explorer, soon to set off on a new expedition to the South Polar region, said the Antarctic Continent "is becoming more and more important where world strategy is concerned" and thee Russians are "tremendously interested" in the area.

In an interview recorded for the Mutual Broadcasting System's "Reporters' Roundup," Byrd said the Soviet Union already claims "a good deal" of antarctic territory. He noted, however, the United States does not recognize the claims of any of the dozen or so nations now active in the region.

As for the United States' strategic interest in the area, Byrd said:

"If anything happened to the Panama Canal, we'd have to go around Cape Horn. And there is a part of Antarctica that extends up near Cape Horn. So we'd have to have control of that area."

The United States at present claims no antarctic territory just as it recognizes the claim of no other nation. Byrd said he supposed the United Nations eventually would try to resolve conflicting claims.

Military considerations aside, Byrd said, the mineral and other resources of the six-million-square-mile region "will be of great benefit to the future, as we continue to recklessly expend our own resources, so that people will have to live there."

And he said year-around living is possible even though temperatures sometimes drop to more than 100 degrees below zero.

Byrd also said he expects to lay before the National Security Council a plan he has advocated for some time—using the all but limitless icecap of the antarctic as a sort of permanent refrigerator for surplus and other food products.

The United States has an approximate mean altitude of 2,500 feet above sea level. Colorado is the highest state while Delaware is the lowest.

Science Helps Quadruple 'Lord's Acre' Corn Crop

ATHENS, Tex., Sept. 27 (AP) — When his church asked him last winter to set aside a "Lord's acre," farmer I. B. Irons explained his acreage was limited but he would plant it to corn. His usual corn yield was 10 to 15 bushels per acre, which would be enough to help the County Line Baptist Church keep going.

Instead of 10 to 15 bushels, the little church is going to get about 60 bushels of corn, because of what Irons likes to think of as a partnership between the Lord and science.

The first step was Irons' own. He applied about 200 pounds of fertilizer.

A few days later William H. Longstaff and B. J. Simpson, soil scientists from the Texas Research Foundation, showed up. They wanted to make some fertilizer tests in Irons' sandy soil, saw the little field across the road, and suggested they use it.

Irons said go ahead. He didn't tell them it was a Lord's Acre.

The scientists made a uniform application of nitrogen. They applied varying rates of phosphorus and potash, later added some more nitrogen.

Irons has harvested the Lord's crop and it ran about 60 bushels, with parts of the field yielding better than others, depending on the ratio of phosphorus and potash.

Irons will set aside the same plot next year as the Lord's acre but won't limit fertilizer to that plot.

"If those scientists can produce all that corn on the Lord's land," he said, "they can do it on mine, too."

New Color TV Tube Produced

ELMIRA, N.Y., Sept. 27 (AP) — The first 22-inch, all-glass, rectangular color television tube built like a black and white picture tube was produced here today at the Westinghouse Electronic tube division. It features a viewing area of 265 square inches.

The new tube was described by R. T. Orth, Westinghouse vice president of the electronic tube division, as an "engineering milestone."

"A color tube using metal in the envelope must be heavily insulated since it operates on 25,000 volts," he said, "but the new Westinghouse tube requires only the standard insulation of a black and white TV set."

Five United States Presidents married twice — Tyler, Harrison, Fillmore, Theodore Roosevelt and Wilson.

Rice supplies the major food requirements for about one half of the world's population. It is as high as 80 per cent of the entire food intake in many countries.

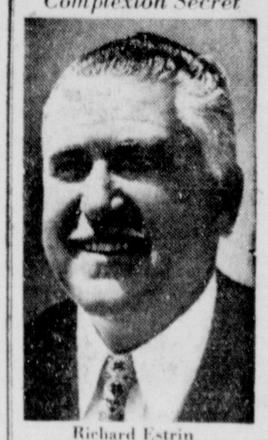
Skin Specialist Shows How To Rinse Away Blackheads

"Thrilled and delighted," says Miss Carolyn Peterson (left) after demonstration. "Could hardly believe my eyes!" said Miss Maxine Cantway (center). "It's true! I can't believe it! Where did the blackheads all go?" exclaimed Mrs. Sylvia Schaeffer (right).

Reveals Valuable Complexion Secret



Richard Estrin
BEAUTY CONSULTANT

"Now no woman need despair of getting rid of ugly blackheads that mar an otherwise clear and lovely complexion. For here is a wonderfully simple treatment that gives dramatic proof of what it will do the very first time you use it.

"In thousands of beauty salons across the country, thousands of women have paid from $5 to $10 for single Queen Helene Treatments. However, I have arranged for STORE NAME to bring you the very same treatments at a cost of less than 10¢ each . . . when you give them to yourself at home."

STORE NAME guarantees you will be delighted with results. If you are not, your money will be cheerfully refunded.

Fast, Easy Treatment now available for home use

by CLAIRE HOFFMAN

NEW YORK, N. Y.—I was one of an audience of truly surprised men, women and teen-agers yesterday, when a leading New York skin specialist demonstrated a new rapid way of removing blackheads. Each demonstration took only 15 minutes — and the results were frankly amazing! Ugly blackheads actually rinsed away and many could be seen on the white cleansing tissues that finished each treatment.

But this wasn't all! The treatment also helped reduce enlarged pores and made rough, muddy complexions look cleaner, clearer and smoother.

Here's what I saw . . .

Five women and two men were each given three products and told how to use them. The specialist himself did nothing but direct them—it was so easy!

First, he had them cleanse their faces thoroughly. Not with any cream that takes off only surface dirt, but with a scientific laboratory-developed pore cleanser that softens and loosens even the grime that has been caked and cemented into the pores for weeks. It is called Queen Helene's Whipped Cleansing Cream. As it is applied, it liquefies and floats out much of the pore "filler" with its rapid emollient action.

I was amused at the look of amazement on one woman's face as she tissued off the cream. The tissue was literally gray with dirt—and she confided to me that she had washed her face before taking part in the demonstration!

I'm convinced that any woman who sees, with her own eyes, the dirt this cream floats out of her skin—will begin to understand why it is so important to use a cleanser that really works.

"Suction Action"

The second step in this skin specialist's treatment was an application of Queen Helene's Masque, a delightfully mint-medicated cream. He had them smooth it on with their finger tips, applying it very generously on "trouble spots" such as around the nose and mouth.

Any woman will really enjoy this part of the treatment! For within two or three minutes your skin begins to feel a marvelous stimulation, as though being "massaged" by the action of the medicated ingredients in the masque. Next your face feels alternately "hot" and "cold" — followed in a few minutes by a delightful sensation of utter relaxation. Then your skin feels tighter . . . and tighter . . . and tighter!

It was explained this way

A special ansorning agent called Argilla dries and turns the cream into a plastic-like masque. As this firms and hardens, its suction action draws on the waste matter in the pores . . . This, he informed us, was the most important part of the treatment.

TRY TISSUE TEST! First wash face thoroughly, then apply treatment; tissue off . . . Now you can see . . . tiny specks of black on your tissue that were once ugly blackheads and imbedded pore dirt.

READ WHAT BEAUTY EDITORS SAY:

—Ruth Mugglebee, Women's Editor, BOSTON DAILY RECORD

"When a skin specialist is responsible for a cosmetic line from his private formulas you have something."—Antoinette Donnelly, NEW YORK DAILY NEWS

"Effective way to banish blackheads . . . If stubborn blackheads bother you, you'll be thrilled in using a brand-new treatment which does wonders toward clearing a disturbed complexion." BOSTON DAILY GLOBE

"Thanks to a doctor's remarkable discovery comes a scientific three-way skin and beauty treatment that takes only 10 minutes but produces startling results." BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN

Rinses away with water

After about 10 minutes, the masques were rinsed away with water. Hot or cold makes no difference — the hardened cream dissolves in seconds. You simply wipe your face and—to your amazement—you see blackheads and other pore "filler" actually come off on your washcloth or tissue! Your skin feels clean—really clean — and refreshed and smooth, like velvet!

Pore sponging and closing

The third and final step in the treatment was a quick dousing with Queen Helene's Penetrating Astringent. I found out that this was a very special astringent that sinks deep into your pores and performs the final necessary dissolving, soaking-up action — after which it helps tighten the pore openings and leaves an invisible film that helps protect your skin for hours against dirt and reinfection.

What will happen when you use this 3-step treatment?

You'll find the answer when you look in your mirror. Even after a single treatment, you are bound to see a marked improvement in your complexion. The chances are you'll find it hard to believe your eyes.

For example, some of the blackheads and whiteheads should be gone — either completely or partially — while others will be softened and made ready to be drawn out in another treatment or two. You will also see that many of your most prominent pores appear to be smaller—that your skin looks smoother—and feels fresher and more alive!

In short, after a single treatment taking less than fifteen minutes, you can expect to see results that normally you would not dare hope for even after many weeks of treatment . . . but don't expect everything at once, just the same! The damage done by years of neglect and improper care cannot be undone in a single day. IR Group Hears Talk On Mexico

The International Relations Group of the Cumberland Branch, American Association of University Women held its first fall meeting at the home of Miss Janet Anderson, LaVale, at which time Mrs. A. L. Rogers spoke on Mexico.

The illustrated talk concerned chiefly with Mexico City, where Mr. and Mrs. Rogers spent the past summer; and the University of Mexico. Mrs. Rogers was enrolled as a graduate student of Spanish at the university. While there they lived in the home of a Mexican family, with whom, she said, they became acquainted and learned much of the people, habits and customs. In going about, she said, they never missed an opportunity to chat with the Mexicans, both adults and children.

Mrs. Rogers said the consensus seemed to be that the present government is good and has done more for the poor and underprivileged. She said her ability to speak and understand Spanish served her well.

She also told of the leisurely way classes at the university are organized compared to the brisk method in northern colleges. After slow preliminaries, she declared, work really began and instruction was good and students progressed.

Slides showed the modern university buildings, which the speaker described as fabulous, the like of which she had never seen; and of Mexico City and the country. Mrs. Rogers is a teacher of Spanish at Allegany High School.

Mrs. John R. Anderson was cohostess with her daughter, Mrs. William H. Blake presided at the business session. It was decided the next meeting will be held October 28 at the home of Mrs. A. L. Schleifman, 211 Washington Street, with the United Nations as the subject.

Others present were Miss Lillian Boughton, Miss Virginia Dixon, Miss Annie B. Gray, Miss Nan Livingston, Mrs. Schleifman, Mrs. John G. Thomas, Miss Margaret Baker, Miss Adele Malcolm, Mrs. William C. Harrison, Mr. Rogers and Miss Catherine Coleman, Baltimore, were guests.

Society Marks 15th Anniversary

The Women's Society of Christian Service of Emmanuel Church, in conjunction with the world observance, held a special service marking its 15th birthday. The anniversary celebrated the union of the Ladies Aid and the Wesleyan Service Guild in the local church.

A short business session was held, at which time the allotment of a contribution to Park Place parsonage building fund was discussed, as well as a gift for the birthday of the society's missionary. Several members volunteered to make stoles for the choir robes of the adult and junior choirs.

The program and worship service followed in the church. Mrs. Dessel Shanholtzer was in charge of the worship service, while Mrs. Alice Trout arranged the program. Mrs. Edith Young, guest speaker, outlined phases of work in the WSCS and its importance. Mrs. Marian Cassell and Miss Nancy Mease sang a duet, with Mrs. Ilda Walker at the piano.

IR Group Hears Talk On Mexico

The International Relations Group of the Cumberland Branch, American Association of University Women held its first fall meeting at the home of Miss Janet Anderson, LaVale, at which time Mrs. A. L. Rogers spoke on Mexico.

The illustrated talk concerned chiefly with Mexico City, where Mr. and Mrs. Rogers spent the past summer; and the University of Mexico. Mrs. Rogers was enrolled as a graduate student of Spanish at the university. While there they lived in the home of a Mexican family, with whom, she said, they became acquainted and learned much of the people, habits and customs. In going about, she said, they never missed an opportunity to chat with the Mexicans, both adults and children.

Mrs. Rogers said the consensus seemed to be that the present government is good and has done more for the poor and underprivileged. She said her ability to speak and understand Spanish served her well.

She also told of the leisurely way classes at the university are organized compared to the brisk method in northern colleges. After slow preliminaries, she declared, work really began and instruction was good and students progressed.

Slides showed the modern university buildings, which the speaker described as fabulous, the like of which she had never seen; and of Mexico City and the country. Mrs. Rogers is a teacher of Spanish at Allegany High School.

Mrs. John R. Anderson was cohostess with her daughter, Mrs. William H. Blake presided at the business session. It was decided the next meeting will be held October 28 at the home of Mrs. A. L. Schleifman, 211 Washington Street, with the United Nations as the subject.

Others present were Miss Lillian Boughton, Miss Virginia Dixon, Miss Annie B. Gray, Miss Nan Livingston, Mrs. Schleifman, Mrs. John G. Thomas, Miss Margaret Baker, Miss Adele Malcolm, Mrs. William C. Harrison, Mr. Rogers and Miss Catherine Coleman, Baltimore, were guests.

The program and worship service followed in the church. Mrs. Dessel Shanholtzer was in charge of the worship service, while Mrs. Alice Trout arranged the program. ESB To Press Prosecution Of Those Receiving Jobless Benefits By Fraud

BALTIMORE, Sept. 27 (AP) — The Maryland Employment Security Board today announced a new policy under which it will seek criminal prosecution of anyone getting unemployment benefits by fraud.

Robert B. Kimble, long-time Allegany County legislator who became head of the agency last spring after irregularities in its management were disclosed, announced the new procedure.

He said it was but one step in a general tightening up against fraudulent claims for unemployment benefits.

At the same time he disclosed nearly $100,000 was paid out in the third quarter of 1954 to applicants not entitled to unemployment benefits. This brought the total for the first nine months of 1954 to almost $500,000.

Heretofore the board has made an individual decision on each case involving fraud or some other irregularity. Some were prosecuted. Some of those who received benefits by fraud were prevailed on to give the money back. Some intricate cases involving small sums were let slide.

From now on, Kimble said, all such cases will be referred to the proper State's attorney for prosecution.

The most prevalent type of fraud involves the drawing of unemployment benefits by workers who are laid off one job but quickly find another. They draw an unemployment check on the basis of the layoff, keeping it quiet they actually are working again.

Currently, Kimble reported, the ESB carries $565,077 on its books as the amount of payments it has made in recent years in cases which later turned out to involve fraud.

Between Jan. 1, 1954, and Aug. 31, 1955, the agency dispensed about 213½ million dollars.

"Percentagewise, this represents a good record," Kimble said. "But it still means more than half a million dollars was paid out improperly and we intend to prevent that from happening as far as is humanly possible."

Kimble said the auditing procedures for detecting fraud now have been speeded up by as much as six months.

Other efforts to spot fraudulent cases also have been intensified, he said, to the point the Federal Bureau of Employment Security now calls Maryland's system the best in the country.

Kimble said the board will ask the Legislative Council to prepare revisions which would increase the penalty for obtaining unemployment benefits by fraud.

One suggestion they have is that a person convicted of fraud be required the repay twice what he received.

The present penalties are $50 to $500 fine and up to 90 days in jail or both.

Plane Builder Dies In Crash

AKRON, Ohio, Sept. 27 (AP)—Robert Lewis Brown, 34, formerly of Clarksburg, W. Va., was killed yesterday in the crash of an experimental airplane which he helped build.

Also killed in the crash at Akron-Canton Airport was mechanic Lou Engle. Brown had been a radio electronics engineer with Goodyear Aircraft Corp. since coming here two years ago.

Brown and Engle had taken their five-place plane up yesterday a few hours before CAA officials were due to arrive to check the craft's design. The plane was about 400 feet off the ground when it crashed.

Both men were unmarried.

Brown's foster parents are Mr. and Mrs. John L. Sullivan of Nutter Fort, W. Va., near Clarksburg.

Brown began his flying career when he was graduated from Clarksburg Roosevelt Wilson High School and won a 10-hour flying course for his straight A grades. He served with the Army in the South Pacific and had been a flight instructor at West Virginia University and the University of Pittsburgh.

State Construction Contract Record Set

BALTIMORE, Sept. 27 (AP)—Contracts for construction awarded in Maryland in the first eight months of 1955 set an all time record.

F. W. Dodge Corp., which tabulates contract awards, reported the figure for the first eight months of 1955 was $537,554,000, or 34 per cent above the same period in 1954.

The August figure was $55,531,000, up 15 per cent.

Attorney's Wife Dies

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Sept. 27 (AP)—Mrs. Georgie Edmiston Clifford, 63, wife of J. Phillip Clifford, prominent Clarksburg attorney, died of a cerebral hemorrhage last night at her home.

Clifford served as prosecuting attorney for many years and is a former judge of the Harrison-Lewis Circuit Court.

WHEATON, Md., Sept. 27 (AP)—A 15-million-gallon steel water reservoir, believed to be one of the largest of its kind in the world, will be built here by the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission.

Harbor Tunnel Probers Head For New York

BALTIMORE, Sept. 27 (AP) — Maryland lawmakers investigating a Baltimore Harbor Tunnel rights-of-way contract left today for New York, where they will confer with officials of the Triborough Bridge Authority.

The probers, members of the Legislative Council, are looking into a contract under which two real estate firms act as agents of the State Roads Commission in buying up rights of way for the tunnel and its approaches.

The fee paid the two firms—7½ per cent of what the State pays the property owners—was roundly criticized in the 1955 Legislature after the Democrats raised it as an issue in the 1954 election campaign. The council is the between-sessions investigating and screening branch of the Legislature.

The meeting Wednesday morning with New York officials comes as a follow-up to two hearings already held by the probers in Baltimore. They questioned Roads Commission Chairman Russell H. McCain; David M. Nichols, former member of the commission and now head of the two real estate firms splitting the 7½ per cent fees; John A. Magee of William Martien and Co., the other real estate firm; Russell T. Baker, realtor who publicly offered to handle the same work for five per cent, then withdrew the offer, and others.

Sen. Turnbull (D-Balto County) arranged the New York conference with Robert Moses, head of the Triborough Bridge Authority.

One member of the Maryland delegation said it would ask Moses for, among other things, details of rights-of-way acquisition for projects similar to the Baltimore Harbor Tunnel.

McCain told the probers the commission approved the 7½ per cent fee, rather than a fixed rate of compensation, on the recommendation of the J. E. Greiner Co., consulting engineers of the tunnel project.

Herschel H. Allen, senior partner of the Greiner company, told Senate Finance Committee members last winter and the council probers last week that the percentage-fee basis was unique in his experience but more practical.

He noted that, under the contract, Nichols and Martien representatives made separate appraisals of the same property before the commission approved its purchase.

The commission also has the power, he said, to reject both appraisals and call for a third by an independent source at the expense of the Nichols and Martien companies.

Youth Is Convicted In Bike Fight Slaying

BALTIMORE, Sept. 27 (AP)—Fifteen-year-old Clarence Moore was acquitted of murder but convicted of manslaughter today in the slaying of another teen-age Negro as they fought over a new bicycle.

Hugh Vasquez, 14, was stabbed in the back. Moore said he wielded a triangular metal tire repair tool but police were never able to find it.

The new bicycle belonged to Moore. Vasquez toyed with some of the decorations on it. Then he insisted on riding it. Moore objected. He admitted he hit the younger boy in the back with the tool.

Sentence was not imposed on Moore immediately.

Youth Court Records Show 75% Repeaters

BALTIMORE, Sept. 27 (AP) — A statistical study showed today nearly 75 per cent of the youngsters whose troubles brought them into Youth Court during the past summer already had some kind of a court record.

The Youth Court is a special division of Baltimore's criminal courts for offenders 16 to 21.

Thomas P. McCarthy, deputy chief probation officer, reported 47 per cent of the cases between May and September involved youngsters who had previously been before the juvenile court.

Another 22 per cent had previous experience in both juvenile and adult courts.

McCarthy's study showed over 96 per cent of the 16- and 17-year-olds were involved in serious crimes—burglarly to assault with intent to kill.

For the 18-21 age bracket, this percentage was only 85 per cent. The older group was more frequently involved in such things as forgery and bad checks.

Small Tanker Catches Fire At Baltimore

BALTIMORE, Sept. 27 (AP) — The Alice Virginia, a small motor tanker, caught fire today while she was fueling an ore ship at Bethlehem Steel's big Sparrows Point plant.

No one was hurt.

A tug pulled the 50-foot tanker out into the harbor and cut her loose. Coast Guard cutters kept other craft clear until a city fireboat quenched the blaze and took the Alice Virginia in tow.

ESB To Press Prosecution Of Those Receiving Jobless Benefits By Fraud

BALTIMORE, Sept. 27 (AP) — The Maryland Employment Security Board today announced a new policy under which it will seek criminal prosecution of anyone getting unemployment benefits by fraud.

Robert B. Kimble, long-time Allegany County legislator who became head of the agency last spring after irregularities in its management were disclosed, announced the new procedure.

He said it was but one step in a general tightening up against fraudulent claims for unemployment benefits.

At the same time he disclosed nearly $100,000 was paid out in the third quarter of 1954 to applicants not entitled to unemployment benefits. This brought the total for the first nine months of 1954 to almost $500,000.

Heretofore the board has made an individual decision on each case involving fraud or some other irregularity. Some were prosecuted. Some of those who received benefits by fraud were prevailed on to give the money back. Some intricate cases involving small sums were let slide.

From now on, Kimble said, all such cases will be referred to the proper State's attorney for prosecution.

The most prevalent type of fraud involves the drawing of unemployment benefits by workers who are laid off one job but quickly find another. They draw an unemployment check on the basis of the layoff, keeping it quiet they actually are working again.

Currently, Kimble reported, the ESB carries $565,077 on its books as the amount of payments it has made in recent years in cases which later turned out to involve fraud.

Between Jan. 1, 1954, and Aug. 31, 1955, the agency dispensed about 213½ million dollars.

"Percentagewise, this represents a good record," Kimble said. "But it still means more than half a million dollars was paid out improperly and we intend to prevent that from happening as far as is humanly possible."

Kimble said the auditing procedures for detecting fraud now have been speeded up by as much as six months.

Other efforts to spot fraudulent cases also have been intensified, he said, to the point the Federal Bureau of Employment Security now calls Maryland's system the best in the country.

Kimble said the board will ask the Legislative Council to prepare revisions which would increase the penalty for obtaining unemployment benefits by fraud.

One suggestion they have is that a person convicted of fraud be required the repay twice what he received.

The present penalties are $50 to $500 fine and up to 90 days in jail or both.

Harbor Tunnel Probers Head For New York

BALTIMORE, Sept. 27 (AP) — Maryland lawmakers investigating a Baltimore Harbor Tunnel rights-of-way contract left today for New York, where they will confer with officials of the Triborough Bridge Authority.

The probers, members of the Legislative Council, are looking into a contract under which two real estate firms act as agents of the State Roads Commission in buying up rights of way for the tunnel and its approaches.

The fee paid the two firms—7½ per cent of what the State pays the property owners—was roundly criticized in the 1955 Legislature after the Democrats raised it as an issue in the 1954 election campaign. The council is the between-sessions investigating and screening branch of the Legislature.

The meeting Wednesday morning with New York officials comes as a follow-up to two hearings already held by the probers in Baltimore. They questioned Roads Commission Chairman Russell H. McCain; David M. Nichols, former member of the commission and now head of the two real estate firms splitting the 7½ per cent fees; John A. Magee of William Martien and Co., the other real estate firm; Russell T. Baker, realtor who publicly offered to handle the same work for five per cent, then withdrew the offer, and others.

Sen. Turnbull (D-Balto County) arranged the New York conference with Robert Moses, head of the Triborough Bridge Authority.

One member of the Maryland delegation said it would ask Moses for, among other things, details of rights-of-way acquisition for projects similar to the Baltimore Harbor Tunnel.

McCain told the probers the commission approved the 7½ per cent fee, rather than a fixed rate of compensation, on the recommendation of the J. E. Greiner Co., consulting engineers of the tunnel project.

Herschel H. Allen, senior partner of the Greiner company, told Senate Finance Committee members last winter and the council probers last week that the percentage-fee basis was unique in his experience but more practical.

He noted that, under the contract, Nichols and Martien representatives made separate appraisals of the same property before the commission approved its purchase.

The commission also has the power, he said, to reject both appraisals and call for a third by an independent source at the expense of the Nichols and Martien companies.

Youth Court Records Show 75% Repeaters

BALTIMORE, Sept. 27 (AP) — A statistical study showed today nearly 75 per cent of the youngsters whose troubles brought them into Youth Court during the past summer already had some kind of a court record.

The Youth Court is a special division of Baltimore's criminal courts for offenders 16 to 21.

Thomas P. McCarthy, deputy chief probation officer, reported 47 per cent of the cases between May and September involved youngsters who had previously been before the juvenile court.

Another 22 per cent had previous experience in both juvenile and adult courts.

McCarthy's study showed over 96 per cent of the 16- and 17-year-olds were involved in serious crimes—burglarly to assault with intent to kill.

For the 18-21 age bracket, this percentage was only 85 per cent. The older group was more frequently involved in such things as forgery and bad checks.

Small Tanker Catches Fire At Baltimore

BALTIMORE, Sept. 27 (AP) — The Alice Virginia, a small motor tanker, caught fire today while she was fueling an ore ship at Bethlehem Steel's big Sparrows Point plant.

No one was hurt.

A tug pulled the 50-foot tanker out into the harbor and cut her loose. Coast Guard cutters kept other craft clear until a city fireboat quenched the blaze and took the Alice Virginia in tow.

Plane Builder Dies In Crash

AKRON, Ohio, Sept. 27 (AP)—Robert Lewis Brown, 34, formerly of Clarksburg, W. Va., was killed yesterday in the crash of an experimental airplane which he helped build.

Also killed in the crash at Akron-Canton Airport was mechanic Lou Engle. Brown had been a radio electronics engineer with Goodyear Aircraft Corp. since coming here two years ago.

Brown and Engle had taken their five-place plane up yesterday a few hours before CAA officials were due to arrive to check the craft's design. The plane was about 400 feet off the ground when it crashed.

Both men were unmarried.

Brown's foster parents are Mr. and Mrs. John L. Sullivan of Nutter Fort, W. Va., near Clarksburg.

Brown began his flying career when he was graduated from Clarksburg Roosevelt Wilson High School and won a 10-hour flying course for his straight A grades. He served with the Army in the South Pacific and had been a flight instructor at West Virginia University and the University of Pittsburgh.

State Construction Contract Record Set

BALTIMORE, Sept. 27 (AP)—Contracts for construction awarded in Maryland in the first eight months of 1955 set an all time record.

F. W. Dodge Corp., which tabulates contract awards, reported the figure for the first eight months of 1955 was $537,554,000, or 34 per cent above the same period in 1954.

The August figure was $55,531,000, up 15 per cent.

Attorney's Wife Dies

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Sept. 27 (AP)—Mrs. Georgie Edmiston Clifford, 63, wife of J. Phillip Clifford, prominent Clarksburg attorney, died of a cerebral hemorrhage last night at her home.

Clifford served as prosecuting attorney for many years and is a former judge of the Harrison-Lewis Circuit Court.

Huge Water Reservoir

WHEATON, Md., Sept. 27 (AP)—A 15-million-gallon steel water reservoir, believed to be one of the largest of its kind in the world, will be built here by the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission.

Youth Is Convicted In Bike Fight Slaying

BALTIMORE, Sept. 27 (AP)—Fifteen-year-old Clarence Moore was acquitted of murder but convicted of manslaughter today in the slaying of another teen-age Negro as they fought over a new bicycle.

Hugh Vasquez, 14, was stabbed in the back. Moore said he wielded a triangular metal tire repair tool but police were never able to find it.

The new bicycle belonged to Moore. Vasquez toyed with some of the decorations on it. Then he insisted on riding it. Moore objected. He admitted he hit the younger boy in the back with the tool.

Sentence was not imposed on Moore immediately.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Just what would you think are the charm problems which are brought oftenest to us at the Powers School? Would you guess that one of them is the unhappy affliction of shyness?

Mature women as well as young girls confess this handicap, although some of them may keep it fairly well hidden from the world. They admit that the ease they show is not the case they feel, and that they need help. And this is exactly where help begins, with their own revelation that shyness sometimes exists where it isn't apparent.

All shy persons must learn that no matter how much or how little it shows, others are shy, too. The shy find this hard to realize. Their own self-consciousness keeps them too wrapped up in themselves to recognize it in anyone else. They take an appearance of overconfidence at face value also, unaware that this attitude so often cloaks a lack of confidence.

Make your starting point in overcoming shyness the realization that everyone has a certain shyness by nature — that you, the shy one, aren't so different from anyone else. Think about this for a moment. As you convince yourself, a wonderful feeling of encouragement will come over you.

Keep it in mind the next time you're surrounded by ,strangers. It's so much easier to talk to someone when you remember that despite appearances, he may feel no bolder than you do. Or even less so, and needs gentle encouragement from you. Reach out of yourself and put yourself in another's place, then try to make him feel at ease rather than wait for someone to do this for you.

REP. JOSEPH F. HOLT (R-Calif.) has released these two pictures of his controversial visit to the Soviet Union, during which he was almost shot by a Russian soldier. Holt took the top photo from inside a car as an American Embassy official showed his papers to political leaders in Troitselykove. The Russians claim unpleasantness developed when Holt asked a woman to put out her hands in a begging pose. At bottom, with her son, the woman apparently poses willingly against a background of bread or grain wagons. (International)

"Biting" Dog Sought

NEW YORK, Sept. 27 (AP) — Patricia Lyn Richards, 7, was bitten by a dog while she out for a walk the other day in the Bronx.

Unless health authorities can find the dog and make sure it doesn't have rabies, Patricia will have to undergo a painful series of antirabies injections.

An average family in the United States uses 788 cans of all types a year.

County Refuses Used Auto Parts Permit

The need of a countywide zoning law was pointed up yesterday at a meeting of the Allegany County Commissioners as the board turned down the application of a Keyser man to operate a used auto parts business in McCoole.

A delegation of residents near the auto junk yard, as they termed it, presented lengthy arguments against the location of the business near their homes.

James E. Smith on September 16 had applied to the commissioners for a junk yard permit, stating he intended to dismantle old autos in a building on the property he purchased and sell the parts.

Would Hurt Values

The delegation was comprised of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Dayton, Malcolm Bray, and H. R. "Ted" Metcalfe. They presented a number of points to back up their reasons for the commissioners to refuse the permit.

They stated the yard, although Smith said he was going to erect an eight-foot fence around the property, would devaluate their properties.

In addition to being unsightly, the junk yard would be a harbor for pests such as rats, the group stated.

The operation of the parts business also constituted what they said was a nuisance for them, as persons wanting the auto parts would turn their cars in their driveways in addition to asking for information.

Not Junk Yard

Gorman C. Getty, county attorney, pointed out that Smith told the board that he did not intend to operate a junk yard, but a used auto parts business and promised to remove the scrap metal as it accumulated.

The group also pointed to the junk yard situation that developed in LaVale and a case against its operator is in the Maryland Court of Appeals, after Chief Judge George Henderson ordered the scrap metal concealed from view or removed.

Commissioner James Orr stated that he was opposed to issuing any permit to a junk yard near a dwelling place or near any community.

Zoning Law Needed

Board President William H. Lemmert commented that the law regulating the operation of junk yards or used metal places passed by the General Assembly in 1952 at the request of the county commissioners has not turned out to be a strong law.

The county board has jurisdiction over such storage areas only a few hundred yards from a highway.

Orr made and Commissioner Charles N. Wilkinson seconded the motion to reject the permit.

Wilkinson pointed out that he has proposed the county have a zoning law. Such regulations would prevent situations such as these and citizens have to have protection, he added.

Tax Collections Total $174,927

Total 1955-56 property taxes received at the office since tax bills were received September 20 amount to $174,927.76. The total tax levy is $1,128,500.

Foresters Hear Logging Talks

Maryland foresters held a week-long conference on logging and its relation to the State Department of Forests and Parks last week at Herrington Manor in Garrett County.

William H. Johnson, forester in charge of Allegany, Garrett, Washington and Frederick Counties, said 28 foresters participated.

Fred Simmons, sawmill expert for the milling and marketing division of the U. S. Forestry Service, spoke on logging methods.

Richard Jones, Mark Gordon and Hume Frayer, from the regional office of the U. S. Forestry Service in Philadelphia, explained a revolutionary new procedure in estimating the amount of timber in a tract.

They showed through talks and actual demonstrations the new techniques in this line by the use of cumulative volume tables that speeds up the estimating.

A. R. Bond, assistant forester in charge of woodland management, for the state department, issued a new forest management manual that outlines departmental procedures for those who work with private firms in the logging industry.

The manual, Johnson said, will facilitate the training of new personnel.

Among those present was H. C. Buckingham, state forester. The group visited a modern sawmill in Garrett County.

Vandalism Cases Closed By Police

Detective Thomas See of the Cumberland Police Department has "wrapped up" three vandalism cases involving local teen-agers.

See said yesterday that restitution has been made to Harold C. Wickard, 788 Fayette Street, who had two stones thrown through his front window last week by a local teen-ager, and also to another local man who had his window broken.

The large deer racks stolen from Mrs. Ella D. Burke 234 Columbia Avenue, were returned Monday night, Detective See said.

Copies Of Codified Law Arrive Here

Gorman C. Getty, attorney to the Board of Allegany County Commissioners, told the board yesterday new copies of the codified laws of Allegany County have been received from the printer.

The total cost of the project handled by Dr. Carl S. Everstine, director of the State Department of Legislative Reference, was $3,600.

It was the first re-codification of county laws since 1930, Getty observed.

The attorney was ordered to prepare a list of those who will receive free copies. Among these are the schools, including Frostburg State Teachers College, all the trial magistrates and other county officials.

The book also contains the charters of all the Incorporated towns outside of Cumberland in the county.

Woman Says Clothes Taken From Line

Mrs. Gladys G. Appel, 218 Emily Street, Monday notified city police that four items of clothing were stolen from her clothes line between 7 and 11 p. m.

Mrs. Apple said that while she was attending the Fort Hill-LaSalle football game, someone entered her yard and stole two pairs of dungarees and two pairs of khaki pants.

Local Instrument Group Meets Today

The local chapter of the Instrument Society of America will hold its first meeting of the 1955-56 year today at 6:30 p. m., at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

Harold A. Sholl, of the Brown Instrument Company, Philadelphia, will speak on "Flow Meters and Pressure Gauges."

Bids Received For Wire Work

Three bids to wire and install fixtures in four rooms in the basement of the Allegany County Court House were referred to the clerk to the Allegany County Board of Election Supervisors for further action.

The work entails lights, receptacles and switches in the four rooms that were previously unused and remodeled to house the county's new voting machines.

The low bidder was the Maryland Electric Company with a figure of $290. Others bidding were Sterling Electric Company, $466, and Queen City Electric Company, $575.

Edward P. Kaylor, clerk to the election board said all bidders had been notified of the requirements of the job.

The county commissioners observed that only the high bidder mentioned installing a new wiring panel. It was felt by the board that the present wiring system would be overloaded if a new wiring panel were not installed.

Bids Received For Wire Work

Three bids to wire and install fixtures in four rooms in the basement of the Allegany County Court House were referred to the clerk to the Allegany County Board of Election Supervisors for further action.

The work entails lights, receptacles and switches in the four rooms that were previously unused and remodeled to house the county's new voting machines.

The low bidder was the Maryland Electric Company with a figure of $290. Others bidding were Sterling Electric Company, $466, and Queen City Electric Company, $575.

Edward P. Kaylor, clerk to the election board said all bidders had been notified of the requirements of the job.

The county commissioners observed that only the high bidder mentioned installing a new wiring panel. It was felt by the board that the present wiring system would be overloaded if a new wiring panel were not installed.

Marland Takes Industry Tour

CHICAGO, Sept. 27 (AP)—Gov. William C. Marland of West Virginia wound up two days of luncheons today on the latest leg of his cross-country tour to lure new industries to West Virginia.

Marland met with automotive men today after a similar session yesterday with Detroit business leaders. He visited New York and Chicago prior to the current trip and is scheduled to go to St. Louis week after next. He is expected to return to the capital sometime tomorrow.

The Democratic governor emphasized that his trips do not constitute "raids" on business opportunities in the states he visits, but a sales campaign to promote West Virginia's attractions for future plant expansion.

Marland said results so far were "encouraging," but declined to comment as in the past—on whether he had obtained any definite commitments.

Special attractions of West Virginia which he cited included a labor surplus created by rapid mechanization of coal mining; the state's geographical location in a wealthy trading area, and plentiful raw materials in lumber, coal, salt and natural gas.

Appeal Is Renewed For Blood Donors

Allegany County Chapter Red Cross is making a renewed appeal this week for blood donors.

The bloodmobile unit will make its regular monthly visit at the Eagles Home here on Monday to collect blood from volunteers from 1 p. m. until 6 p. m. The following day, the unit will visit Frostburg.

There is a steady and increasing need at the three hospitals in this county for blood, and these three institutions are using almost as much as is donated here each month. Little is left for plasma, for the Armed Forces or for a reserve.

The county has been coming close to meeting quotas regularly, and 150 pints are asked each of the two days. Many people who have been giving blood do so regularly, and new donors are needed, because there is a limit to how frequently the same people can be bled. Volunteers are urged to give blood Monday and Tuesday.

McKeldin Back In U.S. After Trip Abroad

NEW YORK, Sept. 27 (AP)—Gov. McKeldin, of Maryland, loaded down with 10 shillelaghs and a supply of anecdotes to enliven hundreds of future speeches, returned to the country today after a five week tour abroad.

Looking tan and hearty, the governor waved a shillelagh over his head and shouted to a Maryland delegation on hand to greet him as he left the S. S. America.

Among the welcomers were Thomas Carr, the governor's administrative assistant; James M. Hepbron, Baltimore's new police commissioner and State Trooper Ed Metee, the governor's chauffeur, and recipient of one of the gift shillelaghs.

Accompanying the governor were Mrs. McKeldin and U. S. Solicitor General and Mrs. Simon Sobeloff.

They visited Israel, Turkey, Greece, France, England and Ireland during their five-week trip.

The governor, gaily chortling and shaking hands, was brimming over wth stories about his trip but was reluctant to talk about Maryland issues until he arrives in Annapolis and has a chance to catch up.

He did say he was anxious to get a report from the Green Commission on that group's study of the administrative procedures of the State Roads Commission.

And in reference to the Legislative Council's "little probe" of the State Roads Commission's land acquisition policies for the Baltimore Harbor Tunnel, McKeldin said his administration "would be delighted" to correct anything wrong—if the legislators can find anything wrong.

McKeldin will make his first inspection of the tunnel project tomorrow.

The governor also said he is ready to dive into the complex problems of Maryland's soaring budget for the next fiscal year. Departmental budget requests have been coming in during his absence.

Youth Under $1,000 Bond In Car Theft

An 18-year-old local boy is being held in Randolph County Jail, Elkins, W. Va., under $1,000 bond for action of the October term of the grand jury on a charge of auto larceny.

Two younger companions are being held for action of juvenile authorities and are charged with the same offense.

The trio, who were arrested by West Virginia State Police on Monday night in Elkins, were arraigned yesterday before Justice of the Peace G. W. L. Doyle.

State Police said the arrest of the three local boys brought to an end a series of area car thefts which occurred Sunday and Monday.

The driving spree of the trio reportedly began here on Sunday night when they stole a car from the rear of Memorial Hospital. During their travels to Elkins, cars reportedly were taken in Oakland and from near McCumber, three miles from Rowlesburg on Route 50.

About noon Monday the local auto was recovered in Oakland by Tfc. Robert Henline. Meanwhile another car belonging to Carmen M. Monda of Thomas, W. Va., was stolen from Oakland and later recovered at McCumber.

According to police the trio then took another automobile belonging to Ralph Glover of Terra Alta from the location where the Monda car was recovered. Glover's car was later recovered by Sheriff W. R. Schooley of Kingwood.

The local trio was finally arrested Monday by Lt. W. W. Murphy of the West Virginia State Police Detachment in Elkins. Two of the youths were apprehended and the third jumped out of the auto on the overhead bridge on Randolph Avenue in Elkins when the car in which they were traveling became stalled.

Lt. Murphy said he was near the scene and as he started toward the car to see what was wrong the three ran, but two were unsuccessful in their effort to escape. The third was arrested sometime later.

Police said the car was identified as having been stolen from the campus of Davis and Elkins College.

Detective Thomas See and Detective James E. Van of the Cumberland Police Department said yesterday that a billfold found in the car recovered in Oakland was identified as belonging to one of the local youths, connecting them with the local theft.

Detective See said that one of the boys was home on pass from the Maryland Training School for boys and was scheduled to be released Monday. Another of the trio was also home on pass from the training school, and the third was scheduled for a hearing in the local Trial Magistrate Court Monday on a motor vehicle violation.

America Realizes Its Faith In Ike

The sudden heart attack with which President Eisenhower was stricken over the weekend has awakened Americans sharply to a realization of just how much they had placed their faith and confidence in him.

Partisan politics, of course, during his first term as President, has sniped at and criticized his administration. But it goes without saying that the rank and file American, Democrat or Republican, recognizes President Eisenhower as a man with their best interests at heart. They also recognize that no administration can be perfect.

It was pretty much taken for granted that President Eisenhower, should he run again, would be re-elected and that, to some extent at least, has accounted for the Alphonse and Gaston act of Adlai Stevenson and Averell Harriman. One didn't have the slightest objection to the other being led to the slaughter.

The President's illness doubtless will change all that, if it hasn't already. The jockeying for position will make itself felt in both the Republican and Democratic parties as both look for the presidential nominee they believe will have the best chance of winning the 1956 election.

All of this, of course, precludes President Eisenhower seeking a second term. But on Monday, one of the nation's top heart specialists who attended President Eisenhower said that if the President's progress continues at its present rate he would be "physically able" to serve a second term.

That is predicated upon his speedy recovery, which we all fervently wish for, and his own decision to make another campaign. Even if he should decide to run again, his re-election is bound to be less certain because the voters undoubtedly would consider the possibility that his health could not stand the strain of another four years in the Presidency.

There were indications from the President even before he was stricken that he did not plan to run again in that he on a number of occasions advised party leaders they should not put all of their eggs in one basket, so to speak. And he has dropped what could be other hints of his intentions to retire to private life.

Mr. Eisenhower has led a long and fruitful life in the service of the people of America. He certainly is entitled to retire to a life of relaxation at his farm at Gettysburg if he so desires.

Whatever his desire, the first consideration of the American people will be for his quick and complete recovery. Then will be time enough to consider the future.

Cultural Commandos

In this era of rejuvenated nationalism, each nation becomes increasingly conscious of its own culture and wonders how it compares with the cultures of other countries. Most peoples believe that their particular culture is superior to every other. To Europeans, the United States has always seemed to be a materialistic country with strong, aggressive men who know how to make machines and earn money. We have spent billions on propaganda but have made no impression on other countries except that we make better automobiles and iceboxes.

Certainly from the standpoint of music, we are among the most cultured of peoples, supporting an extradorinarily large number of remarkable symphony and chamber orchestras. While some older composers in this country are Europeans who have been naturalized, such Americans as Samuel Barber, Aaron Copland, Leonard Bernstein and others are writing good music in the idiom of the day. I speak of music because I am more familiar with this cultural medium than I am with some others.

It is, from this standpoint, satisfactory to read that the United States Information Agency is devoting so large a part of its effort to the exhibition of American cultural activities, which deal with fundamentals and not with the ephemera of poiltics or the gloom of economics. Its report for 1955 cites the following:

"One of these events—concerts in the Far East by the Symphony of the Air (formerly the NBC Symphony)—was so popular that 2,000 Tokyo students stood in line for 27 hours for tickets . . .

"The program to demonstrate U. S. cultural achievements also included:

"USIA's Music in America' exhibit, which drew large crowds in India, England, Scotland, Wales and Sweden.

"A display of American watercolors in the Philippines . . . 'Highlights of American Painting', which went to 22 cities and towns in Turkey, Norway, Ethiopia and Spain . . .

" 'Salute to France', Paris performances by top American musical and stage personalities, and subsequent appearances in other cities by many of these artists. 'Salute' attractions included the Philadelphia Orchestra, the New York City Ballet and performances of 'Media', 'Oklahoma' and 'The Skin Of Our Teeth'.

"Concerts by the noted American violinist Isaac Stern in Iceland and Yugoslavia. Near and Far Eastern concerts of Negro spirituals by the Jubilee Singers. Spectacularly successful performances of the opera 'Porgy and Bess' in Europe and the Near East."

If the new look in diplomacy continues, it might even occur that the Boston Symphony might be sent to Soviet Russia which needs a dose of American culture to overcome its assumption that the Russians have a monopoly of the great composers of this era. True the Russians have produced in this era three of the most remarkable composers of the world, Shostakovich, Khachaturian and Prokofiev. I wonder what an impression it would make upon the Russian mind to listen to Charles Munich's immaculate performance of the Bach B Minor Mass or the Beethoven Ninth with the choruses and artists who did them at Tanglewood.

This is better propaganda for the United States because it commands respect for our people. The Russians are particularly interested in the ballet, as are other Slavic peoples. The United States need not hang its head in shame in this field. The USIA could well afford to be advised by so characteristically American a ballet master as Ted Shawn, who I first saw with Ruth St. Denis in China about 30 years ago and who then made so profound an impression on Asia that their visit was remembered for many years. The Orient has, in each country, dancers who often provide the most serious form of entertainment. For instance, the Chinese classical theater is a form which we would regard as a ballet with song and poetry, all done together. Mei Lan-fang who was the greatest exponent of this art in my day was tremendously impressed by the American ballet.

Ike Has Been Honest About Health But Politicians Tried To Conceal It

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower's heart attack, coming simultaneously with publication of Harry Truman's memoirs, points to two vital facts in the lives of our president;

1. Politicians don't want the public to know the truth about any president's health.

2. Medical checks should be given every presidential candidate in advance, and more specialized medical care should be given a president after he takes office.

It has long been known to intimates of the President and to newspapermen covering the White House that he had high blood pressure, just as it was known during the election campaign of 1944 to intimates of Franklin Roosevelt that the wear and tear of public office had made terrific inroads on his health.

But the politicians of both political parties have hushed up the real facts. Eisenhower himself is the only man who has been frank about it.

He has consistently and repeatedly told the politicians who wanted him to run again that they could not depend on one man. He has talked about the health erosion of public office. He has reminded them that if re-elected he would be the only president to reach the age of 70 while in office. He has come about as close as possible to telling that all was not well with him aside from making a blueprint.

He made a statement to me in 1952 that seemed to be flat and unequivocal, that he would serve one term only. And in various private conversations he has never deviated from this general plan.

But, despite this, the politicians have refused to take his word, have issued misleading statements about the President's health.

First Warning

Approximately one year ago at a stag dinner attended by Vice President Nixon, Attorney General Brownell, Chairman Len Hall, and other close political advisers, Ike first made it quite clear that they should begin building up new GOP leaders. The only promise they could wheedle out of him at that time was that he wouldn't announce his decision until the spring of 1956.

Nevertheless, Nixon and Chairman Hall both left that dinner to make repeated statements that the President was certain to run again, even though he had indicated directly to the contrary. No later than three weeks ago in Denver, Hall told newsmen how the GOP planned to defeat Sen. Wayne Morse of Oregon because he "had criticized Ike."

"Suppose Ike doesn't run?" a newsman asked.

"Then I commit suicide," replied the chairman of the Republican National Committee who had previously heard from Ike's own lips that the Republican party should begin building other candidates.

On another occasion, the President not only told Sen. George Bender and other Ohio Republicans about the health erosion of the presidency but he specifically ordered his press secretary to have his statement to Bender made known to the press.

FDR's Health Concealed

This finds a semi-parallel in the Truman memoirs published last week in which he tells how, early in 1945, it was considered doubtful that Franklin Roosevelt could last much longer.

Yet in the summer of 1944 when Roosevelt was nominated while absent on a cruise to Alaska to regain his health, Democratic chairman Bob Hannegan knew, as Hall knew about Ike, that FDR's health was not at all good. He also knew that it was a fraud on the American people to put his name on the ballot.

The real facts about Eisenhower's health have been known to intimates for some time—and published before his nomination by a few people. John Gunther, in an extremely friendly book, inspired in part to boost Ike for the nomination, touched briefly on his high blood pressure. Kay Summersby, in her book, "Eisenhower Was My Boss," tells how he had high blood pressure even during the war.

While the President's health, considering his age, has been reasonably good, his ruddy complexion is deceptive and he is not able to remain in the White House or at his desk for average periods of time. This is the reason for his golf, his weekends at Gettysburg, his trips to Augusta, and his occasional health problems which have been hushed up by those around him.

One of them, just before he was to leave Paris to begin his open and public bid for the Republican nomination, illustrates the importance of having specialists on hand to watch the President's health. This particular incident almost upset the nomination.

Ike was taken sick about 10 days before Gen. Matthew Ridgway was scheduled to relieve him as commander of SHAPE in Paris. To get Eisenhower back on his feet, Dr. Snyder administer antibiotics.

However, General Eisenhower seemed to get worse. He developed pink eye, ran such a high fever that he talked of moving troops and calling general staff meetings.

Meanwhile a group of high Republican politicians was in Paris waiting to see him. They were told he was meeting in top-secret NATO sessions dealing with the security of Europe.

The days passed, however, and the time came for him to greet Ridgway, say good-bye to the French. A public appearance became inescapable. Newspapermen asked that he hold a press conference. The French government asked if it could stage a farewell ceremony.

Finally an all-day session of Ike's closest advisers met to decide what should be done. It was attended by Gen. Al Gruenther, Gen. Anthony Drexel Biddle, Col. Pete Carroll, and Arthur Vandenberg Jr., son of the late senator from Michigan. During the meeting young Vandenberg flatly demanded that Eisenhower show up at a press conference. Otherwise, threatened Vandenberg, he would cable Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge to have the general's name withdrawn from nomination.

In the end, a French specialist was called in. He diagnosed Eisenhower's condition as an overdose of antibiotics. Within 48 hours he was much better, though terribly weak—so weak that his aides didn't know until just before General Ridgway arrived whether they could dress him for the occasion.

In the end, Ike got to the airport to see Ridgway, though wearing dark glasses. His car was driven into the privacy of a hangar immediately afterward to let Ike rest.

Nixon Represents Chance For Harmony In GOP

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — The Republican party, as a consequence of the unavailability of President Eisenhower, could conceivably destroy itself and hand over the victory in 1956 to the Democrats by default. Already there's a fight to prevent the nomination of Vice President Nixon — a fight that can really break up the party.

But that's what the Democrats want and that's why they already are inspiring stories here trying to prevent Nixon from being chosen for the presidential nomination. What is really foreshadowed by this is a "left wing" and 'right wing" war which could split the party beyond hope of repair.

For several months now certain "left wingers" have been aiming their fire at Nixon and trying to prevent his renomination for the vice presidency. Many of the opponents are Democrats. Their particular grievance against Mr. Nixon is that he refused to smother the anti-Communist issue in the speeches he made during the congressional campaign of 1954.

Uncovered Hiss Perjury

The underlying objection of the "left wing" to Nixon is that, while a member of the House Committee on Un-American Activities, he helped to uncover the perjury of Alger Hiss. For this he never has been forgiven by them. The reason is that many of the 'left wingers" in America have felt a guilt complex over the whole attack on Communism because they are Socialists at heart and they think that, if Communism is stifled in America, so will its twin brother — state Socialism — be tabooed. They have argued all along and still argue that the crusade against Communists is really an attack on "an individual's beliefs" or "political concepts" and that to delve into what a man does with government documents and to ask to whom he gives copies of secret papers is to raise the issue of "guilt by association."

Ike Favored Nixon

There's no doubt that the President—as of last month, for instance—would have declared himself in favor of the selection of Nixon as his successor. What pressures will be brought now to dissuade the President is something that depends on the ambition of rival candidates and the tactics of their friends close to the White House. If the President were incapacitated or resigned and the vice president took over, the party leaders would unite behind Nixon.

The nomination of a successor by the party that happens to be in power is an altogether different thing from what it is when the party is out of power. Thus, the officeholders who want to continue in their posts have a lot to say locally and they, even more than the governors of states — except where there are "favorite son" candidates—can influence the voting in the delegations chosen to go to a national convention.

If it seemed to them that Mr. Eisenhower wanted Nixon picked, even though no public statement to that effect had been made, the majority of the delegates would line up for Nixon. The party machinery can always be influenced considerably by the cabinet in Washington. That's the way convention politics operate. A "wide-open fight" inside a party when it is in power is a rarity.

There is a distinct probability nevertheless that a fight will be engineered outside of Washington against Nixon. This could result in cleavages and factional fights and the kind of split that handed the presidency to the Democrats in 1912, when reckless zealots tried to block the renomination of President William Howard Taft and finally walked out of the regular convention to pick Theodore Roosevelt on a third-party ticket. The combined Republican vote cast at the polls that year exceeded the vote for the victor—Woodrow Wilson.

Nixon, politically at least, represents continuity and a chance for harmony in the Republican party in the campaign. It would be paradoxical to find Eisenhower Republicans of the so-called "liberal" school and their organs trying to sidetrack the man on whom Dwight Eisenhower — acclaimed by them as a great leader—has all along heaped unqualified praise.

Hiding An Illness

By Bob Considine

NEW YORK, Sept. 27 (INS) — The world presses its nose to a plate glass window looking into President Eisenhower's sick room. But once things were different. The public "couldn't be trusted" to know. . .

On the black humid night of June 30, 1893, a closed carriage clopped on to Pier A of New York's East River. A heavy-set man, sweating under his black suit, stepped out followed by a friend. They were met by a U.S. Navy commodore and immediately boarded the Navy yacht "Oneida." It slipped out into the river.

President Grover Cleveland was about to be operated on for cancer.

The shrouded adventure had taken form two weeks earlier when Cleveland complained to Dr. Robert M. O'Reilly, the White House physician, that a lump had been forming along the right wall of his upper jaw. O'Reilly was disturbed by what he saw. He called in Drs. W. W. Keen, E. G. Janeway, J. D. Bryant and a dental surgeon, Ferdinand Hasbrouck. All agreed that an operation was necessary.

Cleveland, in his second stay in the White House, had a brewing financial panic on his hands.

A special session of Congress had been called to deal with the sinking economy. In that comparatively primitive era of cancer research and treatment, he could be given no assurance he would survive. A further complication was the man himself. The President, then 56, was many pounds overweight and gave the appearance of having no neck at all.

He was determined to go through with the operation but frankly feared the reaction it would have on shaky public morale. The public couldn't be trusted not to panic.

For a week he searched for a way out and then decided he had found it. He quickly made arrangements with his friend Commodore E. C. Benedict for the use of the "Oneida." All that then was needed was to entrain quietly for New York, comparatively easy in that day. Dr. O'Reilly accompanied him on the secret carriage ride from the N. Y. depot to the ship.

The President went immediately to Commodore Benedict's cabin where Drs. Keen, Janeway, Bryant and Hasbrouck were waiting. He ruggedly told them he was ready but they had agreed that it would be better to wait until the morning. The party adjourned to deck, took chairs, and watched the lamplights of New York drift by. The President smoked cigars and talked until midnight, then turned in and slept soundly.

The next morning, July 1, he stepped into Benedict's cabin and sat down in a strong chair that had been placed in the middle of the partly cleared room. In that position he was given a morphine injection and the operating began. Dr. Harbrouck pulled two teeth from the right upper jaw. Dr. Bryant cut into the jaw, located and extracted the malignancy. It was all over in 35 minutes. The yacht cruised slowly into Long Island Sound, its strange passenger list unknown.

Cleveland came to like a bull. "Who the hell are you?" he bellowed through his battered mouth when he focused his eyes on the doctors who had just saved his life.

He was up and about July 3 and walking without assistance on the fifth, when the "Oneida" slipped quietly into Buzzards Bay, Mass. A private train was waiting to take him back to Washington, where Dr. K. C. Gibson fitted him with a rubber replacement for the missing part of his jaw.

E. J. Edwards, who wrote under the by-line of "Holland" for the Philadelphia Press broke the story in great detail on August 29 of the same year.

It was indignantly denied by spokesmen for Cleveland and the public considered it a hoax. Cleveland plainly was never in better health, it was said, now that he had lost some weight. Cleveland performed the remainder of his presidential duties with zest and lived just 15 years after the operation. His secret illness was not known generally and accepted until Dr. Keen wrote the story for a national magazine in 1931.

Glandular Fever May Be Transmitted By Kissing

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Deilen

Infectious mononucleosis (glandular fever) may soon be dubbed the kissing disease. Col. Robert J. Hoagland of the Army Medical Department, says the causative agent may be carried in the saliva and passed from one person to another via kissing. If this theory is correct, one of the riddles of infectious mononucleosis is solved.

Evidence in favor of this contention is convincing. During the past four years, Col. Hoagland was able to obtain a history of lip contact 32 to 49 days before the onset of symptoms in 72 out of 75 patients. One of the exceptions was a man who took a soft drink from a bottle handed around by friends.

Mononucleosis has all the earmarks of a contagious disease, causing fever, sore throat, swollen neck glands, and enlargement of the spleen. Liver involvement is common. Occasionally the nervous system is affected, leading to symptoms simulating meningitis or polio.

Most victims are young adults such as students in college, professional schools, or in nurses' training. It rarely is seen in married persons but favors the single who are more likely to kiss promiscuously. Unlike the ordinary cold, it seldom develops in roommates and does not go through army barracks or hospital wards like wildfire. In this respect, it is not transmitted through the air, food, water, or insects.

We still do not know the cause although evidence points to a virus. Because a study of the blood is required to make the diagnosis, many cases undoubtedly escape notice. Blood tests are recommended whenever an individual has a "cold" that has lingered longer than usual.

Col. Hoagland also noted that most cases seen during his six years at the United States Military Academy appeared in February and August. Since the incubation period varies from 32 to 49 days, most students seem to acquire the malady following Christmas or spring vacations.

Nature cures the ailment eventually but recovery can be speeded up by remaining in bed until the temperature returns to normal. Otherwise the condition tends to drag on for weeks or months. Gargles and the salicylates (like aspirin) ease throat distress and help lower the temperature.

To my knowledge, there is no specific cure. The antibiotics such as aureomycin frequently are used but their effect is difficult to evaluate because the disease disappears spontaneously, as a rule. It is well to remember that Col. Hoagland's concept has not been confirmed. It is conceivable, however, that the causative agent could be transmitted by kissing.

TOMORROW: Migraine: an inherited deal.

BED REST AND PRESSURE

F. J. writes: Will staying in bed keep the blood pressure down?

REPLY

Rest lowers blood pressure and when the reading is taken during sleep, it is as low as it will ever be. Sometimes bed rest is the treatment suggested in hypertension. When an individual becomes anxious or excited, however, his pressure will rise even though he is resting in bed.

NOT UNUSUAL

Mrs. K. writes: I am pregnant but don't expect the baby for several months. Already I have milk. Does this mean something has gone wrong?

REPLY

No. As pregnancy advances there may be a small amount of secretion which tends to cake and form scales, unless the area is kept scrupulously clean.

ICE IN BRONCHITIS

L. C. writes: My mother has bronchitis, which causes hard coughing. A nurse advised me to put an ice bag over her throat and chest to draw out the inflammation. Is this the right thing to do?

REPLY

An ice bag to the neck is standard treatment for sore throat but is not effective in bronchitis because cold cannot penetrate to the inflamed bronchi. Most physicians recommend the inhalation of steam to ease coughing.

COLD ALL THE TIME

Mrs. M. writes: I am very sensitive to the cold and have to bundle up like an Eskimo in the winter time. But even in summer weather I get goose pimples and chills if I'm in a draft and at night, unless I bundle up, I awake with cramping and numbness and the hands and my feet feel like pieces of ice. I am only 27, the mother of three children. Would you have any idea what is wrong with me?

REPLY

Maybe your thermostat is turned on too low. Why not have a metabolism test to find out if your thyroid gland is up to par?

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

But that's what the Democrats want and that's why they already are inspiring stories here trying to prevent Nixon from being chosen for the presidential nomination. What is really foreshadowed by this is a "left wing" and 'right wing" war which could split the party beyond hope of repair.

For several months now certain "left wingers" have been aiming their fire at Nixon and trying to prevent his renomination for the vice presidency. Many of the opponents are Democrats. Their particular grievance against Mr. Nixon is that he refused to smother the anti-Communist issue in the speeches he made during the congressional campaign of 1954.

Uncovered Hiss Perjury

The underlying objection of the "left wing" to Nixon is that, while a member of the House Committee on Un-American Activities, he helped to uncover the perjury of Alger Hiss. For this he never has been forgiven by them. The reason is that many of the 'left wingers" in America have felt a guilt complex over the whole attack on Communism because they are Socialists at heart and they think that, if Communism is stifled in America, so will its twin brother — state Socialism — be tabooed. They have argued all along and still argue that the crusade against Communists is really an attack on "an individual's beliefs" or "political concepts" and that to delve into what a man does with government documents and to ask to whom he gives copies of secret papers is to raise the issue of "guilt by association."

The Daily Worker—the Communist newspaper in New York—has kept up an almost daily campaign against Nixon. It has been paralleled in the "left wing" press here and abroad.

Ike Favored Nixon

There's no doubt that the President—as of last month, for instance—would have declared himself in favor of the selection of Nixon as his successor. What pressures will be brought now to dissuade the President is something that depends on the ambition of rival candidates and the tactics of their friends close to the White House. If the President were incapacitated or resigned and the vice president took over, the party leaders would unite behind Nixon.

The nomination of a successor by the party that happens to be in power is an altogether different thing from what it is when the party is out of power. Thus, the officeholders who want to continue in their posts have a lot to say locally and they, even more than the governors of states — except where there are "favorite son" candidates—can influence the voting in the delegations chosen to go to a national convention.

If it seemed to them that Mr. Eisenhower wanted Nixon picked, even though no public statement to that effect had been made, the majority of the delegates would line up for Nixon. The party machinery can always be influenced considerably by the cabinet in Washington. That's the way convention politics operate. A "wide-open fight" inside a party when it is in power is a rarity.

There is a distinct probability nevertheless that a fight will be engineered outside of Washington against Nixon. This could result in cleavages and factional fights and the kind of split that handed the presidency to the Democrats in 1912, when reckless zealots tried to block the renomination of President William Howard Taft and finally walked out of the regular convention to pick Theodore Roosevelt on a third-party ticket. The combined Republican vote cast at the polls that year exceeded the vote for the victor—Woodrow Wilson.

Nixon, politically at least, represents continuity and a chance for harmony in the Republican party in the campaign. It would be paradoxical to find Eisenhower Republicans of the so-called "liberal" school and their organs trying to sidetrack the man on whom Dwight Eisenhower — acclaimed by them as a great leader—has all along heaped unqualified praise.

Ike Has Been Honest About Health But Politicians Tried To Conceal It

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower's heart attack, coming simultaneously with publication of Harry Truman's memoirs, points to two vital facts in the lives of our president;

1. Politicians don't want the public to know the truth about any president's health.

2. Medical checks should be given every presidential candidate in advance, and more specialized medical care should be given a president after he takes office.

It has long been known to intimates of the President and to newspapermen covering the White House that he had high blood pressure, just as it was known during the election campaign of 1944 to intimates of Franklin Roosevelt that the wear and tear of public office had made terrific inroads on his health.

But the politicians of both political parties have hushed up the real facts. Eisenhower himself is the only man who has been frank about it.

He has consistently and repeatedly told the politicians who wanted him to run again that they could not depend on one man. He has talked about the health erosion of public office. He has reminded them that if re-elected he would be the only president to reach the age of 70 while in office. He has come about as close as possible to telling that all was not well with him aside from making a blueprint.

He made a statement to me in 1952 that seemed to be flat and unequivocal, that he would serve one term only. And in various private conversations he has never deviated from this general plan.

But, despite this, the politicians have refused to take his word, have issued misleading statements about the President's health.

First Warning

Approximately one year ago at a stag dinner attended by Vice President Nixon, Attorney General Brownell, Chairman Len Hall, and other close political advisers, Ike first made it quite clear that they should begin building up new GOP leaders. The only promise they could wheedle out of him at that time was that he wouldn't announce his decision until the spring of 1956.

Nevertheless, Nixon and Chairman Hall both left that dinner to make repeated statements that the President was certain to run again, even though he had indicated directly to the contrary. No later than three weeks ago in Denver, Hall told newsmen how the GOP planned to defeat Sen. Wayne Morse of Oregon because he "had criticized Ike."

"Suppose Ike doesn't run?" a newsman asked.

"Then I commit suicide," replied the chairman of the Republican National Committee who had previously heard from Ike's own lips that the Republican party should begin building other candidates.

On another occasion, the President not only told Sen. George Bender and other Ohio Republicans about the health erosion of the presidency but he specifically ordered his press secretary to have his statement to Bender made known to the press.

FDR's Health Concealed

This finds a semi-parallel in the Truman memoirs published last week in which he tells how, early in 1945, it was considered doubtful that Franklin Roosevelt could last much longer.

Yet in the summer of 1944 when Roosevelt was nominated while absent on a cruise to Alaska to regain his health, Democratic chairman Bob Hannegan knew, as Hall knew about Ike, that FDR's health was not at all good. He also knew that it was a fraud on the American people to put his name on the ballot.

The real facts about Eisenhower's health have been known to intimates for some time—and published before his nomination by a few people. John Gunther, in an extremely friendly book, inspired in part to boost Ike for the nomination, touched briefly on his high blood pressure. Kay Summersby, in her book, "Eisenhower Was My Boss," tells how he had high blood pressure even during the war.

While the President's health, considering his age, has been reasonably good, his ruddy complexion is deceptive and he is not able to remain in the White House or at his desk for average periods of time. This is the reason for his golf, his weekends at Gettysburg, his trips to Augusta, and his occasional health problems which have been hushed up by those around him.

One of them, just before he was to leave Paris to begin his open and public bid for the Republican nomination, illustrates the importance of having specialists on hand to watch the President's health. This particular incident almost upset the nomination.

Ike was taken sick about 10 days before Gen. Matthew Ridgway was scheduled to relieve him as commander of SHAPE in Paris. To get Eisenhower back on his feet, Dr. Snyder administer antibiotics.

However, General Eisenhower seemed to get worse. He developed pink eye, ran such a high fever that he talked of moving troops and calling general staff meetings.

Meanwhile a group of high Republican politicians was in Paris waiting to see him. They were told he was meeting in top-secret NATO sessions dealing with the security of Europe.

The days passed, however, and the time came for him to greet Ridgway, say good-bye to the French. A public appearance became inescapable. Newspapermen asked that he hold a press conference. The French government asked if it could stage a farewell ceremony.

Finally an all-day session of Ike's closest advisers met to decide what should be done. It was attended by Gen. Al Gruenther, Gen. Anthony Drexel Biddle, Col. Pete Carroll, and Arthur Vandenberg Jr., son of the late senator from Michigan. During the meeting young Vandenberg flatly demanded that Eisenhower show up at a press conference. Otherwise, threatened Vandenberg, he would cable Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge to have the general's name withdrawn from nomination.

In the end, a French specialist was called in. He diagnosed Eisenhower's condition as an overdose of antibiotics. Within 48 hours he was much better, though terribly weak—so weak that his aides didn't know until just before General Ridgway arrived whether they could dress him for the occasion.

In the end, Ike got to the airport to see Ridgway, though wearing dark glasses. His car was driven into the privacy of a hangar immediately afterward to let Ike rest.

Hiding An Illness

By Bob Considine

NEW YORK, Sept. 27 (INS) — The world presses its nose to a plate glass window looking into President Eisenhower's sick room. But once things were different. The public "couldn't be trusted" to know. . .

On the black humid night of June 30, 1893, a closed carriage clopped on to Pier A of New York's East River. A heavy-set man, sweating under his black suit, stepped out followed by a friend. They were met by a U.S. Navy commodore and immediately boarded the Navy yacht "Oneida." It slipped out into the river.

President Grover Cleveland was about to be operated on for cancer.

The shrouded adventure had taken form two weeks earlier when Cleveland complained to Dr. Robert M. O'Reilly, the White House physician, that a lump had been forming along the right wall of his upper jaw. O'Reilly was disturbed by what he saw. He called in Drs. W. W. Keen, E. G. Janeway, J. D. Bryant and a dental surgeon, Ferdinand Hasbrouck. All agreed that an operation was necessary.

Cleveland, in his second stay in the White House, had a brewing financial panic on his hands.

A special session of Congress had been called to deal with the sinking economy. In that comparatively primitive era of cancer research and treatment, he could be given no assurance he would survive. A further complication was the man himself. The President, then 56, was many pounds overweight and gave the appearance of having no neck at all.

He was determined to go through with the operation but frankly feared the reaction it would have on shaky public morale. The public couldn't be trusted not to panic.

For a week he searched for a way out and then decided he had found it. He quickly made arrangements with his friend Commodore E. C. Benedict for the use of the "Oneida." All that then was needed was to entrain quietly for New York, comparatively easy in that day. Dr. O'Reilly accompanied him on the secret carriage ride from the N. Y. depot to the ship.

The President went immediately to Commodore Benedict's cabin where Drs. Keen, Janeway, Bryant and Hasbrouck were waiting. He ruggedly told them he was ready but they had agreed that it would be better to wait until the morning. The party adjourned to deck, took chairs, and watched the lamplights of New York drift by. The President smoked cigars and talked until midnight, then turned in and slept soundly.

The next morning, July 1, he stepped into Benedict's cabin and sat down in a strong chair that had been placed in the middle of the partly cleared room. In that position he was given a morphine injection and the operating began. Dr. Harbrouck pulled two teeth from the right upper jaw. Dr. Bryant cut into the jaw, located and extracted the malignancy. It was all over in 35 minutes. The yacht cruised slowly into Long Island Sound, its strange passenger list unknown.

Cleveland came to like a bull. "Who the hell are you?" he bellowed through his battered mouth when he focused his eyes on the doctors who had just saved his life.

He was up and about July 2 and walking without assistance on the fifth, when the "Oneida" slipped quietly into Buzzards Bay, Mass. A private train was waiting to take him back to Washington, where Dr. K. C. Gibson fitted him with a rubber replacement for the missing part of his jaw.

E. J. Edwards, who wrote under the by-line of "Holland" for the Philadelphia Press broke the story in great detail on August 29 of the same year.

It was indignantly denied by spokesmen for Cleveland and the public considered it a hoax. Cleveland plainly was never in better health, it was said, now that he had lost some weight. Cleveland performed the remainder of his presidential duties with zest and lived just 15 years after the operation. His secret illness was not known generally and accepted until Dr. Keen wrote the story for a national magazine in 1931.

Glandular Fever May Be Transmitted By Kissing

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Deilen

Infectious mononucleosis (glandular fever) may soon be dubbed the kissing disease. Col. Robert J. Hoagland of the Army Medical Department, says the causative agent may be carried in the saliva and passed from one person to another via kissing. If this theory is correct, one of the riddles of infectious mononucleosis is solved.

Evidence in favor of this contention is convincing. During the past four years, Col. Hoagland was able to obtain a history of lip contact 32 to 49 days before the onset of symptoms in 72 out of 75 patients. One of the exceptions was a man who took a soft drink from a bottle handed around by friends.

Mononucleosis has all the earmarks of a contagious disease, causing fever, sore throat, swollen neck glands, and enlargement of the spleen. Liver involvement is common. Occasionally the nervous system is affected, leading to symptoms simulating meningitis or polio.

Most victims are young adults such as students in college, professional schools, or in nurses' training. It rarely is seen in married persons but favors the single who are more likely to kiss promiscuously. Unlike the ordinary cold, it seldom develops in roommates and does not go through army barracks or hospital wards like wildfire. In this respect, it is not transmitted through the air, food, water, or insects.

We still do not know the cause although evidence points to a virus. Because a study of the blood is required to make the diagnosis, many cases undoubtedly escape notice. Blood tests are recommended whenever an individual has a "cold" that has lingered longer than usual.

Col. Hoagland also noted that most cases seen during his six years at the United States Military Academy appeared in February and August. Since the incubation period varies from 32 to 49 days, most students seem to acquire the malady following Christmas or spring vacations.

Nature cures the ailment eventually but recovery can be speeded up by remaining in bed until the temperature returns to normal. Otherwise the condition tends to drag on for weeks or months. Gargles and the salicylates (like aspirin) ease throat distress and help lower the temperature.

To my knowledge, there is no specific cure. The antibiotics such as aureomycin frequently are used but their effect is difficult to evaluate because the disease disappears spontaneously, as a rule. It is well to remember that Col. Hoagland's concept has not been confirmed. It is conceivable, however, that the causative agent could be transmitted by kissing.

TOMORROW: Migraine: an inherited deal.

BED REST AND PRESSURE

F. J. writes: Will staying in bed keep the blood pressure down?

REPLY

Rest lowers blood pressure and when the reading is taken during sleep, it is as low as it will ever be. Sometimes bed rest is the treatment suggested in hypertension. When an individual becomes anxious or excited, however, his pressure will rise even though he is resting in bed.

NOT UNUSUAL

Mrs. K. writes: I am pregnant but don't expect the baby for several months. Already I have milk. Does this mean something has gone wrong?

REPLY

No. As pregnancy advances there may be a small amount of secretion which tends to cake and form scales, unless the area is kept scrupulously clean.

ICE IN BRONCHITIS

L. C. writes: My mother has bronchitis, which causes hard coughing. A nurse advised me to put an ice bag over her throat and chest to draw out the inflammation. Is this the right thing to do?

REPLY

An ice bag to the neck is standard treatment for sore throat but is not effective in bronchitis because cold cannot penetrate to the inflamed bronchi. Most physicians recommend the inhalation of steam to ease coughing.

COLD ALL THE TIME

Mrs. M. writes: I am very sensitive to the cold and have to bundle up like an Eskimo in the winter time. But even in summer weather I get goose pimples and chills if I'm in a draft and at night, unless I bundle up, I awake with cramping and numbness and the hands and my feet feel like pieces of ice. I am only 27, the mother of three children. Would you have any idea what is wrong with me?

REPLY

Maybe your thermostat is turned on too low. Why not have a metabolism test to find out if your thyroid gland is up to par?

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Demolition Of Unused Area School Is Urged

The demolition of the unused Eckhart School was urged yesterday by the Allegany County Health Department and the Allegany County Board of Commissioners agreed with the suggestion.

The commissioners at their meeting yesterday received a communication from Dr. Winter R. Frantz, concerning the 75-year-old wooden structure.

Dr. Frantz said after complaints were received from residents of the Beacher Avenue section of Eckhart, J. B. Dowling, state sanitarian, and Fire Chief Virgil A. Parker of the Cumberland Fire Department, inspected it.

Unfit For Use

They found it to be unfit for human habitation and said it was a fire hazard. Dr. Frantz pointed out that there is no hydrant on the hill and added that in the event of a fire many homes in that area could not be saved.

Dr. Frantz said the plumbing and electrical fixtures and even part of the fire escape have been stolen.

The health officer said the department, under powers authorized it by the Board of County Commissioners, sitting as a county board of health June 15, 1952, can sell it for the junk and materials in it for $125.

Board President William H. Lemmert said there have been several persons asking about the school being sold for the materials in its and felt the project should be sold on bids.

To Give Away Seats

The clerk was ordered to insert advertisements in the local newspapers offering the school for sale.

In other action regarding abandonment of schools, the commissioners received a letter from Rev. Louis R. Emerick, pastor of the Midland Methodist Charge, requesting some old seats in the old Eckhart and Mt. Savage schools for the Woodland Methodist Church.

Lemmert pointed out that in the past it has been the policy of the board to give churches materials such as these.

At this time, Commissioner Charles N. Wilkinson introduced a motion following up Lemmert's suggestion and the order was passed giving the half-desks to the Woodland church.

Man Sues For Son's Injuries

The father of a two-year-old boy hurt in a wreck at Deal, Pa., last month has sued the driver of the car for $5,000 damages in Allegany County Circuit Court.

The father, Russell Walter Blubaugh of Midland entered the suit yesterday for his son, Walter Russell Blubaugh, against Albert Klink, 1 Federal Street, Frostburg. The suit was filed by Attorney Horace P. Whitworth Jr.

The suit states that the son and his mother, Mary Frances Blubaugh, were passengers in Klink's 1951 hardtop convertible on the evening of August 11.

The car traveling on the Finzel Road rounded a curve in a careless manner while driving at a high rate of speed and crashed through the bridge over the Western Maryland Railway, the suit declares. The car landed on its top after a 40-foot drop.

Violence Flares At Poultry Plant

Picket Fined; Watchman Is Attacked

MOOREFIELD—Several flurries of violence and considerable shouting and name-calling marked the second day of the strike at the Rockingham Poultry Company's plant here. Late Monday night, pickets also attacked and roughed a night watchman, and yesterday noon, several workers were struck with rotten eggs hurled from the picket line.

Police stepped in to halt these flurries of violence. Yesterday morning, Mrs. Mabel Smith, a local picket, was arrested on an assault charge by Police Chief G. H. Robinette. She was accused of attacking Mrs. Odessa Wilson, another Moorefield woman, who attempted to cross the picket line to work.

Mrs. Smith was arraigned before Mayor P. W. Clark and fined $5. The fine was paid and she was released. Mrs. Wilson, who had her hair pulled, and was pummelled and bruised, went to work.

At noontime, several of the 25 persons who reported for work at the plant left the building for lunch. Pickets hurled a number of rotten eggs and badly spattered the workers and their clothing. No arrests in this instance had been made last night.

The watchman, known here as "Wash" Cook, age about 59 and the father of nine children, was set upon by six men from a group of 15 pickets at the plant late Monday night. Cook was unable positively to identify his assailants and one man who was arrested was released. Cook was not seriously injured and went to work.

The strike at the local poultry processing plant began Monday morning when about 110 of the plant's production workers remained away from their jobs. About 20 reported and the plant manager, said 25 people reported and the plant again processed about 3,500 birds. Normal production is between 18,000 and 20,000 per day.

Some of those who reported yesterday did not cross the picket line Monday, and some who worked Monday did not cross the picket line yesterday.

The Moorefield operation of this large cooperative is the fourth of six plants in the chain to become strikebound. Company plants at Winchester and Broadway, Va., went into their third week yesterday. New strikes were called at Moorefield and at Richmond, Va., Other plants at Alma and Stuarts Draft, Va., were reported operating yesterday.

There were also unconfirmed reports that the plant at Broadway was on about a three-fourths basis yesterday with Winchester operating at about 50 per cent of capacity.

Local officials said that the union people here seem to know little about the details of the strike, and the local union has issued no statement. There are two district organizers here, allegedly identified with the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workers of America (AFL), but their identity is not known to local officials and the pickets contacted said they know only the one man as "Mike." It was he who paid the $5 fine assessed against the picket.

H. Gus Muntzing, local attorney for the company, was not optimistic about the situation yesterday. He said negotiations broke down between the company and the union at bargaining at company headquarters at Broadway. He said there is hope that negotiations can be resumed later this week.

The union is demanding a wage of $1.25 an hour from the .89 cents an hour now paid, plus a guaranteed 32-hour work week, additional hospitalization benefits and more than six paid holidays a year. The company says the demands are too high.

Some of the pickets at the plant here yesterday were identified by police as "from Winchester and Broadway."

New Marketing Service Set Up For Applemen

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Sept. 27 (AP)—West Virginia has undertaken a new marketing service which may mean "three to four million dollars additional money" to West Virginia growers on this year's apple crop.

It is an information service, with which producers can list the apples they have to sell and their asking price. Prospective buyers—for example, independent truckers who buy and sell apples—can check the information service listings, instead of shopping from orchard to orchard.

An official information office was opened last Tuesday on U.S. 11 in Berkeley County, four miles north of the Virginia line. The site is in the Eastern Panhandle apple-growing area.

The estimate that three to four million dollars more might be added to the growers' income was made by Agriculture Commissioner J. B. McLaughlin.

He reported that the information center, in operation only five working days, already has listings totaling a quarter of a million bushels of apples. The West Virginia crop this year is predicted at a little more than four million bushels, compared with seven million last year.

In four days last week, trucks hauled 15,000 to 17,000 pounds of apples from the Eastern Panhandle and nine trucks were being loaded today, McLaughlin said. The harvest, which continues into November, has not yet reached its peak.

McLaughlin explained that the marketing service was undertaken after processors—who buy apples for canning—announced prices of $2.50 per 100 pounds for yorks and $2 for other varieties.

"This seemed unreasonably low to me when we had only about two-thirds of a crop," the commissioner said.

Tree Mixes Up Seasons

New Marketing Service Set Up For Applemen

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Sept. 27 (AP)—West Virginia has undertaken a new marketing service which may mean "three to four million dollars additional money" to West Virginia growers on this year's apple crop.

It is an information service, with which producers can list the apples they have to sell and their asking price. Prospective buyers—for example, independent truckers who buy and sell apples—can check the information service listings, instead of shopping from orchard to orchard.

An official information office was opened last Tuesday on U.S. 11 in Berkeley County, four miles north of the Virginia line. The site is in the Eastern Panhandle apple-growing area.

The estimate that three to four million dollars more might be added to the growers' income was made by Agriculture Commissioner J. B. McLaughlin.

He reported that the information center, in operation only five working days, already has listings totaling a quarter of a million bushels of apples. The West Virginia crop this year is predicted at a little more than four million bushels, compared with seven million last year.

In four days last week, trucks hauled 15,000 to 17,000 pounds of apples from the Eastern Panhandle and nine trucks were being loaded today, McLaughlin said. The harvest, which continues into November, has not yet reached its peak.

McLaughlin explained that the marketing service was undertaken after processors—who buy apples for canning—announced prices of $2.50 per 100 pounds for yorks and $2 for other varieties.

"This seemed unreasonably low to me when we had only about two-thirds of a crop," the commissioner said.

Yankees, Dodgers Ready For World Series Opener Today

Newcombe, Ford Slated To Toe Hill

Showers Predicted; Two Teams' Sixth Meeting In Classic

NEW YORK, Sept. 27 (AP)—Mickey Mantle remained a doubtful starter and the weatherman predicted a "chance of showers" for tomorrow's opening game of the sixth New York Yankee-Brooklyn Dodger World Series at Yankee Stadium.

Despite a gloomy statement from Mantle that he was "not hopeful of playing in the series—at least in the first game or two at the stadium"—the Yanks remained a strong 13 to 10 favorite in man-to-man betting to take the best-of-seven set. The opening game price was 6 to 5 with the Yanks favored.

Mantle tested his injured right leg in a brief workout at Ebbets Field today. "It doesn't affect my hitting at all," he said, "but it hurts when I try to run."

Stengel Not Present

Manager Casey Stengel wasn't present at the Yank workout in the enemy park but he has indicated he would use Irv Noren, a lefthanded hitter, in center field if the switch-hitting Mantle were unavailable. Elston Howard probably will be in left, and Phil Rizzuto at short, the other doubtful positions.

Stengel didn't attend the workout because he was to meet with Commissioner Ford Frick, Brooklyn Manager Walter Alston and the umpires in a review of series regulations. Alston, whose Dodgers worked out in early afternoon at Yankee Stadium, was able to double up.

The weatherman may have a final say on this first game. He forecast a chance of showers but also observed that the rain might drift north of New York and also might come in the morning, too early to interfere with the game, scheduled for noon (EST).

In the event of a postponement, the entire schedule would be pushed back with No. 1 tickets good for Thursday at the stadium. Commissioner Frick would make the decision of any postponement after a conference with officials of the home club, the Yanks in this instance.

Dodgers Are Healthy

Carl Furillo, Dodger right fielder, missed his second straight workout, due to a head cold and a touch of sinus. However, the club doctor has assured Alston that Furillo will be ready to play in the opener. Except for Clem Labine, the relief pitcher, who had a "slight touch of virus," the Dodgers were healthy. Labine practiced and said he'd be ready.

The Dodgers can't understand why the Yanks are favored because Stengel's pitching staff leans heavily to the lefthanded side and the Brooks have a reputation for murdering lefties. In fact, only one southpaw, Louis Arroyo of St. Louis, went the route against them all season while they were romping to the pennant by a 13½ game margin. However, the Dodgers were only 5-6 against lefties, counting reliefers and starters who did not last.

Whitey Ford (18-7), a chunky lefthander, works the opener for the Yanks against Don Newcombe (20-5), the jumbo, Negro righthander who won 10 games in the spring before losing. The Yanks will use Tommy Byrne (16-5), another lefty, against Billy Loes (10-4), a second straight righthander, in the second game.

Dodgers Never Have Won

Brooklyn, of course, never has won a series, losing five to the Yanks from 1941 through 1953 and bowing to the Boston Red Sox in 1916 and Cleveland in 1920. The Yanks, winning their 21st pennant in 35 years, have a tremendous 16-4 record in series competition. They haven't lost one since 1942 to St. Louis.

The Dodgers' 201 home runs and .271 club average tops the Yanks' total of 175 homers and .260 batting average in the regular season.

Weather To Clear For Series Today

NEW YORK, Sept. 27 (AP)—The United States Weather Bureau predicted tonight that clearing skies would greet the World Series opener between the New York Yankees and the Brooklyn Ddodgers tomorrow.

In a forecast issued at 9:30 p.m., EST, the bureau predicted a few showers tomorrow morning ending before noon, followed by afternoon clearing. The high would be about 75 degrees, the bureau said.

It also predicted "mostly fair" for Thursday.

SERIES SCENE AND STARTERS — The New York Yankees are a strong 13 to 10 favorite to take the 1955 World Series which will open today at the American League champions home field, Yankee Stadium. Lefty Ed "Whitey" Ford is scheduled to start for the Yanks while big Don Newcombe, one of only two 20-game winners in the majors this season, will toe the slab for the visiting Brooklyn Dodgers' National League titlists. Non-Passing Teams Are Winning Games

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 27 (AP)—Coach Johnny Michelosen of the Pitt Panthers was primed today when asked at a luncheon why the Panthers haven't been passing more often.

"The team that passes least is winning the games," Michelosen said.

Michelosen, who learned his football under the late Dr. John B. Sutherland—an advocate of hard hitting line play and the single wing—pointed out that Notre Dame, Oklahoma and Ohio State used passes infrequently last Saturday and won their games.

The Panthers, hoping to cop their third consecutive game without a defeat at Oklahoma Saturday, worked out in the rain today.

Three Regulars Hurt On Richmond Eleven

RICHMOND, Va., Sept. 27 (AP)—Three members of the backfield that started against West Virginia were out of uniform today as the University of Richmond Spiders began preparations for Saturday's scrap at Virginia Military Institute.

Quarterback Tommy Theodose and halfback George Riggs, the Spiders' two brilliant offensive stars against the Mountaineers, were both nursing leg injuries which Coach Ed Merrick feared would keep them out of action against the Keydets.

Merrick was more hopeful that halfback Louis Wacker, also a casualty of the West Virginia game, would be ready for limited service at least. Wacker aggrevated a previous injury to his leg.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 27 (AP)—Dean Renfro, speedy halfback from North Texas State released last week by the Cleveland Browns, was signed today by the Baltimore Colts of the National Football League.

Inland Game Meeting Set

Waterfowl Revision Hearing Oct. 14

BALTIMORE, Sept. 27 (AP)—Maryland's Game and Inland Fish Commission has scheduled a public hearing at Annapolis on the night of Oct. 14 on revision of regulations which pertain to the baiting of ducks and other wild waterfowl during the hunting season.

Another subject to be taken up is the inclusion of Deep Creek Lake reservoir in the present regulations on trout fishing in Deep Creek Lake in Garrett County.

One reason for the hearing is the differences in State and federal regulations on the baiting of waterfowl—differences which got a lot of hunters in trouble last season.

The federal regulation prohibits the use of grain or other food to lure waterfowl to blinds and shooting points, setting no distance.

The State prohibits baiting within 200 yards of a shooting point.

Ernest A. Vaughn, director of the department, said the commission is seeking the reaction of hunters to the drafting of a new State rule which would avoid the conflict.

Poholsky's Brother Signed By Phillies

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 27 (AP)—John Poholsky, 23-year-old pitcher, brother of Tom Poholsky of the St. Louis Cardinals, today was signed to a minor league contract by the Philadelphia Phillies. Poholsky, a right hander of Detroit, will report next spring to the Phillies Three Rivers farm in the Class C Provincial League.

Trippi May Not Play This Season

CHICAGO, Sept. 27 (AP)—Charlie Trippi, injured Chicago Cardinal halfback, will be sidelined for at least another month and probably for the rest of the season, the team physician reported today.

The former Georgia All-America was hurt Sept. 4, in a Cardinal-49er exhibition game at San Francisco.

"He has a triple fracture of the nose," said Dr. Ralph C. O'Halloran.

Fort Hill Preps For Friday Battle Against Martinsburg

Hahn Is Pleased With Team's Play

The Sentinels, showing more scoring punch with each succeeding game, after dropping their season's opener to Morgantown, W. Va., High, ran over LaSalle almost at will in Monday's playoff of a game postponed by rain last week.

Hahn was especially pleased with the showing of several of his second-string backs who played very well against LaSalle. They were George McKenney and Donald Hammersmith, each of whom tallied twice, and Clarence "Pooch" Lewis, who scored one touchdown.

The Hahnmen came through the important city fray without serious injury and buckled down immediately to prep for the Martinsburg clash Friday.

The Bulldogs, coached by John Cobourn who is in his 23rd year at the helm of the West Virginia eleven, lost their only start of the season to Morgantown, 25-0. The same Morgantown eleven defeated Fort Hill, 14-7.

The Sentinels, who dropped a 12-6 decision to last year's unbeaten Martinsburg grid squad, hopes to gain revenge for the setback. Martinsburg, hard-hit by graduation, will have only one regular back from the undefeated 1954 eleven. He is Frank Hawkins, 165-pound center for the Bulldogs.

Three other lettermen form the nucleus of Coach Cobourn's squad, Bernie Petrucci, halfback, and linemen Eddie Hammann and Garrie Leonard. Martinsburg lost 16 members of last season's team.

This will be the 19th meeting of the two teams, with Fort Hill winning 12 and three ending in tie scores.

John Shelton, Jim Fahey, Jim Gaffney and Bee Orndorff are slated to officiate the 8 p.m. contest.

BLACKSBURG, Va., Sept. 27 (AP)—Captain Dickie Beard broke loose for several long gains today as Virginia Tech's varsity scrimmaged freshmen using William and Mary defenses.

Beard sparked the team, which at first had difficulty gaining against the white-shirted frosh, with quick bursts through the line. He easily outmaneuvered the secondary.

In a forecast issued at 9:30 p.m., EST, the bureau predicted a few showers tomorrow morning ending before noon, followed by afternoon clearing. The high would be about 75 degrees, the bureau said.

It also predicted "mostly fair" for Thursday.

Despite a gloomy statement from Mantle that he was "not hopeful of playing in the series—at least in the first game or two at the stadium"—the Yanks remained a strong 13 to 10 favorite in man-to-man betting to take the best-of-seven set. The opening game price was 6 to 5 with the Yanks favored.

Mantle tested his injured right leg in a brief workout at Ebbets Field today. "It doesn't affect my hitting at all," he said, "but it hurts when I try to run."

Stengel Not Present

Manager Casey Stengel wasn't present at the Yank workout in the enemy park but he has indicated he would use Irv Noren, a lefthanded hitter, in center field if the switch-hitting Mantle were unavailable. Elston Howard probably will be in left, and Phil Rizzuto at short, the other doubtful positions.

Stengel didn't attend the workout because he was to meet with Commissioner Ford Frick, Brooklyn Manager Walter Alston and the umpires in a review of series regulations. Alston, whose Dodgers worked out in early afternoon at Yankee Stadium, was able to double up.

The weatherman may have a final say on this first game. He forecast a chance of showers but also observed that the rain might drift north of New York and also might come in the morning, too early to interfere with the game, scheduled for noon (EST).

In the event of a postponement, the entire schedule would be pushed back with No. 1 tickets good for Thursday at the stadium. Commissioner Frick would make the decision of any postponement after a conference with officials of the home club, the Yanks in this instance.

Dodgers Are Healthy

Carl Furillo, Dodger right fielder, missed his second straight workout, due to a head cold and a touch of sinus. However, the club doctor has assured Alston that Furillo will be ready to play in the opener. Except for Clem Labine, the relief pitcher, who had a "slight touch of virus," the Dodgers were healthy. Labine practiced and said he'd be ready.

The Dodgers can't understand why the Yanks are favored because Stengel's pitching staff leans heavily to the lefthanded side and the Brooks have a reputation for murdering lefties. In fact, only one southpaw, Louis Arroyo of St. Louis, went the route against them all season while they were romping to the pennant by a 13½ game margin. However, the Dodgers were only 5-6 against lefties, counting reliefers and starters who did not last.

Whitey Ford (18-7), a chunky lefthander, works the opener for the Yanks against Don Newcombe (20-5), the jumbo, Negro righthander who won 10 games in the spring before losing. The Yanks will use Tommy Byrne (16-5), another lefty, against Billy Loes (10-4), a second straight righthander, in the second game.

Dodgers Never Have Won

Brooklyn, of course, never has won a series, losing five to the Yanks from 1941 through 1953 and bowing to the Boston Red Sox in 1916 and Cleveland in 1920. The Yanks, winning their 21st pennant in 35 years, have a tremendous 16-4 record in series competition. They haven't lost one since 1942 to St. Louis.

The Dodgers' 201 home runs and .271 club average tops the Yanks' total of 175 homers and .260 batting average in the regular season.

Network radio (Mutual) and television (NBC) will carry the games from coast to coast each day, starting 15 minutes before game time.

SERIES SCENE AND STARTERS — The New York Yankees are a strong 13 to 10 favorite to take the 1955 World Series which will open today at the American League champions home field, Yankee Stadium. Lefty Ed "Whitey" Ford is scheduled to start for the Yanks while big Don Newcombe, one of only two 20-game winners in the majors this season, will toe the slab for the visiting Brooklyn Dodgers' National League titlists. Non-Passing Teams Are Winning Games

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 27 (AP)—Coach Johnny Michelosen of the Pitt Panthers was primed today when asked at a luncheon why the Panthers haven't been passing more often.

"The team that passes least is winning the games," Michelosen said.

Michelosen, who learned his football under the late Dr. John B. Sutherland—an advocate of hard hitting line play and the single wing—pointed out that Notre Dame, Oklahoma and Ohio State used passes infrequently last Saturday and won their games.

The Panthers, hoping to cop their third consecutive game without a defeat at Oklahoma Saturday, worked out in the rain today.

Three Regulars Hurt On Richmond Eleven

RICHMOND, Va., Sept. 27 (AP)—Three members of the backfield that started against West Virginia were out of uniform today as the University of Richmond Spiders began preparations for Saturday's scrap at Virginia Military Institute.

Quarterback Tommy Theodose and halfback George Riggs, the Spiders' two brilliant offensive stars against the Mountaineers, were both nursing leg injuries which Coach Ed Merrick feared would keep them out of action against the Keydets.

Merrick was more hopeful that halfback Louis Wacker, also a casualty of the West Virginia game, would be ready for limited service at least. Wacker aggrevated a previous injury to his leg.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 27 (AP)—Dean Renfro, speedy halfback from North Texas State released last week by the Cleveland Browns, was signed today by the Baltimore Colts of the National Football League.

Inland Game Meeting Set

Waterfowl Revision Hearing Oct. 14

BALTIMORE, Sept. 27 (AP)—Maryland's Game and Inland Fish Commission has scheduled a public hearing at Annapolis on the night of Oct. 14 on revision of regulations which pertain to the baiting of ducks and other wild waterfowl during the hunting season.

Another subject to be taken up is the inclusion of Deep Creek Lake reservoir in the present regulations on trout fishing in Deep Creek Lake in Garrett County.

One reason for the hearing is the differences in State and federal regulations on the baiting of waterfowl—differences which got a lot of hunters in trouble last season.

The federal regulation prohibits the use of grain or other food to lure waterfowl to blinds and shooting points, setting no distance.

The State prohibits baiting within 200 yards of a shooting point.

Ernest A. Vaughn, director of the department, said the commission is seeking the reaction of hunters to the drafting of a new State rule which would avoid the conflict.

Poholsky's Brother Signed By Phillies

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 27 (AP)—John Poholsky, 23-year-old pitcher, brother of Tom Poholsky of the St. Louis Cardinals, today was signed to a minor league contract by the Philadelphia Phillies. Poholsky, a right hander of Detroit, will report next spring to the Phillies Three Rivers farm in the Class C Provincial League.

Trippi May Not Play This Season

CHICAGO, Sept. 27 (AP)—Charlie Trippi, injured Chicago Cardinal halfback, will be sidelined for at least another month and probably for the rest of the season, the team physician reported today.

The former Georgia All-America was hurt Sept. 4, in a Cardinal-49er exhibition game at San Francisco.

"He has a triple fracture of the nose," said Dr. Ralph C. O'Halloran.

12-Team Circuit To Begin 8th Campaign

The Allegany County Women's Shuffleboard League will officially open its 8th campaign tonight with six matches scheduled in the circuit.

The Frostburg American Legion team which won the regular season title and then copped the playoffs for the second straight time last year will be the defending champion.

Tonight's schedule finds Cumberland Woodmen of the World at Frostburg Golden Nugget; Purple Heart at Pocahontas; Clingerman's Tavern at Green's Chevrolet of Frostburg; Cresaptown Firemen at Frostburg American Legion; Hi Dee Club at Cas Taylor's Club and Stadium Inn of Frostburg at Frostburg Eagles.

The circuit, which has been a 10-team affair for several years, blossomed out into a 12-team league this season with the addition of Green's Chevrolet and Frostburg Eagles teams. The remaining 10 clubs all are holdover teams.

All matches tonight will get underway at 8:30 o'clock.

During the seven previous seasons Stadium Inn has copped two titles, Cresaptown one, WOW one and the Legion three, the last two in succession.

Hahn Is Pleased With Team's Play

The Sentinels, showing more scoring punch with each succeeding game, after dropping their season's opener to Morgantown, W. Va., High, ran over LaSalle almost at will in Monday's playoff of a game postponed by rain last week.

Hahn was especially pleased with the showing of several of his second-string backs who played very well against LaSalle. They were George McKenney and Donald Hammersmith, each of whom tallied twice, and Clarence "Pooch" Lewis, who scored one touchdown.

The Hahnmen came through the important city fray without serious injury and buckled down immediately to prep for the Martinsburg clash Friday.

The Bulldogs, coached by John Cobourn who is in his 23rd year at the helm of the West Virginia eleven, lost their only start of the season to Morgantown, 25-0. The same Morgantown eleven defeated Fort Hill, 14-7.

The Sentinels, who dropped a 12-6 decision to last year's unbeaten Martinsburg grid squad, hopes to gain revenge for the setback. Martinsburg, hard-hit by graduation, will have only one regular back from the undefeated 1954 eleven. He is Frank Hawkins, 165-pound center for the Bulldogs.

Three other lettermen form the nucleus of Coach Cobourn's squad, Bernie Petrucci, halfback, and linemen Eddie Hammann and Garrie Leonard. Martinsburg lost 16 members of last season's team.

This will be the 19th meeting of the two teams, with Fort Hill winning 12 and three ending in tie scores.

John Shelton, Jim Fahey, Jim Gaffney and Bee Orndorff are slated to officiate the 8 p.m. contest.

Beard Breaks Loose In VPI Practice

BLACKSBURG, Va., Sept. 27 (AP)—Captain Dickie Beard broke loose for several long gains today as Virginia Tech's varsity scrimmaged freshmen using William and Mary defenses.

Beard sparked the team, which at first had difficulty gaining against the white-shirted frosh, with quick bursts through the line. He easily outmaneuvered the secondary.

Meeting Scheduled

Leg Trouble Cited Reason For Decision

3-Year-Old Champ Of '54 Upset Nashua At Belmont Saturday

By JOHN CHANDLER

NEW YORK, Sept. 27 (AP) — The King Ranch's High Gun, who scored a sensational victory last Saturday over Nashua, Jet Action and others in the $106,700 Sysonby Stakes at Belmont Park, was retired to stud today.

Trainer Max Hirsch said the decision was taken after conferring with Robert J. Kleberg, owner of the Kingsville, Tex., racing stable.

"He has shown slight signs of suspensory trouble, and although the colt has never been lame, we don't want to take any chances," the veteran trainer said. The suspensory is a ligament in the ankle.

"He is definitely through, and will be sent to the King Ranch Farm at Lexington, Ky.," Hirsch said. "Physically, he was never better, although there has been a little notice of the ankle trouble for some time."

Voted 3-Year-Old Champ

High Gun, voted the 3-year-old champions of 1954, won three major stakes this season, starting with the Metropolitan Handicap at Belmont with 130 pounds. He won the Brooklyn Handicap at Aqueduct in July with 132, and had 126 under weight-for-age conditions in the Sysonby. It was the first time he had less than 130 all year.

William Helis, Jr.'s Helioscope, with 128, beat High Gun with 133 by a head in the Suburban at Belmont in May. In July Helioscope carried 131, four less than High Gun, and won the Monmouth Park Handicap.

Saturday, High Gun remained seven or eight lengths off the blistering early pace set by Jet Action, Nashua, Helioscope and Mr. Turf. Then High Gun just zoomed up in the final strides to score a head victory over Jet Action. Nashua was third.

Best Season Was 1954

High Gun's biggest season was 1954 when he earned $314,550. The brown son of Heliopolis-Rocket gun, lightly raced as a 2-year-old earned $70,600 last Saturday, running his 1955 total to $164,000, and his lifetime bankroll to $486,025.

"It is my thought that thoroughbreds are raced for the purpose of proving their worth," Kleberg told the Baltimore Sunpapers in announcing High Gun's retirement. "In my opinion, High Gun has proven himself a champion."

Gallen's Big Six and the Penn Avenue Bears copped High School Division Touch Football League games Monday while the Penn Avenue Eagles dropped a game to the Goofers yesterday.

Rock Stonebreaker passed to Ace Keefer and Mike Lease to Duck Malemphy for the two Sentinels scores.

The Bears utilized the passing and running of Jesse Markley to tally four touchdowns for a 24-12 win over the Maryland Avenue Rockets. Markley passed seven yards to O'Neill and 17 to Dale Evans for two scores and ran six and eight yards for the other pair.

Bernard Shell passed to Jim Zufall for four yards and a Rockets touchdown and then caught a 3-yard pass from S. Shell for the other counter.

Baseball Career Ends After 30 Years

NEW YORK, Sept. 28 (AP)—Leo Durocher bade farewell to baseball today after 30 years. He took an executive job with the National Broadcasting Co. at a reported $52,000 a year.

Durocher resigned Saturday as manager of the New York Giants, a job that paid him an undisclosed salary, reportedly in the neighborhood of $60,000 a year.

NBC unveiled the fiery ex-manager at a news conference as the new "quiet, conservative" network executive. He will negotiate with talent and help in properly programming it. He also will fill in from time to time in the role of expert sports commentator, but will not be a regular broadcaster. His contract is for one year.

"I reserve a woman's prerogative to change my mind, but right now I'm definitely through with baseball," he told the news conference.

"It's hard to sit here and say you're happy about it after 30 years in baseball, but I had been contemplating it, and right now I can say I'm very, very happy."

Durocher broke into organized baseball in 1925. Although never a great player, he overcame his handicaps with dash and spirit on the field.

Still an active player, Durocher became manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers in 1939. Under him, Brooklyn won the pennant in 1941 for the first time in 21 years.

Midway in the 1948 season, Durocher took over the Giants, a move that provoked the ire of many long-time Giant fans who had little use for anything from Brooklyn.

Durocher guided the Giants to two pennants, in 1951 and 1954, and last year's team won the World Series in four straight games from Cleveland. But this year the Giants faded badly and finished a poor third to Brooklyn.

"Our hope, and I'm sure it is his, is that he will keep his association with sports alive and broaden it," said NBC executive vice president Robert W. Sarnoff.

Said Durocher:

"It's the first contract I've ever signed outside baseball."

In a blue suit, white shirt and blue and red figured tie, Durocher seemed somewhat nervous under the klieg lights of television cameras. He fidgeted with his hands on a table in front of him.

Durocher said he will be based in California. His home is in Beverly Hills.

He was asked how his wife, lovely Laraine Day, regards the change in his status.

"She's very happy about it—highly elated," Durocher replied.

Presumably, it means the end of at least one of Miss Day's many TV chores—a pre-game telecast over a local outlet from the Polo Grounds.

Durocher said he was not offered any other baseball job after he quit the Giants. And the Giants reportedly had no intention of renewing his contract.

Baseball Career Ends After 30 Years

NEW YORK, Sept. 28 (AP)—Leo Durocher bade farewell to baseball today after 30 years. He took an executive job with the National Broadcasting Co. at a reported $52,000 a year.

Durocher resigned Saturday as manager of the New York Giants, a job that paid him an undisclosed salary, reportedly in the neighborhood of $60,000 a year.

NBC unveiled the fiery ex-manager at a news conference as the new "quiet, conservative" network executive. He will negotiate with talent and help in properly programming it. He also will fill in from time to time in the role of expert sports commentator, but will not be a regular broadcaster. His contract is for one year.

"I reserve a woman's prerogative to change my mind, but right now I'm definitely through with baseball," he told the news conference.

"It's hard to sit here and say you're happy about it after 30 years in baseball, but I had been contemplating it, and right now I can say I'm very, very happy."

Durocher broke into organized baseball in 1925. Although never a great player, he overcame his handicaps with dash and spirit on the field.

Still an active player, Durocher became manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers in 1939. Under him, Brooklyn won the pennant in 1941 for the first time in 21 years.

Midway in the 1948 season, Durocher took over the Giants, a move that provoked the ire of many long-time Giant fans who had little use for anything from Brooklyn.

Durocher guided the Giants to two pennants, in 1951 and 1954, and last year's team won the World Series in four straight games from Cleveland. But this year the Giants faded badly and finished a poor third to Brooklyn.

"Our hope, and I'm sure it is his, is that he will keep his association with sports alive and broaden it," said NBC executive vice president Robert W. Sarnoff.

Said Durocher:

Durocher said he will be based in California. His home is in Beverly Hills.

He was asked how his wife, lovely Laraine Day, regards the change in his status.

Presumably, it means the end of at least one of Miss Day's many TV chores—a pre-game telecast over a local outlet from the Polo Grounds.

Durocher said he was not offered any other baseball job after he quit the Giants. And the Giants reportedly had no intention of renewing his contract.

Bobby Jones Reflects On Golf Career

Made Grand Slam Mark 25 Years Ago

ATLANTA, Sept. 27 (AP)—Seated behind his desk in a big, downtown office building, Bob Jones was reflecting on his amazing career in golf which he climaxed 25 years ago today by completing his Grand Slam.

"Yes," he said, "If I were young again and full of beans I'd like to do it all over again. It was strenuous and disappointing at times, but you must remember that I got a lot of fun out of the competition, too. Any young fellow would. Golf was rewarding to me in many ways."

Jones' unmatched achievement in golf came over a span of years now called the golden era of sports. He was a giant among men, along with such sports immortals of the time as baseball's Babe Ruth, boxing's Jack Dempsey and tennis' Bill Tilden.

Tonight, Jones' friends planned a "little" stag dinner for him. Jones wanted to "keep it in the family" but the family of friends is so large there was trouble keeping the invitation list down to about 600.

"Actually," Jones said, "there's a two-fold purpose for the dinner. It's to celebrate the 25th anniversary of the Grand Slam and the 25th anniversary of the birth of the Atlanta Golf Assn."

But to most folks, it was planned merely as a tribute to Atlanta's most famous sports figure—a man who at the age of 28 had earned the titles emperor of golf and Grand Slam king and, with no more worlds to conquer, retired from competitive golf.

Jones came out of retirement in 1934 to help get the Masters Tournament in Augusta off to an auspicious start, but serious competitive golf ended for Jones the afternoon of Sept. 27, 1930, after he defeated Eugene Homans 7 and 6 in the finals of the National Amateur.

The victory completed his Grand Slam, making him the only man ever to hold the U. S. Open and amateur and British Open and amateur titles at the same time. He announced his retirement about two months later, on Nov. 17.

The first two games will be played at Yankee Stadium where Ralph J. Belcore is first man in line for bleacher seats for the 12th year in a row. Sales at Yankee Stadium start today. (AP Photofax).

Tatum States Terps Offense "Not So Good"

Maryland Coach Has Stressed Defense

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Sept. 27 (AP)—Coach Jim Tatum said today he's well aware his Maryland football team's offense isn't "so hot" and he doesn't expect it to be much fancier for Baylor Saturday night.

The reasons it has scored only two touchdowns against Missouri and one on UCLA are that he stresses defense more at the start of a season and because he had to make so many adjustments in filling the fullback hole, Tatum explained.

Tom Selep, slated to be the fullback, turned up with torn knee ligaments the first day of fall practice. In order to get two halfbacks, Fred Hamilton and Phil Perlo, ready to take over, Tatum said he had to limit his offense.

"For instance, we haven't passed enough to develop a real aerial attack," he said. "This is proved by the fact that of our two fine ends, Bill Walker has caught only one pass and Russell Dennis none."

"We've been tremendously fortunate to get as far as we have with such a limited offense.

"We intend to work on it more this week, but we really can't put in much until next week. We have to get ready for another unfamiliar offense in Baylor which uses numerous flankers and passes a lot. Last week, it was the rare single wing of UCLA which took up most of our time.

"Next week, Wake Forest uses the T and we'll be able to spend 30 per cent less time on defense."

Fan May Sue Ball Club For Injuries

BALTIMORE, Sept. 27 (AP)—Judge Joseph L. Carter has ruled that a fan whose thumb was fractured by a foul ball may sue the Baltimore Orioles for $10,000.

Attorneys for the baseball team sought to have the suit of John H. Walsh, a Federal internal revenue agent, dismissed on the argument that risk of such injuries is assumed in attending a baseball game.

Judge Carter agreed with attorneys for Walsh who claimed their client suffered the injury because he was required to stand in an exposed spot while trying to get into his seat which had been occupied by another fan. The accident happened during the 1954 season.

Baylor To Pass Against Terrapins

WACO, Tex., Sept. 27 (AP)—Maryland's Terrapins might as well get ready for footballs flying like seagulls here Saturday night when they lay Baylor in the biggest intersectional game this city ever has known.

Coach George Sauer, declaring that Jim Tatum's team at Maryland is one of the finest Baylor scouts have seen, promised that the Bears would pass and pass some more because he figured that was the only way to beat the Terps.

And Sauer, ever the optimist, said he thought Baylor had a good chance to knock over Maryland even if it is ranked the No. 1 team of the nation.

Mrs. Whitworth Wins

Mrs. Fuller Whitworth won the blind bogie tournament held yesterday at the Cumberland Country Club by the Women's Golf Association. She had a gross 91 less handicap. Elimination of three worst holes of play gave Mrs. Whitworth a net 66.

Bobby Jones Reflects On Golf Career

Made Grand Slam Mark 25 Years Ago

ATLANTA, Sept. 27 (AP)—Seated behind his desk in a big, downtown office building, Bob Jones was reflecting on his amazing career in golf which he climaxed 25 years ago today by completing his Grand Slam.

"Yes," he said, "If I were young again and full of beans I'd like to do it all over again. It was strenuous and disappointing at times, but you must remember that I got a lot of fun out of the competition, too. Any young fellow would. Golf was rewarding to me in many ways."

Jones' unmatched achievement in golf came over a span of years now called the golden era of sports. He was a giant among men, along with such sports immortals of the time as baseball's Babe Ruth, boxing's Jack Dempsey and tennis' Bill Tilden.

Tonight, Jones' friends planned a "little" stag dinner for him. Jones wanted to "keep it in the family" but the family of friends is so large there was trouble keeping the invitation list down to about 600.

"Actually," Jones said, "there's a two-fold purpose for the dinner. It's to celebrate the 25th anniversary of the Grand Slam and the 25th anniversary of the birth of the Atlanta Golf Assn."

But to most folks, it was planned merely as a tribute to Atlanta's most famous sports figure—a man who at the age of 28 had earned the titles emperor of golf and Grand Slam king and, with no more worlds to conquer, retired from competitive golf.

Jones came out of retirement in 1934 to help get the Masters Tournament in Augusta off to an auspicious start, but serious competitive golf ended for Jones the afternoon of Sept. 27, 1930, after he defeated Eugene Homans 7 and 6 in the finals of the National Amateur.

The victory completed his Grand Slam, making him the only man ever to hold the U. S. Open and amateur and British Open and amateur titles at the same time. He announced his retirement about two months later, on Nov. 17.

Furman Has Long Drill

GREENVILLE, S. C., Sept. 27 (AP)—Coach Homer Hobbs and his Furman football team continued work here today on reconstructing and rebuilding the defense Army shattered Saturday. They toiled through another three-hour afternoon session.

TICKET LINE FORMED EARLY—John Barr, of Brooklyn, sits in line with a "Do Not Disturb" sign as he waited outside Ebbets Field for the start of ticket sales for the World Series game Monday. A member of a Dodger fan club at Coney Island, he started the long wait at 10:30 p. m. last Friday until the ticket window opened at 6 p. m. Monday. The first two games will be played at Yankee Stadium where Ralph J. Belcore is first man in line for bleacher seats for the 12th year in a row. Sales at Yankee Stadium start today. (AP Photofax).

Tatum States Terps Offense "Not So Good"

Maryland Coach Has Stressed Defense

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Sept. 27 (AP)—Coach Jim Tatum said today he's well aware his Maryland football team's offense isn't "so hot" and he doesn't expect it to be much fancier for Baylor Saturday night.

The reasons it has scored only two touchdowns against Missouri and one on UCLA are that he stresses defense more at the start of a season and because he had to make so many adjustments in filling the fullback hole, Tatum explained.

Tom Selep, slated to be the fullback, turned up with torn knee ligaments the first day of fall practice. In order to get two halfbacks, Fred Hamilton and Phil Perlo, ready to take over, Tatum said he had to limit his offense.

"For instance, we haven't passed enough to develop a real aerial attack," he said. "This is proved by the fact that of our two fine ends, Bill Walker has caught only one pass and Russell Dennis none."

"We've been tremendously fortunate to get as far as we have with such a limited offense.

"We intend to work on it more this week, but we really can't put in much until next week. We have to get ready for another unfamiliar offense in Baylor which uses numerous flankers and passes a lot. Last week, it was the rare single wing of UCLA which took up most of our time.

"Next week, Wake Forest uses the T and we'll be able to spend 30 per cent less time on defense."

Fan May Sue Ball Club For Injuries

BALTIMORE, Sept. 27 (AP)—Judge Joseph L. Carter has ruled that a fan whose thumb was fractured by a foul ball may sue the Baltimore Orioles for $10,000.

Attorneys for the baseball team sought to have the suit of John H. Walsh, a Federal internal revenue agent, dismissed on the argument that risk of such injuries is assumed in attending a baseball game.

Judge Carter agreed with attorneys for Walsh who claimed their client suffered the injury because he was required to stand in an exposed spot while trying to get into his seat which had been occupied by another fan. The accident happened during the 1954 season.

Baylor To Pass Against Terrapins

WACO, Tex., Sept. 27 (AP) — Maryland's Terrapins might as well get ready for footballs flying like seagulls here Saturday night when they lay Baylor in the biggest intersectional game this city ever has known.

Coach George Sauer, declaring that Jim Tatum's team at Maryland is one of the finest Baylor scouts have seen, promised that the Bears would pass and pass some more because he figured that was the only way to beat the Terps.

And Sauer, ever the optimist, said he thought Baylor had a good chance to knock over Maryland even if it is ranked the No. 1 team of the nation.

Mrs. Whitworth Wins

Mrs. Fuller Whitworth won the blind bogie tournament held yesterday at the Cumberland Country Club by the Women's Golf Association. She had a gross 91 less handicap. Elimination of three worst holes of play gave Mrs. Whitworth a net 66.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 27—(INS)—Cinderella girl, 21-year-old Shirley MacLaine, nabs her pixie self the top femme role in Mike Todd's "Around The World In 80 Days." She's already in Durango, Colo., where she joined David Niven, Cantinflas and Robert Newton. She plays Aouda, the Indian princess whom Phineas Fogg meets in his dash around the world, and who attaches herself to him.

You may remember Shirley as the girl who made that old, old plot about the understudy come true. When Carol Haney, in "Pajama Game" broke her leg, understudy Shirley danced in. Hal Wallis caught her that night, signed her, and I'm here to tell you she's plenty outstanding in her first picture, "The Trouble With Harry."

Judy Garland's bad throat did not keep her from being a fine hostess at the party she and Sid Luft gave at Romanoff's following her TV debut. There was plenty of talent at Judy's party, with everyone wanting to say a word to the little girl with the big voice.

Snaps:

Kathryn Grayson's opening tomorrow night at the Riviera in Las Vegas will have Zsa Zsa Gabor, Jane Powell and Pat Nerney, Ginger Rogers and Jacques Bergerac in attendance.

Mary McCarty underwent major surgery this morning.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Rockingham Park Revenue $2,161,875

CONCORD, N. H., Sept. 27 (AP)—The State Racing Commission said today the state's revenue from the first eight weeks of racing at Rockingham Park this year totaled $2,161,875—an increase of $277,693 over the comparable period last year.

The Salem track's total handle thus far this year was listed as $32,660,904—a drop of almost $600,000 from the corresponding period last year.

The state this year raised its pari-mutuel tax from five to six per cent.

Orioles Infielders Enter Hospital

BALTIMORE, Sept. 27 (AP)—Baltimore Oriole infielders Bob Hale and Don Leppert entered Union Memorial Hospital where they will undergo checkups and tonsilectomies Tuesday.

Hale, 21-year-old first baseman, helped spark the Orioles' late-season climb out of the American League celler into seventh place, batting .357.

Oldest capital city in the United States is Santa Fe, N. M., which was founded by the Spanish in 1609.

The earth is about three billion years old, according to some scientists.

Blue Banner Scores Sixth Win At Belmont

Arcaro Up As Filly Takes Cherry Grove

ELMONT, N. Y., Sept. 27—(AP)—Rokeby Stable's Blue Banner scored a handy two and a half length victory over a field of seven other fillies and mares in the Cherry Grove Purse at Belmont Park today. The 3-year-old daughter of War Admiral was ridden by Eddie Arcaro and was the $5.60 choice with the crowd of 17,029. Roman Warbler was second in the $5,000 purse event and Moonsight finished third two lengths farther back in the small field.

It was the sixth victory of the year for Blue Banner and the first since she won the Test Stakes at Saratoga in August. The well-bred filly was purchased by Rokeby Stable, which is the racing name for Paul Mellon of Upperville, Va., for breeding purposes but proved so swift in trials she was sent into racing competition.

Arcaro permitted Blue Banner to stay off the pace set by Roman Warbler and Sotto Voce in the mile and a sixteenth affair and then circled the pacemakers as they came into the stretch. Arcaro tapped his mount once and Blue Banner quickly established a clear lead and held it for the remaining distance. She was timed in an excellent 1:44 for the distance.

In the day's secondary feature Elmendorf's Prince John, a strong candidate for the rich October 1st Futurity, turned back a field of eight other two-year-olds including Calumet Farm's highly-vaunted Fabius. Prince John won by two lengths from C. V. Whitney's head man, another Futurity eligible, with Fabius third. Prince John, a two length victor, returned $4.50 as favorite.

Skip Alexander Awarded $75,000 Crash Damages

DURHAM, N.C., Sept. 27 (AP)—Pro golfer Stewart (Skip) Alexander says he's satisfied with the court ruling awarding him $75,000 in damages for injuries suffered five years ago in the crash of a Civil Air Patrol plane.

Federal Judge Johnson J. Hayes ruled yesterday that the government was negligent both in maintenance and operation of the plane.

Alexander had sued for $200,000 damages.

Air Force Lt. Oliver Singleton, the pilot, and two others were killed when the plane crashed at Evansville, Ind., Sept. 24, 1950. Singleton was trying an emergency landing with both engines dead.

Alexander, badly burned, crawled from the wreckage. He spent two years in hospitals.

Fullmer And Boyd To Clash Tonight

CHICAGO, Sept. 27 (AP)—Gene Fullmer of West Jordan, Utah, and Chicago's Bobby Boyd—young middleweights who have compiled impressive records in a short time—have a 10-round showdown in Chicago Stadium tomorrow night.

Fullmer, 23, has lost only once in 33 pro starts and has scored 19 knockouts. He has been installed a 2½-1 favorite for the nationally televised scrap (ABC, 9 p.m. EST).

Boyd is regarded as one of the hardest hitters in the middleweight ranks with 20 knockouts in 34 wins. He has lost 6 fights and has 2 draws—making him a veteran of 42 pro fights at the age of 20.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 27—(INS)—Cinderella girl, 21-year-old Shirley MacLaine, nabs her pixie self the top femme role in Mike Todd's "Around The World In 80 Days." She's already in Durango, Colo., where she joined David Niven, Cantinflas and Robert Newton. She plays Aouda, the Indian princess whom Phineas Fogg meets in his dash around the world, and who attaches herself to him.

You may remember Shirley as the girl who made that old, old plot about the understudy come true. When Carol Haney, in "Pajama Game" broke her leg, understudy Shirley danced in. Hal Wallis caught her that night, signed her, and I'm here to tell you she's plenty outstanding in her first picture, "The Trouble With Harry."

Judy Garland's bad throat did not keep her from being a fine hostess at the party she and Sid Luft gave at Romanoff's following her TV debut. There was plenty of talent at Judy's party, with everyone wanting to say a word to the little girl with the big voice.

Snaps:

Kathryn Grayson's opening tomorrow night at the Riviera in Las Vegas will have Zsa Zsa Gabor, Jane Powell and Pat Nerney, Ginger Rogers and Jacques Bergerac in attendance.

Mary McCarty underwent major surgery this morning.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Rockingham Park Revenue $2,161,875

CONCORD, N. H., Sept. 27 (AP)—The State Racing Commission said today the state's revenue from the first eight weeks of racing at Rockingham Park this year totaled $2,161,875—an increase of $277,693 over the comparable period last year.

The Salem track's total handle thus far this year was listed as $32,660,904—a drop of almost $600,000 from the corresponding period last year.

The state this year raised its pari-mutuel tax from five to six per cent.

Orioles Infielders Enter Hospital

BALTIMORE, Sept. 27 (AP)—Baltimore Oriole infielders Bob Hale and Don Leppert entered Union Memorial Hospital where they will undergo checkups and tonsilectomies Tuesday.

Hale, 21-year-old first baseman, helped spark the Orioles' late-season climb out of the American League celler into seventh place, batting .357.

Tonsils are believed the cause of back pains suffered recently by Hale and of a sore arm second baseman Leppert has been experiencing.

Oldest capital city in the United States is Santa Fe, N. M., which was founded by the Spanish in 1609.

Blue Banner Scores Sixth Win At Belmont

Arcaro Up As Filly Takes Cherry Grove

ELMONT, N. Y., Sept. 27—(AP)—Rokeby Stable's Blue Banner scored a handy two and a half length victory over a field of seven other fillies and mares in the Cherry Grove Purse at Belmont Park today. The 3-year-old daughter of War Admiral was ridden by Eddie Arcaro and was the $5.60 choice with the crowd of 17,029. Roman Warbler was second in the $5,000 purse event and Moonsight finished third two lengths farther back in the small field.

It was the sixth victory of the year for Blue Banner and the first since she won the Test Stakes at Saratoga in August. The well-bred filly was purchased by Rokeby Stable, which is the racing name for Paul Mellon of Upperville, Va., for breeding purposes but proved so swift in trials she was sent into racing competition.

Arcaro permitted Blue Banner to stay off the pace set by Roman Warbler and Sotto Voce in the mile and a sixteenth affair and then circled the pacemakers as they came into the stretch. Arcaro tapped his mount once and Blue Banner quickly established a clear lead and held it for the remaining distance. She was timed in an excellent 1:44 for the distance.

In the day's secondary feature Elmendorf's Prince John, a strong candidate for the rich October 1st Futurity, turned back a field of eight other two-year-olds including Calumet Farm's highly-vaunted Fabius. Prince John won by two lengths from C. V. Whitney's head man, another Futurity eligible, with Fabius third. Prince John, a two length victor, returned $4.50 as favorite.

Skip Alexander Awarded $75,000 Crash Damages

DURHAM, N.C., Sept. 27 (AP)—Pro golfer Stewart (Skip) Alexander says he's satisfied with the court ruling awarding him $75,000 in damages for injuries suffered five years ago in the crash of a Civil Air Patrol plane.

Federal Judge Johnson J. Hayes ruled yesterday that the government was negligent both in maintenance and operation of the plane.

Alexander had sued for $200,000 damages.

Air Force Lt. Oliver Singleton, the pilot, and two others were killed when the plane crashed at Evansville, Ind., Sept. 24, 1950. Singleton was trying an emergency landing with both engines dead.

Alexander, badly burned, crawled from the wreckage. He spent two years in hospitals.

Fullmer And Boyd To Clash Tonight

CHICAGO, Sept. 27 (AP) — Gene Fullmer of West Jordan, Utah, and Chicago's Bobby Boyd—young middleweights who have compiled impressive records in a short time—have a 10-round showdown in Chicago Stadium tomorrow night.

Fullmer, 23, has lost only once in 33 pro starts and has scored 19 knockouts. He has been installed a 2½-1 favorite for the nationally televised scrap (ABC, 9 p.m. EST).

Boyd is regarded as one of the hardest hitters in the middleweight ranks with 20 knockouts in 34 wins. He has lost 6 fights and has 2 draws—making him a veteran of 42 pro fights at the age of 20.

Television And Radio

by John Crosby

Whose Town?

"Our Town," the second of the Thornton Wilder classics to reach television in the last couple of weeks, lost me for reasons I don't fully understand.

It's a very simple story, "Our Town," of love and marriage and death, a sort of reaffirmation of the older values and of the simpler enthusiasms of life in a small town in 1901. Its great unusualness when it was first presented on Broadway in 1938 was the very fact of its usualness.

A boy falls in love with a girl and, after an agony of shyness and a bit of misunderstanding normal among young people their age, they marry. And then she dies. And there is a scene in the cemetery with the dead reaching a final full understanding of life, something that is perhaps blessedly denied the living.

It's quite a story all right, of such Biblical simplicity that it would only occur to a first rate creative mind like Thornton Wilder's. I don't know where it went wrong on television exactly. Perhaps it needs a stage. Perhaps it needs an audience.

What it doesn't need, I feel strongly, is Frank Sinatra. Sinatra, a wonderful performer when the mood is on him, played the role of the narrator, originally created by Frank Craven, like a character out of "Guys and Dolls."

He seemed in a great hurry to get it over with, hurrying the long monologues along in a way that was decidedly unseemly and that set the whole pace of the play decidedly out of kilter. It was his task, among others, to assume the role of minister and to marry the lovers. I can offhand think of no actor in the world more unsuited for this reverent task and, when it is over and there is rejoicing among the towsnfolk, Mr. Sinatra cocked his hat over one eye like a character fresh out of Lindy's and said he was going to kiss the bride. I found it positively indecent.

It was certainly an imposing cast they assembled. Eva Marie Saint, as the young girl, was altogether lovely and poignana. As the fathers of the bride and groom, Ernest Truex and Paul Hartman were fine examples of small town crotchets and wisdom. The scene between Hartman and the bridegroom in which he tries to explain marriage — an impossible task — was a fine scene but not nearly so fine as it was in the play.

I am greatly troubled by all these reflections because I find on checking around a bit among people whose opinions I respect that there is a violent disagreement about this production. Some of them were deeply moved. Others were not only not moved but bored and angry.

This is going to be a great problem for those of us who write about television. There is no common denominator even among folk who have the same tastes and inclinations. You are in a thousand different living rooms and the mood varies in each. There is no audience in the ordinary sense, an audience which is swept away by a great performance or a great line, or picked up and carried along.

There is going to be disagreement. I just hope they don't settle on "The $64,000 Question" as a point of agreement.

As a production "Our Town" was lavish—in the sense that they spent a lot of money. But the songs by Jimmy (Now billed as James) Van Heusen and Sammy Cahn were awfully ordinary. Mr. Sinatra's voice—and I think he's a great ballad singer—was pretty bad. That is, it was pretty bad up to the last song, "Look to Your Heart," which is a pretty good song and Mr. Sinatra sounded —for a moment—as if he were paying attention and not trying simply to collect the money.

But I could be wrong. A lot of people thought it was wonderful.

C. A. Workers Hear Negotiation Report

Employes of the C. A. Department of Amcelle who are members of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, met Friday and Saturday at the union hall to hear a report of negotiations concerning manufacture of propionate acetate here.

Current meetings between company and union officials have been held to explore the possibility of increasing production at Amcelle with a consequent increase in employment.

Union officials have declined immediate comment on the proposal.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

North's diamond raise wasn't good, but when West elected to lead a club (instead of a heart), the raise and the resultant slam contract should have had a very profitable outcome.

Declarer, however, was very unhappy when he laid down the ace and king of trumps and East showed out. Now there was no earthly way of reaching the three beautiful club tricks on the table, and no way, either, of salvaging South's losers in the major suits. The contract was down two tricks.

If South had taken the pains to think he might have found a more realistic approach to the problem of the hard-to-reach dummy. It was logical to cash one high trump, but then South should have abandoned the idea of dropping the trump jack. He should have followed up with a low trump lead—the four to dummy's seven, or the eight to the nine—fully prepared to lose a trick to the jack in the interest of creating a sure entry to dummy. Obviously, with this simple line of play South would have gained three tricks (in clubs) for the one trick he sacrificed in trumps.

Building Totals Reach $1,168,136

Records at the building engineer's office showed yesterday that an estimated $58,945 in new construction, additions and improvements was amassed this month. This included 11 permits for new construction (five residences) and eight for additions and improvements, or a total of 19.

This compares with $124,850 last month.

Television And Radio

by John Crosby

Whose Town?

"Our Town," the second of the Thornton Wilder classics to reach television in the last couple of weeks, lost me for reasons I don't fully understand.

It's a very simple story, "Our Town," of love and marriage and death, a sort of reaffirmation of the older values and of the simpler enthusiasms of life in a small town in 1901. Its great unusualness when it was first presented on Broadway in 1938 was the very fact of its usualness.

A boy falls in love with a girl and, after an agony of shyness and a bit of misunderstanding normal among young people their age, they marry. And then she dies. And there is a scene in the cemetery with the dead reaching a final full understanding of life, something that is perhaps blessedly denied the living.

It's quite a story all right, of such Biblical simplicity that it would only occur to a first rate creative mind like Thornton Wilder's. I don't know where it went wrong on television exactly. Perhaps it needs a stage. Perhaps it needs an audience.

What it doesn't need, I feel strongly, is Frank Sinatra. Sinatra, a wonderful performer when the mood is on him, played the role of the narrator, originally created by Frank Craven, like a character out of "Guys and Dolls."

He seemed in a great hurry to get it over with, hurrying the long monologues along in a way that was decidedly unseemly and that set the whole pace of the play decidedly out of kilter. It was his task, among others, to assume the role of minister and to marry the lovers. I can offhand think of no actor in the world more unsuited for this reverent task and, when it is over and there is rejoicing among the towsnfolk, Mr. Sinatra cocked his hat over one eye like a character fresh out of Lindy's and said he was going to kiss the bride. I found it positively indecent.

It was certainly an imposing cast they assembled. Eva Marie Saint, as the young girl, was altogether lovely and poignana. As the fathers of the bride and groom, Ernest Truex and Paul Hartman were fine examples of small town crotchets and wisdom. The scene between Hartman and the bridegroom in which he tries to explain marriage — an impossible task — was a fine scene but not nearly so fine as it was in the play.

I am greatly troubled by all these reflections because I find on checking around a bit among people whose opinions I respect that there is a violent disagreement about this production. Some of them were deeply moved. Others were not only not moved but bored and angry.

This is going to be a great problem for those of us who write about television. There is no common denominator even among folk who have the same tastes and inclinations. You are in a thousand different living rooms and the mood varies in each. There is no audience in the ordinary sense, an audience which is swept away by a great performance or a great line, or picked up and carried along.

There is going to be disagreement. I just hope they don't settle on "The $64,000 Question" as a point of agreement.

As a production "Our Town" was lavish—in the sense that they spent a lot of money. But the songs by Jimmy (Now billed as James) Van Heusen and Sammy Cahn were awfully ordinary. Mr. Sinatra's voice—and I think he's a great ballad singer—was pretty bad. That is, it was pretty bad up to the last song, "Look to Your Heart," which is a pretty good song and Mr. Sinatra sounded —for a moment—as if he were paying attention and not trying simply to collect the money.

But I could be wrong. A lot of people thought it was wonderful.

C. A. Workers Hear Negotiation Report

Employes of the C. A. Department of Amcelle who are members of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, met Friday and Saturday at the union hall to hear a report of negotiations concerning manufacture of propionate acetate here.

Current meetings between company and union officials have been held to explore the possibility of increasing production at Amcelle with a consequent increase in employment.

Union officials have declined immediate comment on the proposal.

SRC Is Asked To Proceed With Walkway

Lonaconing Orders Sidewalk Built

The Town of Lonaconing has notified the Maryland State Roads Commission to proceed with the construction of a walkway to a bridge at the east end of the community, reporting it will provide a connecting sidewalk under powers provided in its charter, according to James S. Getty, town attorney.

The project, he said, has been held up for three months due to failure to agree on terms for the construction by the town of the needed sidewalk.

He said the State Roads Commission early this spring agreed to build the walkway on the outside of SRC Bridge No. 6055, on Main Street at the east end of Lonaconing, but requested the Mayor and Council to obtain right of ways and build a 180-foot stretch of pavement to connect the proposed walkway with existing sidewalks.

Lose Lives On Span

The bridge has been the scene of at least two fatal accidents, when vehicles struck the side of the bridge.

The span, Getty said, must be used by pedestrians and has been used, since the opening of Valley High School, by some 50 early school children. It must be crossed by members of St. Mary's Catholic Church.

The Town of Lonaconing, he said, has made repeated efforts to obtain right of ways from the two property owners residing along the proposed pavement, which would be built and paid for and maintained by the town.

Use Charter Power

Reporting failure to agree on terms, the town attorney recommended that the Mayor and Council construct the sidewalk without the consent of the owners, and charge them for the improvements in accordance with the town charter.

He said he has notified the SRC that the town has advertised for bids for the construction of the sidewalk, and requested the state to proceed with the pedestrian bridge in the interest of the safety of the people who live in the area.

Promise Maintenance

The Mayor and Council this spring drew up a proposed agreement under which the owners of the property would grant the city the right-of-way and easement during construction for the needed sidewalk and curb in consideration of a token payment of $1.

It called for the construction costs to be borne by the municipality, which was also to assume full responsibility and expense for its maintenance and repair, including snow removal, and otherwise keep it in good and safe condition.

The proposal also called for the Mayor and Councilmen to assume full responsibility for any accidents which might occur to any person using the sidewalk, "except such accidents as may be occasioned by the negligence of the parties of the first part"—the property owners.

It also called for the community to provide cement steps into the properties at the southerly side of the sidewalk.

Discuss Burning Old Buildings

Presbyterians To Remove Old Dwellings For Parking

Four old ramshackle dwellings along Cherry Place have been purchased by First Presbyterian Church and will soon be removed to make room for a congregational parking lot.

Besides providing additional parking space where it is at a minimum, especially on Sunday mornings, and removing some unsightly buildings, the project may also give city firemen training in checking fires in burning buildings.

Chief Parker was investigating the possibility that the old residences might be burned down without any danger to neighboring buildings. He said the plans are not yet complete. If it can be determined that the buildings can be burned without danger to other property, the structures will be razed in a week or 10 days.

The old buildings were purchased by the church from the Lowndes estate. At first it was thought they might have been built as slave quarters. However, Miss Elizabeth Lowndes said yesterday afternoon that her father, the late Governor Lloyd Lowndes, purchased the property in 1879 and the buildings originally served as stables. Three are of brick construction and the fourth is a frame building.

It is certain that one of the buildings cannot be burned because it is situated next to a garage. Ort explained that the Presbyterian Men's Club has adopted as its project the destruction of this one-story building.

The Cherry Place buildings all have been vacant since September 1 when the last of the families who had been living there moved to other dwellings.

Miss Ruth A. Clauson, president of the Allegany County Historical Society, has salvaged the windows from three of the four old buildings for display at the society's house on Washington Street.

Suit Filed In Insurance Dispute

Three sisters and a brother of James Jones, State Street, Lonaconing, yesterday filed an equity suit in Allegany County Circuit Court seeking an accounting of life insurance money from the estate of their father.

Elizabeth Miller, Ethel Llewellyn, Janet Brouch and Clarence W. Jones, through Attorneys Gorman E. Getty and William A. Gunter, filed the bill of complaint against James Jones.

Their father, Matthew A. Jones, died April 26, 1954. The bill of complaint states that under terms of his will James Jones and Clarence W. Jones, his sons, were to share equally from a $750 insurance policy carried by the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company and a death benefit payment by the Westvaco Employes Fund.

The complainants state that nevertheless the company paid $1,589 to James Jones including the $750 insurance policy and $839 death benefit. They contend that a change of beneficiary signature identified as that of their father, Matthew A. Jones, was not his.

In their suit the complainants petition the court to direct James Jones to account for the life insurance payment benefits and to deposit $750 with the court so that it might be divided among them.

Eleven Miles Of Streets Are Surfaced Here

Resort To Oiling As Fall Arrives

Light surface treatment has been provided for about 11 miles of unpaved streets in the city this summer, according to Street Commissioner William H. Buchholtz.

He said the areas which have been improved have generally been the longer streets, such as Shade's Lane, Holland Street and Patterson Avenue.

The work is being discontinued, he added, because of fall weather conditions.

He said the job of "getting Cumberland out of the mud" will be resumed as early as possible in the spring, in accordance with a four-year plan adopted this year by the department.

21 Miles To Go

Still to be improved are some 21 miles of unpaved streets.

The light surface treatment consists of shaping and rolling of the street surface, followed by the application of asphalt and stone. It is commonly known as tar and chips treatment.

Officials estimate that the surface will provide satisfactory service for about five years when it is placed on a satisfactory base and is not subject to heavy traffic.

Commissioner Buchholtz said the crews are now oiling some of the streets in the Mapleside area and will next go to the East Side to hit areas which are in urgent need of attention.

Grader Keeps Breaking

One of the reasons why the work is going slowly, he said, is that the department has only one grader suitable for heavy work, and it has broken down about five times in the past few weeks.

He urged citizens to "be patient," adding crews will get to all streets needing treatment as fast as they can.

The department has adopted a policy of providing light surface treatment for the unpaved areas as a more economical procedure in the long run. It will last for a number of years, they say, while oil must be applied each year, and requires extensive grading each year.

The Subdistrict organization is made up of the Methodist churches of Allegany County and the Cumberland area. About 200 Methodist youth are expected to attend the rally.

Narrows Plant Strike Continues

NARROWS, Va. (AP) — A strike at the Celanese Corp. of America plant entered the 14th day yesterday, and no progress toward a settlement was reported.

A union spokesman said last night the approximately 300 striking spinning department employes still refused to return to work despite pleas by the United Construction Workers. The strike was not authorized by the union.

The strike, which began Sept. 14, has resulted in the layoff of about 1,200 other employes. The plant employes about 2,000, including members of the office force.

The strikers claim the company put new work load assignments into effect in the spinning department which workers there found "impossible to operate" after a trial period of one day.

Two Vehicles Damaged In Crash Here

A Paris, Ky., motorist was found guilty of reckless driving and given a suspended sentence in Trial Magistrate's Court yesterday afternoon following a rather spectacular two-vehicle accident which occurred at the intersection of Henderson Avenue and Valley Street.

Given a suspended sentence was Herman Lawrence, of 330 Kingsley Court, Paris, who was traveling west on the avenue and collided with a truck driven by Lonnie Nesselrode, of 483 Valley Street, whose truck was traveling east on Valley Street.

Police said Lawrence went through a stop sign at the intersection and collided with the truck which was coming across the B&O tracks. Lawrence's car came to a stop against a gas station on the corner.

Considerable damage was done to both vehicles. Investigating officers were Lt. Raymond R. Johnston and Officer Carl Stouffer.

Members of the board of directors are Russler, Weber, Howard Douglas, Robertson, William Umstot, Mrs. Ruth Barnes and Smith who is completing the unexpired term of the late Charles Keech, who was also secretary.

The next meeting of the businessmen will be held on October 11 at 6:30 p.m. in the Grace Methodist Church hall.

Fire Prevention Week Plans Are Under Way Here

Check Lists Given To School Children

The Cumberland Fire Department is completing preparations for participation in Fire Prevention Week, which will be marked throughout the nation October 9-15.

Police and Fire Commissioner William V. Keegan is urging all residents to cooperate in making the week a successful one in Cumberland by checking over their properties for potential fire hazards.

A number of schools in the city have been visited by firemen, according to Chief Virgil A. Parker, who pointed out that home fire safety check lists are being distributed to the children to be taken home to their parents.

All schools will be visited prior to Fire Prevention Week. A number of posters will be placed throughout the city reminding residents of the observance.

Pamphlets also will be distributed. This year one folder deals with fire safety suggestions for parents and baby sitters.

As the winter season draws near, Chief Parker pointed out, there are increasing dangers of serious fires as home furnaces will be put back to use, and additional loads will be placed on electricity outlets.

Defective wiring each year is the cause of many destructive fires. Residents who find a fire hazard which may prove dangerous are asked to contact any of the four local fire stations and an officer will inspect the premises.

Among prevalent dangers at home are yard and garage hazards, housekeeping hazards, heating and cooking, oil heater, electrical, matches and careless smoking.

Last year the approximate damage caused by fires in the United States was $731,000,000. National Fire Prevention week, proclaimed annually by the President, is in commemoration of the disastrous Chicago fire which occurred October 9, 1871.

The observance is sponsored by the National Board of Fire Underwriters.

Rogers Heads Commission

John I. Rogers of Keyser has been elected new chairman of the Interstate Commission on the Potomac River Basin, succeeding George F. Hazelwood of this city.

The election occurred during a meeting in Washington, Monday.

At its session the commission also adopted a resolution calling on the Potomac Electric Power Company to build its projected power plant downstream from Washington. The company has proposed building the plant in Loudoun County, Va., a short distance above the Great Falls of the Potomac.

Should the company refuse to build the plant below the capital, the commission declared that "all necessary action" should be taken to prevent the construction of the plant "which represents a threat to the public drinking water supply and will also affect the aquatic life of the stream detrimentally."

Bailey Bridge Controversy Cited In Letter

Another communication was received yesterday by William H. Lemmert, president of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners, in the long-standing controversy over payment for the Bailey Bridge which has been in use at Corriganville since the spring of 1948.

It was a copy of a letter which G. Bates Chaires, district engineer for the State Roads Commission, had sent to E. F. Gleason, district engineer for the Federal Bureau of Public Roads in Baltimore. Gleason had written to Chaires last week asking for the latest development concerning payment for the bridge.

Chaires wrote that he had contacted Lemmert after getting Gleason's letter. Lemmert recalled that U. S. Senator J. Glenn Beall had planned to introduce legislation settling the matter. Senator Beall is now in Europe and Lemmert will confer with him upon his return.

The county had obtained the bridge in 1948 to replace one which had been washed out by high water. At that time it was understood that the bridge was war surplus and was being given to the county. It was not until 1951 that the Federal Bureau of Public Roads notified the county that payment was expected. The controversy over payment has gone one ever since.

Equity Suits Filed

A number of equity suits have been filed in Allegany County Circuit Court. The bills of complaint were titled Mary Agnes Hickle vs. Harry L. Hickle, Russell C. Diehl vs. Iona M. Diehl, William N. Carter vs. Ella R. Carter, Monta Jean Kyle vs. Joseph L. Kyle and Joan Clancy vs. John Clancy.

Polio Program Rules Sent To Area Physicians

Children 5 To 9 Get First Priority

Current plans for the use of poliomyelitis vaccine in Maryland are related in a letter sent by the Allegany County Health Department to all physicians.

The letters contain a joint statement of the Maryland State and Baltimore City Health Departments on the subject, according to Dr. Winter R. Frantz, county health officer.

When the public polio vaccination program begins this fall, 30 per cent of the available vaccine will be used for free administration by the Health Departments of the state and the other 70 per cent will be available to physicians, hospitals, drug stores and supply houses.

The statement said the Health Department will not resume shots for first and second graders until the polio peak is past, late this fall.

Maryland, it said, will follow the recommendation of the National Advisory Committee and give first priority to children from five to nine.

Age Group To Be Broadened

As the vaccine supply increases, the group will be broadened up and down until the ages of 1 to 19 years are reached, and pregnant women added.

Maryland's share in the $30,000,000 appropriated by Congress for purchase of polio vaccine, the report said, will enable 240,000 Maryland youngsters to receive an initial series of two Salk vaccine shots.

These are in addition to the 126,000 first and second graders enrolled in the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis program, who received first shots this spring and are to get their second injection this fall.

Eligible to receive shots under the federal program, in addition to first and second graders are:

Children in foster care or under the supervision of social agencies, children of parents under the Medical Aid program and children who customarily receive health supervision and immunization from health department clinics.

30-70 Allotment

Those able to pay physicians' fees for administration will get their shots from the 70 per cent of the vaccine reserved for sale to physicians.

The 30-70 allotment, the report said, was set up on the basis of past and present immunizing experience. The proportions are flexible and may be changed in either direction as needed.

The vaccine will be distributed to all parts of the state according to the percentage of unvaccinated persons and by population, and the State Health Department will get reports on the shipment of vaccine, which will be analyzed to determine if there are inequities in distribution.

Records will be sent to the health department of all persons vaccinated, and the data used to study progress in the fight against polio.

The current distribution plan, officials said, will be abandoned when supplies of vaccine are sufficient to meet demands.

County To Help Extinguish Fire

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday gave County Roads Supervisor J. Walker Chapman permission to use a power shovel owned by the county in an effort to extinguish a fire which is endangering a coal mine operation by George Walker at Midlothian.

A fire in the spoil bank has been burning for several weeks. The shovel will be used to cut a ditch and Walker will furnish the trucks to remove the burning material.

Chapman also received permission to sell a conveyor for which the county has no use if a reasonable price is offered for it. The supervisor plans to contact a prospective buyer.

Road workers also plan to remove a dead tree overhanging Vocke Road. Mrs. J. T. Lloyd wrote the commissioners that the tree constitutes a hazard because limbs fall off it onto the road at a point where a number of children wait for a school bus.

Vehicle Damages Utility Pole, Lines

A utility pole in the Bedford Road area was snapped by a vehicle yesterday and damage was done to a number of lines of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company.

Details of the accident were not available but a spokesman for the telephone company said the lines had been repaired yesterday afternoon and the pole will be replaced today by workmen.

State Police said they had no report on the accident.

Deaths

Miller, Charles R., 77, Westernport.

Riggs, Mrs. James M., 64, Rowlesburg.

Wage Talk Planned For Lonaconing Mill

Negotiations for a wage increase at the Lonaconing mill of the General Textile Mills will get under way in New York City Friday at 10:30 a.m., officials of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America (CIO), announced yesterday.

Narrows Plant Strike Continues

NARROWS, Va. (AP) — A strike at the Celanese Corp. of America plant entered the 14th day yesterday, and no progress toward a settlement was reported.

A union spokesman said last night the approximately 300 striking spinning department employes still refused to return to work despite pleas by the United Construction Workers. The strike was not authorized by the union.

The strike, which began Sept. 14, has resulted in the layoff of about 1,200 other employes. The plant employes about 2,000, including members of the office force.

The strikers claim the company put new work load assignments into effect in the spinning department which workers there found "impossible to operate" after a trial period of one day.

Eleven Miles Of Streets Are Surfaced Here

Resort To Oiling As Fall Arrives

Light surface treatment has been provided for about 11 miles of unpaved streets in the city this summer, according to Street Commissioner William H. Buchholtz.

He said the areas which have been improved have generally been the longer streets, such as Shade's Lane, Holland Street and Patterson Avenue.

The work is being discontinued, he added, because of fall weather conditions.

He said the job of "getting Cumberland out of the mud" will be resumed as early as possible in the spring, in accordance with a four-year plan adopted this year by the department.

21 Miles To Go

Still to be improved are some 21 miles of unpaved streets.

The light surface treatment consists of shaping and rolling of the street surface, followed by the application of asphalt and stone. It is commonly known as tar and chips treatment.

Officials estimate that the surface will provide satisfactory service for about five years when it is placed on a satisfactory base and is not subject to heavy traffic.

Commissioner Buchholtz said the crews are now oiling some of the streets in the Mapleside area and will next go to the East Side to hit areas which are in urgent need of attention.

Grader Keeps Breaking

One of the reasons why the work is going slowly, he said, is that the department has only one grader suitable for heavy work, and it has broken down about five times in the past few weeks.

He urged citizens to "be patient," adding crews will get to all streets needing treatment as fast as they can.

The department has adopted a policy of providing light surface treatment for the unpaved areas as a more economical procedure in the long run. It will last for a number of years, they say, while oil must be applied each year, and requires extensive grading each year.

Two Vehicles Damaged In Crash Here

A Paris, Ky., motorist was found guilty of reckless driving and given a suspended sentence in Trial Magistrate's Court yesterday afternoon following a rather spectacular two-vehicle accident which occurred at the intersection of Henderson Avenue and Valley Street.

Police said Lawrence went through a stop sign at the intersection and collided with the truck which was coming across the B&O tracks. Lawrence's car came to a stop against a gas station on the corner.

Fire Prevention Week Plans Are Under Way Here

Check Lists Given To School Children

The Cumberland Fire Department is completing preparations for participation in Fire Prevention Week, which will be marked throughout the nation October 9-15.

Police and Fire Commissioner William V. Keegan is urging all residents to cooperate in making the week a successful one in Cumberland by checking over their properties for potential fire hazards.

A number of schools in the city have been visited by firemen, according to Chief Virgil A. Parker, who pointed out that home fire safety check lists are being distributed to the children to be taken home to their parents.

All schools will be visited prior to Fire Prevention Week. A number of posters will be placed throughout the city reminding residents of the observance.

Pamphlets also will be distributed. This year one folder deals with fire safety suggestions for parents and baby sitters.

As the winter season draws near, Chief Parker pointed out, there are increasing dangers of serious fires as home furnaces will be put back to use, and additional loads will be placed on electricity outlets.

Defective wiring each year is the cause of many destructive fires. Residents who find a fire hazard which may prove dangerous are asked to contact any of the four local fire stations and an officer will inspect the premises.

Among prevalent dangers at home are yard and garage hazards, housekeeping hazards, heating and cooking, oil heater, electrical, matches and careless smoking.

Last year the approximate damage caused by fires in the United States was $731,000,000. National Fire Prevention week, proclaimed annually by the President, is in commemoration of the disastrous Chicago fire which occurred October 9, 1871.

The observance is sponsored by the National Board of Fire Underwriters.

Rogers Heads Commission

John I. Rogers of Keyser has been elected new chairman of the Interstate Commission on the Potomac River Basin, succeeding George F. Hazelwood of this city.

The election occurred during a meeting in Washington, Monday.

At its session the commission also adopted a resolution calling on the Potomac Electric Power Company to build its projected power plant downstream from Washington. The company has proposed building the plant in Loudoun County, Va., a short distance above the Great Falls of the Potomac.

Should the company refuse to build the plant below the capital, the commission declared that "all necessary action" should be taken to prevent the construction of the plant "which represents a threat to the public drinking water supply and will also affect the aquatic life of the stream detrimentally."

Bailey Bridge Controversy Cited In Letter

Another communication was received yesterday by William H. Lemmert, president of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners, in the long-standing controversy over payment for the Bailey Bridge which has been in use at Corriganville since the spring of 1948.

It was a copy of a letter which G. Bates Chaires, district engineer for the State Roads Commission, had sent to E. F. Gleason, district engineer for the Federal Bureau of Public Roads in Baltimore. Gleason had written to Chaires last week asking for the latest development concerning payment for the bridge.

Chaires wrote that he had contacted Lemmert after getting Gleason's letter. Lemmert recalled that U. S. Senator J. Glenn Beall had planned to introduce legislation settling the matter. Senator Beall is now in Europe and Lemmert will confer with him upon his return.

The county had obtained the bridge in 1948 to replace one which had been washed out by high water. At that time it was understood that the bridge was war surplus and was being given to the county. It was not until 1951 that the Federal Bureau of Public Roads notified the county that payment was expected. The controversy over payment has gone one ever since.

Polio Program Rules Sent To Area Physicians

Children 5 To 9 Get First Priority

Current plans for the use of poliomyelitis vaccine in Maryland are related in a letter sent by the Allegany County Health Department to all physicians.

The letters contain a joint statement of the Maryland State and Baltimore City Health Departments on the subject, according to Dr. Winter R. Frantz, county health officer.

When the public polio vaccination program begins this fall, 30 per cent of the available vaccine will be used for free administration by the Health Departments of the state and the other 70 per cent will be available to physicians, hospitals, drug stores and supply houses.

The statement said the Health Department will not resume shots for first and second graders until the polio peak is past, late this fall.

Maryland, it said, will follow the recommendation of the National Advisory Committee and give first priority to children from five to nine.

Age Group To Be Broadened

As the vaccine supply increases, the group will be broadened up and down until the ages of 1 to 19 years are reached, and pregnant women added.

Maryland's share in the $30,000,000 appropriated by Congress for purchase of polio vaccine, the report said, will enable 240,000 Maryland youngsters to receive an initial series of two Salk vaccine shots.

These are in addition to the 126,000 first and second graders enrolled in the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis program, who received first shots this spring and are to get their second injection this fall.

Eligible to receive shots under the federal program, in addition to first and second graders are:

Children in foster care or under the supervision of social agencies, children of parents under the Medical Aid program and children who customarily receive health supervision and immunization from health department clinics.

30-70 Allotment

Those able to pay physicians' fees for administration will get their shots from the 70 per cent of the vaccine reserved for sale to physicians.

The 30-70 allotment, the report said, was set up on the basis of past and present immunizing experience. The proportions are flexible and may be changed in either direction as needed.

The vaccine will be distributed to all parts of the state according to the percentage of unvaccinated persons and by population, and the State Health Department will get reports on the shipment of vaccine, which will be analyzed to determine if there are inequities in distribution.

Records will be sent to the health department of all persons vaccinated, and the data used to study progress in the fight against polio.

The current distribution plan, officials said, will be abandoned when supplies of vaccine are sufficient to meet demands.

County To Help Extinguish Fire

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday gave County Roads Supervisor J. Walker Chapman permission to use a power shovel owned by the county in an effort to extinguish a fire which is endangering a coal mine operation by George Walker at Midlothian.

A fire in the spoil bank has been burning for several weeks. The shovel will be used to cut a ditch and Walker will furnish the trucks to remove the burning material.

Chapman also received permission to sell a conveyor for which the county has no use if a reasonable price is offered for it. The supervisor plans to contact a prospective buyer.

Road workers also plan to remove a dead tree overhanging Vocke Road. Mrs. J. T. Lloyd wrote the commissioners that the tree constitutes a hazard because limbs fall off it onto the road at a point where a number of children wait for a school bus.

A utility pole in the Bedford Road area was snapped by a vehicle yesterday and damage was done to a number of lines of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company.

State Police said they had no report on the accident.
